GOV. ROOSEVELT MAKES PLEDGE TO SLASH TAXES

Addresses Farmers of Four States.

An old fashioned torchlight parade is planned as a feature of Chicago's welcome to Gov. Roosevelt tonight. (Details on page 8.)

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—In this agricultural land, a land changed the last few years from prosperous and pastoral content to a countryside peopled in part by farmers in open revolt and in other part by farm families driven from their acres by debt and taxation, Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight brought his promises of a "new deal."

The Democratic aspirant for the presidency set forth two aims for ending what he termed the slavery of American sons of the soil.

He put as the first of these aims the lowering of the farmers' tax burden and as the second the raising of the prices of the farmers' products.

Makes Attack on Tariff.

And the Roosevelt hope for raising these prices led him into a condemnation of the Smoot-Hawley tariff and a promise that he would modify the tariff so as to restore world trade, to reopen foreign markets for the farmers, but that he would not have it ever lowered far enough to endanger the preservation of prosperity in American industry, or the state of life enjoyed by American workers.

Taxation is to these farmers, who trekked here today from sections of four states, Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota, and Nebraska, a burning blight almost as severe as the blight of fallen prices.

Cheers rose to the clear sky above the Sioux City ball park, where the meeting was held, as Gov. Roosevelt pledged to devote himself to a cutting down not only of the federal tax load but of state and local expenditures as well.

Discusses Tax Slashing.

The New York governor—who always tells farmers that he is himself a farmer, losing money at it along the Hudson and in Georgia—discussed the range of possibility for slicing all tax bills, and he said he would work for this end, for increasing efficiency of government, for "getting the most public service for every dollar paid by taxation."

His voice rang out into the night as he added with emphasis:

"This I pledge you, and nothing I have said in the campaign transcends in importance this covenant with the taxpayers of this country."

Then he plied up charges that the Hoover government at Washington has been "the greatest spending administration in peace times in all our history," an administration under which bureaucracy has thrived at the expense of the taxpayers.

Makes Charge Against Hoover.

Mr. Roosevelt charged that President Hoover promised during his 1928 campaign to consolidate and simplify the federal bureaucracy, and that today, again a candidate, he is still promising.

The Democratic candidate did not go deeply into his own plan for dealing with the federal bureaucracy, explaining that he deemed the subject of such vast importance that later in the campaign he will deliver another speech setting forth fully his pledges for governmental economy.

Mr. Roosevelt's arguments on the tariff sought to convince his farmer hearers that the Smoot-Hawley tariff, which he has referred to bitingly as the "Grundy" tariff, has raised the prices of industrial manufactured goods, which the farmer must buy, but that it has directly lowered the prices of farm products.

Blames G. O. P. Tariff.

The candidate went so far as to lay the depression itself in large part to the Republican tariff. He said that when the United States withdrew its credit from foreign nations in 1929 "the world began to totter," and that in 1930, with the imposition of the "Grundy" tariff, "the tottering structure tumbled."

Emphatically reiterating that a lowering of the tariff would not interfere with the American workers' scale of living, Mr. Roosevelt charged that the tariff had been raised by Republican "logrolling" out of all reason and for the selfish, grasping interests of industrialists.

But the candidate gave assurance that in lowering the tariff walls they would not be scaled off to any point

YANKEES WHIP CUBS, 5-2, FOR SECOND IN ROW

Chicago Sees World Series Tomorrow.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

New York, Sept. 29.—The guns of the Yankees boomed forth with some more devastating shots today and the Cubs, the sensational Lonnie Warneke among them, went staggering into the ranks of the vanquished in the second battle of the world series.

The second consecutive defeat for the champions of the National league was administered by a score of 5 to 2, and there were no heroics involved to arouse the fervor of some 50,000 spectators. It was just a ball game that seemed as good as concluded as soon as the first inning was reeled off.

It's Up to Charley Root.

The Yanks can hit when it means something, which everybody suspected. The Cubs can't hit in the pinches, which was another suspicion. It was that way today. It was that way yesterday. And it may be the same in two more playing days unless Charley Root, helped by what his mates usually do on their own home field, can come up with a brilliant performance against the veteran George Pipgras in the Chicago opener Saturday.

There was something about Warneke this afternoon that indicated there is some basis for the old argument that a world series assignment for a freshman is an invitation to disaster. Warneke stood the National league on its beam end without trembling. But today he was visibly fretful as he reached his big moment. He started without control, and the always eager, pressing Yankees used this as a stepping stone to a pair of runs in the opening inning. From then on Warneke was whipped. He did restrict his foes exclusively to singles, but the absence of the usual homers, doubles and triples in no way hindered the American leaguers in their plans to annex their tenth straight victory in world series endeavor.

Walks Are Big Help to Yanks.

The harm that passes can do when given to a hitting club was demonstrated vividly. Warneke gave four of them, one intentional. The three he gave became runs because hits followed. The one he was ordered to give so as to get a hand picked victim proved a boomerang, because the hand picked victim uncorked a single that drove in two teammates when the score was tied at two apiece in the third inning.

The game was gone then for sure. Warneke did fairly well thereafter, but it was mainly because the mauling Yanks were dumb on the bases and because the Cubs were able to display some of the infielding skill which made them famous in their own league.

Eight Cubs Strike Out.

Gomez apparently was no steadier than when the American league clubs knocked him about freely. But he had a fast ball that helped him disprove the theory about freshmen in important jobs. Gomez was hit, but he kept the hits scattered. Because he was fast he didn't need control. The Cubs swung without waiting. That's why only one walked and eight of them fanned. Ten fanned yesterday. Eighteen in two days provides a hint that the Chicagoans may be out to duplicate the famous blind swinging they did in the 1929 event. And with a little fielding from the erratic Frank Crosetti and from the ageing Babe Ruth the Cubs might never have scored at all.

In the Chicago attack only Riggs Stephenson stood out. He hit one ball that with Ruth's infirmities gave him the extra base needed to put him in a position to score, which he did. He hit another that except for the one startling defensive play by the Yanks would have driven in a man who had profited by Ruth's old age. And in the eighth inning he delivered again in the start of a rally that a hitting team would have forced against the pitching of the left handed Gomez.

Stephenson delivered hits in each of the two innings in which one other Cub hit safely. Manager Grimm came through with two hits that developed nothing, and in his one appearance in a pinch he flopped out.

The game opened with Gomez booming through a fast ball on which Herman almost broke his back, but the second pitch of the day was something different. Herman sent it spinning

32 LOSE LIVES IN NORTH PACIFIC SHIP DISASTER

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Three men, only survivors of a crew of 35 of the ill-fated freighter Nevada, were safely aboard a rescue vessel in the far North Pacific tonight, saved from the death which had overtaken their companions in a "graveyard" for lost ships.

After many hours in which small boats of the Oregon Maru, a Japanese freighter, and the President Madison had fought through high seas to reach the rocky shores of Amatignak island, which the survivors had reached, a radio message from the President Madison told of their rescue.

"Have rescued three only survivors of Nevada. Now hoisting boats. Details later," it read.

Within a short time another message said the Madison had left the scene and headed for Victoria, B. C., its overnight dash through stormy weather completed.

The three men rescued were James Phorsen, cadet, who asked that Mrs. E. Sturgeon, Portland, Ore., be notified; Fritz De Wall, able bodied seaman, no address, and Lucena N. Decanay, ordinary seaman, Rizal, Manila.

In an additional message the President Madison confirmed the loss of the remaining officers and crew of the stricken Nevada. It said:

"Rest of crew drowned. The rescue work of our officers and crew was magnificent. CAPTAIN R. J. HEALY."

The Nevada, bound from Portland to Japan, went aground Tuesday.

Teachers Vote Down Plan to Strike for Pay

Proposals for a general strike unless they are paid their back salaries were voted down last night by the High School Teachers' association and earlier in the day by teacher delegates from 100 schools on the west and north sides of the city. Ald. Wiley W. Mills [37th] and Ald. James B. Waller [43d] urged the teachers to remain at their posts.

Teachers and other school board employes have been paid in cash for this year up to April 1. The school board now owes them more than $16,000,000, of which nearly $13,000,000 is due the teachers.

"You will be making a serious mistake," advised Ald. Mills, speaking to the high school teachers who met at the Woman's City club. "Every effort is being made to obtain a pay day for you. It would be better to work without getting money than to start looking for jobs."

Calls for Expressions.

Jeannette Worthen, a teacher at the Bowen High school, had introduced a resolution calling for sentiment from other teacher organizations on the general strike. She pointed out that the board of education is penniless and there has been no improvement in the pay situation.

"The tax feature of the 'N. S. F.' check law which has prevented the sale of school board tax warrants is about to be repealed," said Ald. Mills. "I think you teachers should wait now and see what the bankers do."

"Yes, I think we ought to sit tight and wait a while," said Mrs. Gertrude Gardner, a teacher at the Farragut Junior High school. "Mayor Cermak has no control over the board of education," another teacher declared, "and a strike might injure our tenure and pension rights."

New Power for Board.

Robert Keenan, a teacher at the Bowen High school, said there was talk in Springfield of drafting a law that would empower the school board to close the schools when salaries are in arrears 60 days. Another proposal, he said, would permit a teacher to quit work when her salary had not been paid without endangering her pension and tenure rights.

The meeting earlier in the day was held at the Olivet Institute, where Ald. Waller spoke. The danger to pensions and tenure rights was stressed by those opposed to the strike, after which the strike proposal was voted down.

The joint conference of 27 teacher organizations, of which Charles Stillman is chairman, voted to make plans for a mass meeting of teachers, at which political candidates would be given an opportunity to suggest remedied for the pay situation. The conference met in the afternoon at the Principals' club.

CAN'T TAKE CASH TO GRAVE; RICH INDIAN SPENDS IT

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Jackson Barnett, 90 year old ward of the government, testified in federal commissioner's court today that he wants to spend all he can of his Oklahoma oil fortune because he "can't do anything" with his money after he dies.

The wealthy Creek Indian, adjudged incompetent two decades ago, was on the stand in a deposition hearing preliminary to three federal court trials to recover for him $1,000,000 — more than half of which he has given to his white wife. He was asked about the occasion he expressed a desire to give an Indian school liberal sums from a $200,000 trust fund established for him by his wife.

Barnett said he intended to enjoy this trust money himself, and that what was left could go to the Indian school.

Previously, Barnett, off the stand, had expressed impatience with the hearing, which for several days has kept him away from his favorite pastime as a volunteer traffic director at a fashionable boulevard intersection where his palatial colonial home is located.

Quebec Profits $56,221,523 from 11 Years' Rum Control

QUEBEC, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Since the Quebec liquor commission was established in 1921 and liquor stores were set up in the province 11 years ago, a revenue of $56,221,523 has been derived through the sale of liquor, according to statistics compiled by the commission and announced today. The sum does not include revenue derived from hotel, club and restaurant licenses, which would bring the total revenue close to $75,000,000.

Cuba Nabs 5 as Slayers of Senate Chief

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 29.—The capture of five men accused of the gang murder Tuesday of Dr. Clements Vazquez Bello topped off a day of terror for Havana and Cuba.

Police dipped into Cuba's upper social and business strata and even into the inner political circle, made up of government officials supposedly friendly to Machado, in the course of the investigations of the week's assassination orgy. About twenty government employes were nabbed, questioned as to the six murders, and held. The same fate was suffered by a former Rotary club president.

Oppositionists Hide.

Leaders of forces opposed to President Machado's government hastened to the safety of foreign legations today. Police and troops patrolled the coast to prevent the escape of assassins. All Cubans were forbidden to sail from the country. The newspaper Heraldo de Cuba was suspended for printing news of arrests, and its general manager and managing editor were imprisoned. Censorship of cables was imminent.

Six priests of the Catholic Colon cemetery were thrust in jail, accused of having knowledge of the placing of mines of dynamite in the cemetery where it was believed Dr. Bello was to be buried.

Dr. Domingo F. Ramos, a member of the faculty of Havana university medical school, heretofore aloof from politics, planned to appeal tomorrow to the United States charge d'affaires and consul general to request the United States to intervene.

Murders Opened Tuesday.

The train of events began Tuesday when a gang of assassins in an automobile poured a machine gun volley into the car containing the senate president, stanch Machado ally, and his chauffeur. Soon afterward the three Freyre de Andrade brothers and Representative Angel Aguiar, opposition leaders, were slain, supposedly in retaliation for Dr. Bello's killing.

Yesterday's discovery of the mining of the Colon cemetery disclosed that Bello's death probably marked the opening of a scheme to blow up Machado, his ministers, and many other officials as they gathered at the funeral. The widow's request for the body to be buried at Santa Clara, instead of Colon cemetery, frustrated the plot.

Secretary of the Interior Octavio Zubizarreta this afternoon asserted that police had captured five men who are believed to be Dr. Bello's slayers. One of them, it was learned, is Louis Arturo Belto, son of the register of deeds of Havana. They are accused also of the dynamite plot.

Editor Seized.

The Heraldo de Cuba, which was purchased last summer by Secretary of State Orestes Ferrara, published an extra edition tonight announcing the capture. Immediately police seized Luis J. Wangumelt, managing editor, and Miguel Ordorica, general manager. Zubizarreta ordered the indefinite suspension of the paper, the extra edition was confiscated, and army forces took charge of the plant.

Representative Carlos Manuel de la Cruz, opposition leader who yesterday predicted the end of the republic as the culmination of the assassination orgy, took refuge with Dr. Pedro Cue Abreu of the University law faculty in the Uruguay legation today. Former Senator Ricardo Dois Arango is harbored in the British legation.

The chaplain of Colon cemetery and five other priests were arrested in connection with the cemetery plot. Investigators charged that the clergymen owning and managing the cemetery knew that oppositionists had been preparing nightly for the dynamite mines for five weeks.

Meanwhile Dr. Bello's funeral was held this afternoon at Santa Clara.

$344,720 'LOAN' IN DUMMY STOCK TRADING BARED

Other Deals Shown by Inquiry.

Further revelations were made yesterday in the federal court and state's attorney's investigations of the crash of the two billion dollar Insull utility empire. They were:

1 Disclosure of a list of 318 politicians, financiers, utility officials and other prominent persons, as well as corporations, who formed a syndicate to purchase 115,000 shares of common stock in the defunct Insull Utility Investments, Inc., at $50 a share on Aug. 15, 1930, when the market price was $59.25. The syndicate members made initial payments of 5 per cent and later were called upon for another 15 per cent of the purchase price, all of which they lost when the syndicate liquidated. This was brought out in the court of Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley at a hearing to discover assets of the company.

Dummy Account Revealed.

2 The discovery by State's Attorney Swanson and his special investigating staff of the fact that Martin Insull, brother of Samuel Insull, who built the utility empire, traded in a dummy brokerage account and used the money and collateral of various of the utility companies to cover his apparent private dealings.

The testimony of another witness to the assistant prosecutors to the effect that Martin Insull allowed the collateral of one of the utilities to be given to a friend to cover the friend's waning credit account at a bank.

An indication from Assistant State's Attorneys Charles Bellows, John Hampton, John O'Hora, and Voyle Johnson that they have about reached a point in the investigation where a grand jury inquiry is just around the corner; perhaps next week. Details page 2, column 5.

Politicians on the List.

The syndicate list of Insull investors in the defunct Insull Utility Investments, Inc., came out, as has been stated, before Federal Judge Lindley. It includes, as well as many prominent politicians, capitalists, and industrial leaders, officials of the various Insull companies and of concerns with which the Insull companies did business. Among the investors listed were:

Ald. James B. Bowler, $12,500; Mayor Anton J. Cermak, $35,000; Stanley Field, $75,000; Ernest R. Graham, architect, $75,000; Giacomo Rimini and his wife, Rosa Raisa, formerly of the Chicago Civic Opera, who subscribed to a total of $20,000; Pat Roche, investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, $25,000; Frank L. Smith, Republican national committeeman, $100,000; James Simpson, chairman of the board of the three large Insull operating companies, $75,000; Edward F. Swift, $75,000; State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, $25,000; Moe Rosenberg, west side politician, $25,000; Melvin Traylor, president of the First National bank, $25,000; Owen D. Young of the General Electric company, $75,000; Joseph Tumulty, who was secretary to President Woodrow Wilson, $25,000; Clement Studebaker, $75,000, and David Shanahan, speaker of the Illinois house of representatives, $50,000.

Present Syndicate List.

The Insull syndicate list, being the second disclosure of favored investors who were permitted to purchase stock at less than the market price, was presented in Judge Lindley's court by Attorneys Lewis F. Jacobson and Harold F. White, representing the petitioning creditors in the bankruptcy proceedings against Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and Corporation Securities company.

The underwriting plan, by which the investors hoped to make big profits by trading in the common stock, but actually lost every nickel they advanced as marginal payments, was explained by John F. O'Keefe, secretary and treasurer of the company.

In August of 1930 Insull Utility Investments, Inc., issued 600,000 shares of common stock at $50 a share, offering the whole to original stockholders. Only 485,000 shares were taken and on Aug. 15, 1930, the syndicate was formed to underwrite the remaining 115,000 shares. Insull, Son & Co., a subsidiary of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., became manager of the syndicate.

Quoted at $59 a Share.

At the time of the formation of the syndicate the stock was quoted at $59 a share, and thus the right to buy at $50 offered the members an attractive investment. On Aug. 1, two weeks before the syndicate was formed, the stock sold at $61 and at one point previously had reached a high of $147 a share.

The syndicate members were required to make an initial payment of 5 per cent for "working capital," according to O'Keefe, and were subject to future calls for additional margin. The stock was not delivered to the individuals, but was retained by the management for trading purposes.

Some months after the forming of the syndicate—Mr. O'Keefe did not recall the exact date—a second call, for per cent of the contract price, was sent out, but the market price of the stock had dropped sharply and about 80 per cent of the purchasers refused to pay up. There is still outstanding and due Insull, Son & Co. some $3,500,000 on the second or final call, according to O'Keefe's testimony, and the lawyers hope to collect this for the creditors of Insull Utility Investments, Inc. Insull, Son & Co. is owned entirely by Insull Utility Investments.

All of Stock Sold.

It was also brought out through examination of O'Keefe that the syndicate liquidated in February by selling the entire lot of stock to Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and Corporation Securities, Inc., at $40 a share. The stock is now worthless.

The disposal of the stock released the syndicate members from their obligation to pay the full amount of the $50 purchase price, according to Attorney Jacobson, but he said they were obligated to pay 20 per cent, or $10 a share, which was the total amount demanded under the terms of the contract.

Prior to the disclosure of the syndicate list Attorney Jacobson examined O'Keefe and P. J. McEnroe, vice president of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., concerning loans from banks and the pledging of securities. When he had finished he declared:

"I have laid the foundation for the recovery for the creditors, holders of debentures, of approximately 50 per cent of the securities pledged to the banks, with a present market value of about $15,000,000, because they were wrongfully pledged."

Tell of Millions in Loans.

The witnesses told of loans totaling $48,000,000 obtained in 1929, $40,000,000 of which was returned after the sale of $6,000,000 series A and $16,000,000 series B debentures. They also testified that subsequent loans totaling $40,000,000 were obtained from New York and Chicago banks in 1930 and 1931, and under questioning O'Keefe admitted that more than half of the company's total assets were pledged as security.

"Wasn't that a violation of a clause in the series B debentures?" asked Attorney Jacobson.

"I don't believe I'm competent to answer that," replied O'Keefe.

Plans to Issue Subpoenas.

Attorney Jacobson said that in due course of time he would ask the court to issue subpoenas for Samuel Insull, who is in Paris; Samuel Insull Jr., who is on his way there, and Martin J. Insull, who is in Canada. They may ignore the subpoenas because they are beyond the jurisdiction of the federal court, and if they do this the lawyer will ask the right to take depositions, he said.

The bankruptcy hearings in the Insull Utility Investments and Corporation Securities cases which began yesterday will be prolonged. Both Mc Enroe and O'Keefe were instructed to returr with books and memoranda concerning meetings of directors and committees, bank loans and agreements.

Prior to the disclosure of the second list it was brought out that the 205 persons on the list made public last week by State's Attorney Swanson subscribed for 250,000 shares of common stock which Samuel Insull was obligated to purchase. Under the terms of a contract by which he received 40,000 shares of preferred stock, Mr. Insull was obligated to purchase 250,000 shares of the common stock of Insull Utility Investments at $12 a share.

Mayor Issues Statement.

Mayor Cermak made this statement concerning his subscription to the 700 shares of stock, which resulted in the loss of his margin:

"At that time I was not mayor of the city of Chicago and was not a candidate. I was president of the county board, and had no Insull connections. I went into that pool at the socilitation of a number of my friends in business, with the understanding that the stock was being underwritten to protect the market of all Insull securities.

"The enterprise failed, but had it been successful thousands of small stockholders would have benefited. I paid up when I bought it and I don't owe them a cent. I didn't regard the matter as a favor at the time and I don't see it that way now. It was a sucker list if there ever was one."

Newspaper Man on List.

One of those named on the second list is Oscar E. Hewitt. Mr. Hewitt had been a member of the news staff of THE TRIBUNE for fourteen years. No one on this newspaper was aware of the fact that he was one of the subscribers to the syndicate. Immediately on learning the fact THE TRIBUNE with deep regret released Mr. Hewitt from its staff. He said he had been given the opportunity to join the syndicate by an old personal friend of many years' standing and had subscribed—without thought of the implication that in so doing he was accepting a favor from the Insulls. Mr. Hewitt fulfilled his obligation to the syndicate by paying the full 20 per cent assessment, which in the case of many of the subscribers was not done.

NEW LIST OF INSULL INVESTORS

The following is a list made public yesterday of Insull investors—companies and individuals—who purchased common stock in Insull Utility Investments, Inc., with marginal payments of 5 to 20 per cent of the quoted price. TWO NIECES SUE TO BREAK WILL OF EMILY MOULTON

A petition to set aside the will of Mrs. Emily Moulton, widow of a G. A. R. veteran, was filed yesterday in Waukegan, where Mrs. Moulton died on June 12, 1931.

Her estate amounted to $219,954. She bequeathed $66,650 each to the Waukegan Y. M. C. A., the Waukegan Y. W. C. A., and the Methodist Deaconess orphanage of Lake Bluff. She also left $10,000 in real estate to the Waukegan park district, and willed $1,000 each to nine nieces and nephews, including Louis J. Yager, former mayor of Waukegan.

Two nieces, Mrs. Mabel Smart of Waukegan and Mrs. Cora Foster of Providence, R. I., asked that the will be declared invalid on the grounds that Mrs. Moulton was of unsound mind, due to advanced age, and that the beneficiaries used undue influence.

KREUGER'S CASH GIFT TO BROTHER ORDERED SEIZED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 29.—The court which is investigating the Ivar Kreuger financial crash, today ordered the confiscation of 2½ million kroner (about $444,500 at the current rate of exchange), now in the possession of Thorstein Kreuger, the dead match king's brother. The action was taken on the petition of the Kreuger bankruptcy commission.

The commission said that it regarded the money as a gift to Thorstein Kreuger in order to assure Kreuger's family of financial independence.

During the proceedings Ivar Kreuger's diary was produced. It contained entries dating up to Dec. 21. They disclosed the match king's intention of assuring the future well-being of persons close to him. Despite the fact that the entries are brief and that the persons are indicated only by initials, most of the notes were deciphered. The Kreuger brothers, Thorstein and Ernst, and a brother-in-law, Gunnar Ekstrom, were named.

REVEALS DUMMY STOCK ACCOUNT OF M. J. INSULL

Tells of $344,720 Paid from Company Funds.

While the Insull syndicate list was coming out in Federal Judge Lindley's court yesterday State's Attorney Swanson's inquiry into the Insull financial tangle was going forward in the Criminal Court building.

Washington Flexner, president of the Lincoln Printing company, in which Martin Insull had a "nominal financial interest," gave the state prosecutors information regarding a dummy brokerage account carried in his name for Martin Insull. His story of his financial dealings with Martin Insull was made public by State's Attorney Swanson substantially as follows:

Flexner for some time prior to October, 1931, maintained trading accounts with Paul H. Davis & Co., La Salle street brokers. Early in 1931 Martin Insull requested that Flexner use these accounts for his 'Insull's] trading. These accounts were for the personal transactions of Martin Insull and not for the benefit of any of the Insull companies. One of the accounts was used exclusively for the deals of Martin Insull, the witness said, adding that Insull did some trading through his [Flexner's] other accounts as well.

Insull Furnishes Collateral.

At the time the trades were made the collateral put up with the brokers was furnished by Martin Insull. About Oct. 3, 1931, the Davis company notified Flexner that his accounts were not satisfactory and that unless other collateral was forthcoming the accounts would be sold out. The complaint was that the collateral was made up entirely of Insull stocks.

Flexner said he communicated with Martin Insull and that the latter told him that he would give him the money to take up the securities put up as collateral. Flexner said he was told to get the collateral and take it to the Middle West offices and get a check in return from Oliver E. McCormick, treasurer of the Middle West group and vice president of the Middle West Utilities company.

Flexner delivered the stock as requested and in return was given a series of checks for $344,720. These checks were put in Flexner's own bank account and in return he made his own check and turned it over to the brokers. The stock delivered to Oliver McCormick in turn was resold to twelve of the Insull subsidiaries, with the exception of $61,220 worth of it. This latter apparent loss was charged off "to the investments accounts."

Treasurer Is Questioned.

McCormick was called in and questioned about the deal revealed by Flexner, whose printing concern had a monopoly on the printing for the Insull concerns.

He said, according to the prosecutors, that the only knowledge he had of the transaction was that on a Saturday afternoon about Oct. 3, 1931, Martin Insull came to him and said that certain securities were up on margin and that "we would like" to get them back and redistribute them among the subsidiary companies. In order to do this, McCormick said, Insull told him it would be necessary to have the Middle West company advance the money.

McCormick told the prosecutors, they said, that every new issue of Insull stock was underwritten and that invariably the following participated in the transactions: Insull, Son & Co., Inc., of Chicago, of Canada, and of London; Halsey, Stuart & Co., the Chicago Music Foundations (the Opera), Corporation Securities, and Marshall Sampsell, one of the Insull officials. The latter still owes a debt of $12,000 for some of his stocks, McCormick said.

Will Give More Facts.

McCormick also furnished Auditor John J. Bailey of the state's attorney's staff with information regarding the interchange of stocks and securities between the various Insull concerns. He is to appear before the prosecutors again tomorrow with additional data.

In addition to the amount revealed yesterday as having been withdrawn from Middle West funds to take up the collateral deposited for Martin Insull's accounts, there is a previously revealed debt of $168,000 owed to the company by Martin Insull.

The deal in which Martin Insull let a friend use collateral of one of the utilities was revealed in admissions made to the prosecutors by Charles E. Scott, president of the Public Safety bureau, an Insull insurance subsidiary.

Scott said that in 1930 he was notified that he would be permitted to buy certain shares in Insull Utility Investments, Inc. He said E. V. Graham told him he had been favored with 500 shares of this stock. He said he prevailed on Graham to allow him 1,000 shares. He put the stock up as collateral with a bank. In 1932 the bank called for more collateral.

Scott said he told Martin Insull his financial troubles and that the latter handed him 3,700 shares of Insull stocks, including Middle West, and that he put this up as the additional collateral demanded. This stock is now being liquidated by the bank, he said.

Prosecutor Swanson refused to be definite as to his future action, but he indicated that if his assistants confirm the evidence now in his possession it is probable that the October grand jury, which will be impaneled on Monday by Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court, will be asked to take up the inquiry early in its term.

Harley Clarke Holds Note.

It developed yesterday that the independent utility operator who is holding an Insull note for "five million dollars," who was mentioned by Assistant State's Attorney John Hampton on his return from New York on Wednesday, is Harley L. Clarke of Chicago, president of the Utilities Power and Light company.

This company sold the Eastern New Jersey Power company, in which Mr. Clarke owned a controlling interest, to the now bankrupt National Public Service company in May, 1931. Some five million was paid in cash and $4,215,075 is still due, but the note held by Mr. Clarke is said to be secured, according to Chicago bankers.

Czechoslovakia—its people, government, culture and scenery—was the program theme at a meeting of the international club of the Junior Association of Commerce in the Hotel Sherman last night. Among the speakers were Dr. J. F. Smetanka, consul for Czechoslovakia; L. Urban, vice consul; City Purchasing Agent John A. Cervenka, representing Mayor Cermak; and J. J. Zmrhal, district superintendent of schools.

"Czechoslovakia has made a success of its government," Dr. Smetanka said.

CHILDREN UNITE S. O. BURROUGHS, ARTIST, AND WIFE

The reconciliation of Studley Oldham Burroughs, commercial artist, and his wife, Alice Carol Burroughs, was announced yesterday when the divorce suits which they had filed against each other were dismissed before Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan.

Their two children brought them together, they said, and the family has been united in Burroughs' studio apartment at 100 East Superior street.

Judge Daniel P. Trude, who heard testimony at one hearing, characterized both parents as unfit to have the custody of the children and placed them in the care of Burroughs' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Burroughs. This separation from their children caused the husband and wife to become reconciled, it was said.

DAVIS HELD IN GOOD REPUTE, WITNESSES SAY

A. F. of L. Chief, Priest Talk for Him.

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Spectators had a lively interlude at Senator James J. Davis' lottery trial in federal court today. The session was marked by an impressive list of character witnesses. A Catholic priest kept the courtroom in high good humor for half an hour.

Judge and jury joined the laughter once, and the senator on trial smiled. Father John J. Laffey of Mooseheart, Ill., protested against the legal manner of taking character testimony.

Priest Gives His Views.

Like United States Senator Royal S. Copeland and William L. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who preceded him, Father Laffey was asked the usual preliminary question whether he had heard the character and reputation of the defendant discussed. He was directed to "answer yes or no."

"How can I say—but—well, I'd rather answer that question another way," he said.

Judge Frank J. Coleman, smiling, said he was afraid the witness would have to answer as asked.

Father Laffey looked at the bench and lawyers, opened his arms in a sort of beseeching gesture and smiled.

"Well, suppose I say yes," he said.

There was a burst of laughter in which the witness joined.

"How can you say a man's reputation is good or bad when it never has been questioned?" the priest then asked. This answer was taken as sufficient.

Another Churchman Talks.

Through Father Laffey and the Rev. Coral D. Payne, Protestant minister at the Mooseheart, Ill., orphanage, jurors got a vivid picture of the humming activity in the community on Jan. 3, 1931, when cash prizes were drawn, followed by a gala luncheon and presentation of a check for $150,000 to the orphanage as part profit of Moose charity balls and what the government calls lotteries involved in them. The prosecution contends Senator Davis was the leading spirit, that he profited personally.

Moose witnesses said Davis did not attend the prize drawing in the Mooseheart printing building, though he was present at the luncheon which followed, and made the presentation speech which accompanied the $150,000 check to Mooseheart.

Finds Busy Scene.

Father Laffey said the drawing for prizes was not open to the public. He added he had come over to hear confessions of the Catholic children at Mooseheart that Saturday morning from the insane asylum nearby where he was living at the time—"Not that there was anything wrong with me," he said hastily—had "drifted up to the auditorium and heard there was something going on the printery and gone over to see what it was all about."

"Somebody had to vouch for me so I could get in," he said. "I told the man at the gate I was a Catholic chaplain and then they let me in."

He described enthusiastically the huge "wheel or barrel," into which the thousands of stubs from the charity ball tickets were put and the prize stubs drawn. He admired it, he said, as "a great advance over some of the barrels I had seen at things like that."

CENTER BOMBING DRIVE ON HEADS OF ASSOCIATIONS

Chief of Detective William Schoemaker yesterday announced a new plan to combat bombing and other forms of terrorism.

"You can't catch bombers at their work," he said. "In the future, when a business man is bombed we shall throw into jail all the officials of associations or unions who might be interested in forcing him to join, or to change business methods distasteful to them."

Soon after this threat was made a barber, Anthony Pecoraro, 1802 Larrabee street, reported he had been threatened with a beating unless he raised his prices to conform to those set by the Master Barbers association—50 cents for a haircut and 25 cents for a shave.

Fred R. Freda, 300 Meacham avenue, Park Ridge, president of the association, and Howard Friedman, 3255 Diversey avenue, secretary-treasurer, were taken to the detective bureau. Both denied having ordered any terrorism, adding that their policy was to allow members in cut price neighborhoods to reduce their own charges to meet competition. They were allowed to go, with a warning that they will be taken before the grand jury if any more barbers complain of terrorism.

BRITAIN'S TORY LEADER ACCEPTS SNOWDEN'S POST

Stanley Baldwin Made Lord Privy Seal.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Great Britain's national cabinet's reconstruction wound up today with one more Conservative and two less Liberals than before. Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservative party, was drafted by Prime Minister MacDonald from his post as lord president of the council to succeed Viscount Philip Snowden as lord privy seal.

Though Snowden helped found the Labor party, George Lansbury, labor leader, today denounced him. He charged that the national cabinet which was formed to bridge the crisis last October has been Tory from the beginning. Snowden has been a political comrade of MacDonald for 40 years, but on his resignation yesterday said that even his support of the India and international policies would not permit him to support the government.

Snowden, together with Sir Herbert Samuel, home secretary, and Sir Archibald Sinclair, secretary for Scotland, refused to accept the tariff proposals agreed upon at Ottawa.

Baldwin Holds Two Posts.

The revamped cabinet now has two men who were shifted from other positions and two who are new. Baldwin, in addition to taking Snowden's seal, will continue as president of the council. He will hold the new office without pay, thus saving the government $10,000 a year. Sir John Gilmour, Conservative, was shifted from the ministry of agriculture to the home office, succeeding the Liberal leader, Sir Herbert Samuel.

The new men are Maj. Walter Elliot, Conservative, as secretary of agriculture, and Sir Godfrey Collins, Liberal, secretary for Scotland. Both succeeded men of the same party affiliation.

The sub-cabinet structure of undersecretaries was rounded out with five appointments today.

Journalist Wins Post.

The most important junior appointment—the financial secretaryship of the treasury, which is usually a direct stepping stone to a cabinet rank, was given to one of the youngest rising politicians, Maj. Leslie Hore-Belisha, a Liberal, who was transferred from the parliamentary secretaryship of the Board of Trade. He is a 34 year old London journalist.

The undersecretaryship for India, formerly held by the marquess of Lothian, goes to Richard Austin Butler, 30 year old Conservative. Lord Plymouth, Conservative, becomes undersecretary for colonies, Lieut. Col. C. M. Headlam, Conservative, for the ministry of transport, and Dr. Leslie Burgin, Liberal, for the Board of Trade.

The secretaryship to the ministry of pensions will not be filled. This will save an annual salary of $6,000.

Simonite Liberals Meet.

While Sir Herbert Samuel led one branch of the Liberal representation in the cabinet, thirty supporters of Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon's branch of the party met today. Simon and Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, issued a statement that they would not desert MacDonald in this troublous time.

"HOW CAN YOU sell for 15 per cent less?" is the question of the skeptic. Simple enough if you understand business operations. Our self serve, cash and carry plan merely means that we require much lower profits. And the proof is here every day in the fashions and the prices.

WISCONSIN BISHOP QUITS LEGION; HITS DEMAND FOR BONUS

The Rt. Rev. Frank E. Wilson, former Episcopal clergyman in Chicago and present bishop of Eau Claire, Wis., has withdrawn his twelve year membership in the American Legion. He gave as his reason the recent Legion demand for the full payment of the soldiers' bonus. An additional reason given by the bishop for his Legion resignation was that "it is very far from the original purpose of the Legion to exert its influence repeatedly in pursuit of special privileges by the threat of the 'soldiers' vote,' which is really a fiction."

BISHOP WILSON.

"Already one-fourth of the entire national budget is mortgaged in favor of the world war veterans," said Bishop Wilson in his letter of resignation. "It cost me one-third of my income to enlist during the war, but I have never believed the country owed me anything for it. Now when the country is in a positively critical condition it seems to me to be the height of selfishness for a relatively small number of men to load an added burden of billions of dollars on an already crippled nation.

"The legion is supposed to stand for a high type of patriotism. The demand for immediate payment of the bonus is unpatriotic in principle and a serious blow to public confidence in ex-service men."

DRIVER ARRESTED; A HEART ATTACK KILLS PASSENGER

Mrs. Dorothy Pierce Jenkins, 47 years old, 5219 Kenwood avenue, was stricken by heart disease last night as she sat in an automobile in front of the Hyde Park police station. She died soon afterward in the Illinois Central hospital.

At the time Mrs. Jenkins became ill her friend, Mrs. Anna McConnell, 5213 Kenwood avenue, was in the station. She had been arrested while at the wheel of the automobile by South Park Policeman George Gierloff. The latter said that she was ordered to the station when she refused to accept a ticket for driving without lights.

George Donaghue, general superintendent of the South parks system, informed by Mrs. McConnell of her plight, asked that the charge against her be dropped. The request was granted. Mrs. McConnell found Mrs. Jenkins unconscious when she went back to her car, and took her to the hospital.

Baby Chokes to Death on Nipple from Bottle

Andrew Pelc, 25 days old, 11416 Stephenson avenue, choked to death last night on a rubber nipple which he sucked off his milk bottle. Mrs. Katherine Pelc, his mother, heard him choking and ran to his aid, but before she could get the nipple out of his throat he died.

U. S. INDICTS 7 AS $10,000,000 RUM SYNDICATE

Widespread Operation of Ring Revealed.

Liquor conspiracy indictments were returned yesterday before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward against seven men alleged to have sold 2,500,000 gallons of alcohol for $10,000,000 in western states during the last five years. Those named are Ferris Anthon, alias "Kansas City Tony," known as the Capone of Kansas City, Mo.; Homer Welch of Montgomery, Ill.; Jack Bivens of Batavia; Andy Condon of Montgomery, and Ray Anderson, George Broszeal, and Harry Shields, all of Aurora.

Assistant United States District Attorney Daniel Anderson said the syndicate had operated for five years with an average yearly output of 500,000 gallons of alcohol. The alcohol plants were in Batavia and Aurora, the prosecutor said, and Anthon handled the distribution.

Arrests Expose Syndicate.

The operations of the syndicate were first revealed with the arrest of two truck drivers of the ring, Howard Rawie and William Meinsen, at Astoria, Ill. Seized by state police on the suspicion that they had stolen an automobile, the drivers revealed that they were going to Batavia for a load of alcohol.

They were turned over to the government and Prohibition Agent William W. Taylor accompanied them to Batavia while they purchased 195 gallons of alcohol from Welch. Rawie and Meinsen explained their delay by saying that they had been halted by police and later released.

"What's the matter with those state cops?" Welch said, according to Taylor. "They know they're not supposed to interfere with alcohol deliveries for the big shots."

Agent Makes Alky Trip.

Another agent later won the confidence of a syndicate truck driver, Prosecutor Anderson said, and accompanied him from Denver, Colo., to Aurora to purchase 300 gallons of alcohol. The government is in possession of telegraphic records of large sums of money sent to Bivens and Welch from Kansas City, Denver, and other points, Anderson said. The messages gave instructions as to routes to be followed in delivering the alcohol, according to the prosecutor.

Agents found four trucks and a passenger automobile loaded with alcohol in a recent raid on the South Shore inn in Montgomery.

2 WOMEN WITH PISTOL HOLD UP SHOP; OBTAIN $58

Two well dressed women entered the Mayfair Dress shop, 1323 Milwaukee avenue, last night, but they were not customers. After Miss Sally Feldman, in charge of the place, had shown them a number of garments one of the women took a pearl handled revolver from her purse.

"It's money we want, sister," she said to Miss Feldman.

They obtained $58 from the cash drawer, stepped out and into an automobile and were on their way while Miss Feldman was calling police.

MISS FLORENCE HOLBROOK, PEACE ADVOCATE, DIES

Taught Half Century in Public Schools.

Miss Florence Holbrook, author, worker for world peace, and for fifty years a teacher in Chicago schools, died late Wednesday at her home, 4429 Greenwood avenue, after an illness of several months.

Born seventy-two years ago in Peru, Ill., Miss Holbrook was the daughter of Judge Edmund S. Holbrook. She was brought to Chicago by her parents while a small child. Graduating at the old Chicago university in 1879, she became a teacher of Latin and Greek the same year in Oakland high school.

Made Principal in 1886.

Miss Holbrook was appointed principal of the Oakland high school in 1886. In 1899 she was transferred to the principalship of the Forrestville school, a post she held until 1924. She established Cook county's first public kindergarten there. From 1924 until her retirement in 1930 she was in charge of the Phillips Junior high school.

Through her early career Miss Holbrook was an aggressive champion of woman suffrage. She also was an earnest pacifist and was one of those who sailed to Europe on Henry Ford's peace ship in 1917. She once urged that Americans quit saying "howdy," when they meet and substitute the word "peace." At one time she contended that schoolhouses were being built to resemble barracks too much.

Visits Russia for Study.

Following the war she travelled extensively in Europe and in 1929 was a member of a commission headed by John Dewey which went to Russia to study conditions.

Miss Holbrook was the author of a large number of textbooks, including an elementary geography, several readers and a speller. She was a member of the Chicago Woman's club, Women's City club, Political Equality league and the Cirdon club. She is survived by one brother.

Funeral services will be held at the residence at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

41 BOY SCOUTS RECEIVE EAGLE SCOUT AWARDS

Forty-one Boy Scouts last night received the Eagle Scout award, the highest honor in scouting, at the Central Eagle Court of Honor. The court was held in the city council chambers in the presence of parents of the boys. The awards were presented by Samuel G. Goraline, scout commissioner.

Judge John P. McGoorty addressed the Eagle Scouts, calling upon them to help rid the city of crime.

"Organized crime has struck a blow at the very life of government in our community," said the judge, whose home was recently the target of bombers. "Lawlessness reigns supreme, but, thank God, the decent citizenry is determined that that boy [Lee Wilbur Koeppen, one of the victime of the bomb aimed at the judge's home], who lies blind and maimed in a hospital tonight, will be avenged and law and order restored in this city.

"To you, Eagle Scouts, the torch will soon be handed down. May you carry on fearlessly until we have a city in which law is once again supreme."

CUB BACKER'S SAD TALE WINS COURT RELEASE

Edward C. Smeeth, 32 years old, 6444 St. Anthony's court, a life insurance salesman, told such a woeful tale when arraigned before Municipal Judge Alfar M. Eberhardt yesterday that he was dismissed on charges of disorderly conduct.

"On Wednesday I bet $100 to $300 that the Cubs would win," Smeeth told the court. "When I lost that I felt bad enough. Then a customer who had promised to take a $20,000 life insurance policy backed out and I felt worse. I started drinking gin to forget my troubles.

"While drinking I had my car parked on Diversey parkway, near Halsted street. When I came back a policeman had a slip for me and I argued with him and lost the argument, ending up in jail. It was a great day."

DOCTORS FAVOR ADVERTISING BY MEDICAL GROUPS

Called Ethical Means of Education.

Paid advertising should be recognized by medical societies as an ethical means of educating the public, according to a report of a special committee of the Illinois State Medical society, made public yesterday. This report was unanimously indorsed by the council of the society, which authorized the committee to continue its work.

Certain qualifications were made by the committee. One was that advertising should not be done by individual doctors nor by small groups. Another was that all copy for advertising by county societies of physicians should be prepared by expert advertising men.

Dr. Hutton Heads Committee.

The committee is composed of Dr. James H. Hutton, past president of the Chicago Medical society and now state endocrinologist; Dr. Thomas P. Foley, a member of the Loyola university medical faculty; and Dr. Edward H. Weld of Rockford, a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and chairman of a successful advertising campaign recently carried out by the doctors of his city.

During their investigation of this question of policy, which has been carried on for more than a year, the committeemen held conferences with newspaper advertising managers and publishers and with the heads of a number of national advertising agencies. They also made an analytical study of paid health campaigns carried out in the past by medical societies and commercial organizations, particularly insurance companies.

Oppose Individual Advertising.

Among the detailed conclusions reached were:

1. Newspapers are generally opposed to advertising by individual physicians and many would refuse to accept such copy.

2. Nothing was found to refute the wisdom of denying individuals the ethical right to advertise.

3. When paid advertising campaigns are undertaken, it probably would be better for the county societies to conduct them than for the state society or the American Medical association.

4. For physicians to attempt to advertise without the aid of experts would be equivalent to self-medication by the laity "and probably more disastrous."

5. County medical societies should understand that the Illinois Medical society would approve their educational campaigns leading to health betterment.

Closer Contact with Press.

6. Closer contact with the press would be mutually beneficial to the newspapers and the medical profession.

7. Newspapers should go to county medical societies for information on local health questions and to state associations and the American Medical association for general information. This information should be supplied, when asked for.

The committeemen stated their belief that where paid educational campaigns by medical groups had failed, the lack of definite objectives, or lack of understanding of advertising limitations, were responsible. Attention was called to a successful campaign in New York to urge the public to undergo periodic health examinations.

INDICT WATKINS FOR $388,000 MAIL ROBBERY IN 1921

CRIMINAL COURT.

William O'Malley, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Arthur Seals, malicious mischief, sentenced to 1 year in the county jail by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Harold [Fat] Watkins, arrested three weeks ago as a participant in the $388,000 mail robbery in the Dearborn street station April 6, 1921, was named yesterday in a federal indictment returned before Judge Charles E. Woodward. His bond was set at $20,000.

Watkins' arrest ended an eleven year search by postal inspectors. Six members of the gang had been tried, convicted and served their sentences and the indictment against Watkins stricken when, acting on a secret tip, postal inspectors went to 6045 Harper avenue and arrested him.

2 PLANS TO CUT UNEMPLOYMENT TOLD BY HOOVER

Shorten Days, Eliminate Children, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Two methods for cutting down adult unemployment caused by the development of new labor saving devices and the discoveries of science and invention were advanced by President Hoover tonight. One called for shortening the hours of labor in industry so that more people can participate in the productive work going on in the nation during the depression. The other recommendation was for the steady elimination of child labor from those few industries where children are still employed.

The President's suggestions were broadcast from the White House study to a group of women's organizations meeting in New York to discuss problems incident to children and the home. In his address the President called attention to the reconstruction program set up at Washington to fight the depression and advance home ownership.

Hoover's Efforts Praised.

A few moments after the President spoke Arthur A. Ballantine, under secretary of the treasury and acting head while Secretary Mills is campaigning for the Republican ticket in the west, told the Morris Plan Bankers' association that the Hoover administration's fight to uphold the credit and strengthen federal government had carried the nation nearer to the time "of full recovery of normal financial and economic processes."

In his address the President said that it was obvious that the discoveries of science and invention of labor saving devices have outrun the rapidity with which "we normally balance our economy with employment in production of new commodities and new services."

"The result," the President added, "is a large increase in what we popularly call 'technological unemployment.' One answer to it lies in shortening the hours of labor that all may ultimately participate in the productive work of the nation.

Against Child Labor.

"But there is also another contribution which can be made—that is the steady elimination of child labor. A great deal has been accomplished in this direction. But it would not only help childhood, but would aid in the better distribution of work amongst adult breadwinners if more children were eliminated from those few industries where they are still employed. It would be a step toward the permanent elimination of young children from industry.

"We should not forget that idleness is no more helpful to children than it is to adults, and that a rigorous enforcement and support of school attendance is of vital accompaniment to all reduction of child employment—which in turn brings us to the necessity of maintaining and supporting our schools as a first charge upon all of our resources in these times of emergency. Not alone should we maintain and support and expand them for the purpose of absorbing the comparatively small percentage of children who otherwise might be engaged in industry. We cannot afford to slacken one moment in the preparation of the new day of a generation of Americans stronger and better, not only physically and intellectually, but above all morally.

Urges Character Building.

"We can do much to help the nation and the children over the present emergencies. But the greatest service in the long view is the endowment we can give to the next generation in health and character. In that field lies the progress of the nation in stamina, health, and character. So much have I felt this to be an imperative responsibility that I have given every weight of this office and much time in association with these efforts."

The President told his auditors that in the larger sense the problems of the home and of children transcended in importance such problems as world disarmament, American policies in advancement of world peace, the importance of the forthcoming economic conference in Europe, the problems of reconstruction from the present depression and the tremendous problems of reorganizations the nation must face as a result of its experiences during the last three years.

"Second only in importance to the direct problems of childhood are the collateral problems of home surroundings and home ownership," President Hoover said. "Our most immediate question is the strain of the depression upon the children. In this depression as never before the American people have responded with a high sense of responsibility to safeguard and protect the children not only as the humane necessity of the day but that there may be no danger for the future.

"The devotion of voluntary effort, the solicitude being given throughout the nation to the welfare of children through this trying distress is a stimulant to the spirit of every one of us. The continuous reports of the public health service showing a less infant mortality, less infant disease than in prosperous times can mark only one thing, and that is the most extraordinary devotion to those who would normally be the most hard pressed."

Credit Weathers Strain.

Mr. Ballantine said that although the credit of the government had been subjected to severe strain during the depression "that strain has been endured and in spite of every shock the credit of the United States remains unimpaired."

Mr. Ballantine reviewed the Hoover program for meeting the depression, closing with this statement:

"The success of that effort is being reflected today in increased bank reserves, larger bank deposits, the return of gold and currency, increased prices of commodities and securities, and, beginning in certain lines, an upturn of employment and business activities."

Representative James M. Beck [Rep., Pa.], leader of the wet Republicans in the house, told President Hoover today that it was idle to talk of Pennsylvania giving its electoral votes to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mr. Beck will campaign for the national Republican ticket.

WOMEN ASK LEGAL ADVICE ON REPEAL OF DRY AMENDMENT

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Women enemies of the Eighteenth amendment today turned to the American Bar association for advice on procedure for holding state constitutional conventions in the event congress submits another amendment to the states dealing with liquor control.

The committee will ask the bar association for answers to the following questions:

Is it the province of the congress or of the various state legislatures to determine when such conventions shall be called?

Shall congress, or the various state legislatures determine the unit of representation in such conventions?

What body selects the delegates to such conventions and in what manner are they elected?

Does congress or the state legislature pay the necessary expenses of such conventions?

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin told the committee a poll of congressional candidates in every state is nearing completion in which each are asked to go on record for or against repeal. So far 255 replies from fifteen states have been tabulated in which 213 candidates answered affirmatively a question asking if they favored "outright repeal" of the Eighteenth amendment.

MICHIGAN G. O. P. PRAISES HOOVER; O. K.'S RUM VIEW

Hears Mills Laud Acts of President.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 29.—(AP)—After hearing an optimistic speech by Secretary Ogden L. Mills, the Michigan Republican state convention today adopted a platform indorsing the party's national plank on prohibition "and President Hoover's interpretation of it." A proposal to favor repeal of state prohibition was tabled.

The presence of Secretary Mills brought to the convention Senator James Couzens, who takes no active part in state politics, and who said it was the first state convention he has attended in a decade.

He's Friend of Mills.

"Ogden Mills is one of my good friends, with whom I never agree," Senator Couzens remarked.

In his speech Mills praised the leadership of President Hoover and discussed the administration's efforts to cope with the depression. He declared "our resources have been so mobilized as to bring us through safely, though with much suffering and damage."

Mills outlined the program which President Hoover submitted to congress and another which he called the "strictly Democratic program actually passed by the Democratic house of representatives under the leadership of the speaker of the house, now the vice presidential candidate of the Democratic party."

The secretary said that had the Democratic program become law "the result would have been disaster, final and irretrievable."

Calls Roosevelt Mistaken.

Ascribing to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt a statement that the Reconstruction Finance corporation benefits only the great city banks and other large institutions, Mills said that "On Aug. 31, 70 per cent of the banks to which loans had been authorized were in towns of less than 25,000 and 90 per cent were in towns of less than 50,000."

Referring to President Hoover, he said, "America has had no President who acted more swiftly, with surer decisions, achieved more, and in the face of overwhelming danger more fully measured up to the requirements of leadership than Herbert Hoover."

The convention resolutions avoided the soldier bonus, advocated old age pensions, the elimination of injunctions in labor disputes, and praised the administration of Gov. Wilber M. Brucker. The five day working week of not more than forty hours and stabilization of the banking laws also were advocated.

Incumbents in the minor state offices were renominated to make the race with Gov. Brucker and Lieut. Gov. Luren D. Dickinson, who won primary fights. They are Frank D. Fitzgerald, for secretary of state; Howard C. Lawrence, state treasurer; O. B. Fuller, for auditor general; and Paul W. Voorhies, for attorney general.

The state Democratic convention last Tuesday adopted a platform favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the prohibition amendment to the state constitution. The latter proposal will be voted on at the general election.

"POLITICAL BARGE CASE" IS CLOSED; $200 IN RENT PAID

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The so-called "political barge case" is considered closed by the Inland Waterways corporation.

The barge which the corporation, a federal agency, loaned for the recent waterway junket of the Illinois Republican ticket has been returned. William B. Hull, lame duck congressman from Peoria, to whom the barge was officially assigned, has sent in a check for $200.

And the check, it was learned today contrary to previous reports, would be accepted as rental for the barge for ten days, or at the rate of $20 a day. Previously war department officials had stated that the barge was not loaned on a rental basis, but as a free and generous gesture to help the cause of the waterways—or, as some Illinois Democrats see it, the cause of certain Republican candidates.

The barge on which Congressman Hull paid $20 a day rental was originally purchased for $20,000. It was explained that the vessel was idle at the time of the loan.

"There has been a lot of stuff about the affair," said Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn in writing finis to the case. "I don't care to go into the matter again. The barge has been released and paid for and that ends it."

COOLIDGE ASKS STATE TO BACK HOOVER TICKET

Boston, Mass., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Calvin Coolidge tonight called upon Republicans of Massachusetts to conduct a "fighting campaign" for the re-election of President Herbert Hoover and the Massachusetts state ticket.

The Coolidge call to arms was contained in a letter to President Judson Hannigan of the Republican Club of Massachusetts which was read at the "night before" dinner of Republicans here for tomorrow's state convention. Hannigan had invited Coolidge to be present.

"This campaign can be won by work and organization," said Coolidge. "The Republican party has an honorable record, it is pursuing a sound policy, and if what it has done in the past and what it is doing in the present is impressed upon the voters by a campaign of candid education it cannot fail to meet with their approval.

"It is a time when the people ought to stand firm. There is nothing that could be more reassuring to the business interests of the country at this time than a knowledge that the people propose to support sound Republican principles. When that has been demonstrated many of our ills will disappear."

SIMPSON GIVEN STATE O. K. IN CONGRESS RACE

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 29—[Special.]—The Illinois state certifying board today certified the name of James Simpson Jr., as the Republican nominee for congress in the Tenth district. On the face of the original returns of the primary election, Representative Ralph E. Church was the nominee. A recount of the ballots gave the nomination to Simpson.

Representative Church objected to the certification of Simpson on the ground that the court decree was not complete, but this objection was not sustained. Church has filed as an independent nominee. The Democratic nominee is Charles Weber.

The Prohibition state ticket was denied certification on the ground that the petition was inadequate. Twenty-five thousands names were required, and the petition contained only a fraction of this number.

G. O. P. BANISHES EX-MAYOR FROM CAMPAIGN HERE

Appeals to Prejudices of Voters Deplored.

The Republican county committee took steps yesterday to expurgate from the campaign the appeals to racial and religious prejudices emanating from a former mayor. The ungoverned attacks upon Judge Henry Horner, Democratic nominee for governor, and certain other Democratic leaders were repudiated by the G. O. P. organization, and the promotor of the down river boat trip was out adrift.

At a meeting in the Bismarck hotel it was announced that candidates would not speak at meetings held by the "rump" organizations set up in some wards by cliques of ex-city hall machinists. Also, it was reported, the former mayor is not to be billed at meetings of the regular organization. It was declared that the "rump" organizations have opened rooms, stuck campaign banners above the door, and then have tried to collect "assessments" from candidates. Committeemen denounced them as "chiselers."

Injury to G. O. P. Ticket.

Committeemen also declared that the injection of religion and race into the campaign has stirred up widespread resentment that is working injury to the Republican ticket. Instances were cited of audiences downstate, half of which had walked out on speakers who made slighting references involving religion or national origins. As a boomerang the attacks were held by some to be helping Judge Horner and the entire Democratic ticket.

Chairman William H. Weber said the county committee was not to be held responsible.

"I recognize only the duly elected committeemen," he said. "The former mayor is on his own hook. Some time ago we had a conference and it was decided in emphatic fashion that the injection of racial and religious matter into this campaign should have no place in our program. I have again reminded our candidates and members that we should decry such tactics. I deplore their injection into a campaign, and I know all our members do."

"Our candidates will not be sent to any 'rump' organization meetings," said Dr. William H. Reid, head of the speakers' bureau.

Prepare for October Drive.

The organization prepared for a Republican smash the second week in October. The second day of registration comes Oct. 11, and a drive is to be made to get all voters possible on the books.

On the night of Oct. 12 the Republicans are to have vaudeville entertainment and boxing exhibitions at the Stadium, while on the night of Oct. 13 a massmeeting is to be held at the Coliseum at which the chief address will be made by Ogden Mills, secretary of the treasury.

Horner Discusses Padded Pay Rolls of Ex-Gov. Small

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Alton, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The overstuffed pay rolls which flowered during Len Small's eight years as governor of Illinois were discussed today by Judge Henry Horner, the Democratic candidate for governor, in two speeches which closed the first half of his downstate campaign.

Judge Horner left for Chicago tonight to meet Gov. Roosevelt when the presidential candidate arrives tomorrow for his week-end visit. He will resume the stump at Quincy Monday night.

Asserting "ballyhoo" and "cuttlefish" tactics by his opponent to divert the attention of the voters from the real issues of the campaign, the judge turned the spotlight on Small's conduct of his office and selected the pay rolls as vulnerable.

Quotes Assembly Report.

"It will not be unfair," he said this afternoon at Edwardsville, "to quote from the report made by a nonpartisan committee of the Illinois house of representatives appointed to investigate these pay rolls after their existence became an open scandal. Padded pay rolls mean higher taxes and this is what the committee found in 1923." He read as follows:

"Probably in every department of the state government there were employes who were not devoting their full time, or even a fair share of it, to the work of the state. . . . This situation caused a breaking down of the morale of the employés in the departments when the hardest workers failed to receive equal compensation to those who were notoriously neglecting their duties.

"This committee found an inclination among department heads and state officers toward the enlargement of their staffs of employes and the limiting of such employes to a single line of work. The committee found not only that there was often a duplication of duties by employés, but also that at times as many as five employés of one department were traveling about the state to the same places at the same time, when any one of the five could have accomplished the work done by the entire number."

Cuttlefish Imitated.

Letting the report sink in for a minute, Judge Horner said: "And my opponent says that he is running on his record. He isn't. Of course, he is attempting to insult the intelligence of the electorate by methods made famous by the cuttlefish.

"That peculiar denizen of the sea is equipped by nature with two pouches, from which it emits inky fluid at times of danger and escapes.

"The cuttlefish muddies the waters in much the same manner that my opponent beclouds the issues of this campaign. But no matter how muddied they be, I shall clarify them for the voters. I do not expect to stoop to the level of my opponent and his lieutenants, but I will resist their methods of creating prejudice by holding to my fixed course of discussing, constructively, the problems before the people.

"Surely past performances indicate what may be expected in the future, and the record of my opponent is open to the voter's scrutiny, some of it in the decisions of the Illinois Supreme court."

Speaks at Alton at Night.

Driving on at dusk to Alton, perched high on the bluffs above the Mississippi, Judge Horner made his last address of the week, stressing prohibition repeal to an audience of ardent liberals.

Before he left East St. Louis this morning he was taken to the river bank by Bruce Campbell, the Democratic state manager, who pointed to the Missouri shore, where, forlorn in the mist, lay the S. S. Cape Girardeau, the venerable stern wheeler which had carried Small and his "showboat" entourage on their "waterway" campaign tour. It is unemployed at present.

ROOSEVELT HAS EDGE ON VOTES IN WASHINGTON

With Radical Support He May Capture State.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Roosevelt may not be a radical, but the Washington radicals have clasped him to their bosoms and he has clasped them to his. Hence, what with their support in a state that has developed a pronounced strain of radicalism and what with the defection of Republicans who hold the party in power responsble for the depression it looks as if Roosevelt would win the electorial votes of Washington.

Republican leaders admit that Roosevelt has the edge on the situation today. Mark E. Reed, the Republican national committeeman, asserts, however, that President Hoover steadily is gaining strength and believes that the state will go Republican.

Republicans Are Criticizing.

In Republican circles much criticism is heard of the management of the Hoover campaign. It is not so much that no campaign funds have been forthcoming up to date from National Treasurer J. R. Nutt. Local Republicans have not shelled out, either. But the Palmer house headquarters in Chicago has failed so far to furnish the material for answering the Roosevelt attacks and defending the President. The Republican managers are accused of pursuing an apologetic "hush hush" policy, as if they were ashamed of the record of the Hoover administration.

Republican Publicity Director Henry Allen's operations meet with derision among Washington Republicans, particularly his poll of those persons listed in Who's Who which was broadcast as the verdict of intelligent people, only about one-tenth of the persons queried answering, at that. According to Washington Republicans such antics only make the millions not in Who's Who all the madder. One of them asked if it were true that Henry was going to poll the social register also.

Only one Republican speaker has been furnished by the Palmer house headquarters so far—former Gov. Eberhart of Minnesota. He made a good speech, too, 'tis said, but hardly anybody knew it because the Chicago headquarters sent him here the day that Roosevelt was in Seattle.

Radicals Wild Over Roosevelt.

The radicals went wild over Roosevelt on his appearance here. And the candidate reciprocated. He singled out Homer T. Bone and Marion A. Zioncheck, rampant radical leaders, for special felicitation. A few days later in the primaries Bone won the Democratic nomination for senator and Zioncheck the Democratic nomination for representative.

Then the pot boiled over. Gen. C. B. Blethen, editor of the influential Seattle Times, who had declared for Roosevelt after the Democratic national convention as the exponent of a "new deal," startled the state with an editorial confession of weakening. He could not understand why Roosevelt should "swallow and suffer, for political advantage, exponents of radicalism like Bone and Zioncheck." He surmised that "Roosevelt is either willing to tolerate radicalism—or he plans to use it to his own advantage, only, later, to disown it. In either case the Times' faith in the man is badly shaken." The victory of Bone furnishes an illuminating commentary on the direct primary. Bone entered the Democratic primary, although he never had affiliated theretofore with the Democratic party. He had been a Socialist, he had been a candidate for office as a Republican, a progressive Republican, and a Farmer-Laborite. But never as a Democrat.

G. O. P. League for Roosevelt.

Before the primary he had been in doubt whether to run for senator or governor, whether to run as a Republican or Democrat. He had been indorsed for governor by the Bellamyites, disciples of "Looking Backward" Bellamy, who advocate the abolition of "all private ownership of capital." When in the legislature in 1924 Bone had offered a bill to confiscate all properties of power company, which was beaten after a hard fight.

Bone is described by Democratic leaders as of the same stripe of radicalism as Senator C. C. Dill [Dem., Wash.] and Senator E. P. Costigan [Dem., Colo.], who, however, had lacked their courage to affiliate with the Democratic party when the going for Democrats was not good.

Bone defeated the conservative and regular Stephen F. Chadwick for the nomination for senator by a margin of 45,000 votes, following Gen. Blethen's blast against Roosevelt, Bone and Zioncheck. Mr. Chadwick, who is the son of a Democratic patron saint of the state, formally announced that he would support the Republican nominee, Senator Wesley L. Jones, author of the "five and ten" prohibition law.

Although the issue has become one of conservatism against radicalism, one of the bases of the hopes of the Republican managers to carry the state for Hoover in spite of the Democratic trend is that conservative Democrats, following the lead of Chadwick, will vote the Republican ticket in large numbers.

G. O. P. Progressive League.

On the other hand the Republicans are far from united. The Progressive Republican league, which for many years has maintained an organization in all counties and is closely affiliated with the national grange, recently held a convention and voted to support Roosevelt. This organization, headed by John E. Ballaine, is reputed to control upwards of 100,000 votes.

Unemployment in the cities and the poverty stricken condition of the farmers in the wheat growing eastern half of the state are the chief factors of Republican disaffection. Out of a population of 365,000 in Seattle, 65,000 are receiving relief, which is costing the county $22,000 a month. An R. F. C. loan of $675,000 has been negotiated. King county [Seattle] is ordinarily Republican, but in the recent primaries the Democrats cast 67,000, the Republicans 55,000 votes.

CERMAK SEEKS WAY TO CUT 1931 LEVY; WARRANTS BARRIER

Mayor Cermak yesterday announced that he will call a conference, probably next week, to consider the possibility of reducing the city's 1931 tax levy. Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the citizens' committee on public expenditures; City Controller M. S. Szymczak, Attorney Henry Cutler, bond expert, and Ald. Clark will attend.

Attorney Cutler already has advised the mayor that a reduction in the levy probably may be impossible because tax warrants already have been sold against the collection of 1931 taxes. However, the mayor said he hopes that some way can be devised whereby the levy can be cut and tax bills correspondingly reduced.

The controller's books show a paper surplus of $8,550,000 for 1930. The 1931 levy called for the collection of $50,009,810 in taxes and miscellaneous fees totaled $14,756,000, making a total of $64,765,000 but expenditures totaled only $56,215,000.

PRISON ORDERLY WHO FLED GIVEN NEW THEFT TERM

Back to prison went Stanley Burczewski yesterday. Stanley didn't like it when he was there before, although he had a good job as an orderly for the warden. His dislike was so pronounced that on June 24 he departed, taking with him $6,000 worth of jewelry, $200 in cash, the warden's gold star, and the warden's other pants. At that time the convict had but 45 days to serve before becoming eligible for parole. He pleaded guilty yesterday in the Will county Circuit court to the various thefts from the warden and was given a new sentence of one to ten years, added to the original sentence of one to fourteen years for an automobile theft.

HOLD M'DANIELS ON $50,000 BAIL IN DYNAMITE PLOT

William McDaniels, 59 year old bootlegger held as the chief suspect in the bombing of the home of Judge John P. McGoorty, was named in two warrants yesterday charging conspiracy to bring explosives into the state, and storing dynamite contrary to the statutes. His bail was fixed at $25,000 on each charge and three of his associates, George "Red" Gustafson, and Norman and Oscar Ball, were accused with him on the conspiracy charge.

Judge Edgar A. Jonas of the Felony court, who issued the warrants, asked Sergt. Michael Hackett if there was evidence connecting McDaniels with the actual bombing. The sergeant said he preferred not to disclose the evidence at the time, but asserted that there was sufficient evidence to obtain a conviction on the minor charges.

Lee Wilbur Koeppen, 16 year old boy who was blinded by the bomb explosion, yesterday met his companion of that night, Mrs. Ada Moyer, for the first time since the bombing. She was considered recovered sufficiently to permit her leaving the hospital and on the way out she was taken to see Koeppen, who does not yet know his eyes are gone. She did not tell him, nor did she reveal that her own vision is impaired.

A. F. OF L. CHIEF FINDS GAIN FOR UNION WORKERS

Cites Farm, U. S. Layoffs as Adverse Signs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—A statement given out today on behalf of President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, who was in New York, announced that employment in trade unions had gained slightly both in August and in the first part of September. In it he said that the records showed 25.4 per cent of the union membership out of work in July, 25.1 in August, and 24.9 in September.

It is possible, Mr. Green added in that statement, that the gain reported in September reflects increases in industrial activity which will mean jobs for workers in general.

Finds Encouraging Sign.

"As an indicator of business," Mr. Green asserted, "the gain in employment in September is encouraging. Employment normally improves with the fall busy season, but this year is the first since 1929 to bring a gain in employment of union members in both August and September. Resoration of the normal seasonal trend suggests returning confidence."

Speaking of the employment situation as whole, Mr. Green said conditions now indicate that more people will be out of work this winter than ever before. He predicted that the winter ahead will hold more suffering than ever has been experienced in this country.

Calls Jobless 11 Millions.

"Contrary to expectations based on trade union reports, our estimate of total unemployment in the United States based on government figures shows more out of work in August," according to Mr. Green. "For the country as a whole, 11,400,000 were out of work in July and 11,500,000 in August. This increase is due to the fact that many of the smaller industries, which do not feature in the news but which nevertheless control jobs for wage earners, have laid men off. In agriculture alone, nearly 100,000 farm laborers were released after the July harvests.

"Government indices show that while employment improved in some of our major industries, the gains have not yet spread throughout. In manufacturing, and also in mining, workers were taken on, but generally not in large numbers compared to the unemployed. In public utilities, building, service industries, and wholesale and retail trade."

WIFE GETS WRIT TO BLOCK MATE'S DEBT COLLECTION

Mrs. Agnes Howard Pendell, who filed suit for divorce on Wednesday from Charles W. Pendell, wealthy lumberman, yesterday obtained a temporary injunction from Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan restraining her husband from collecting $10,000 due him from various Illinois and Wisconsin lumber companies.

"Such an injunction has no precedent in Illinois law that I know of," said Attorney Lawrence B. Jacobs, representing the wife, after getting the injunction. "It is a unusal procedure in divorce courts to restrain a husband from disposing of his real estate, because of his wife's dower rights, but to restrain a husband from collecting personal money due him has no precedent in Illinois law, as far as I can determine."

The Pendells were married in April, 1925, and separated last August. She charges cruelty.

Tammany Snubs Roosevelt Man; May Vote for Mayor

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The political pot boiled in New York today and then boiled completely over tonight.

Within a few hours after the Appellate court had decided a mayoralty election must be held this November—paving the way for Tammany hall to run James J. Walker for reelection, Tammany took an open slap at Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

With the connivance of the Republican county organization, Tammany turned thumbs down on Samuel Rosenman, recently appointed by Gov. Roosevelt to fill a vacancy on the Supreme court bench. Rosenman was proposed for a full term by Roosevelt's friend, Edward J. Flynn of the Bronx, but Tammany left him off the slate.

Hofstadter Nominated.

Through a bi-party agreement, Tammany and the Republican county organization selected the same candidates for three judicial vacancies. Among these was Samuel Hofstadter, Republican chairman of the legislative committee that investigated Mayor Walker's administration. The other two named on the slate are Aaron Steuer, son of Max Steuer, close adviser to John F. Curry, and Justice Richard P. Lydon, fourteen years on the bench.

Rosenman was personal counsel to Gov. Roosevelt and one of his closest advisers. Tammany hall served notice that while it may be supporting Gov. Roosevelt at the head of the Democratic ticket, it intends to be master of the situation in New York City.

This mastery may include the Nov. 8 mayoralty election. According to indications tonight, both Tammany and the Republican organizations have accepted the ruling of the Appellate court—although the decision will be appealed to the State Court of Appeals—and are preparing conventions to effect nominations on Oct. 7 or 8. Ex-Mayor Walker is due back in town by Oct. 6.

Will Walker Run Again?

There is renewed speculation tonight as to whether Tammany, with the help of Leader John H. McCooey of Brooklyn, will give Walker the nomination so that he can carry out his announced intention of seeking vindication at the polls.

The Appellate court ruling making possible the election Nov. 8 instead of next year was a four to one decision. Justice John A. McAvoy wrote the opinion which held it is "the policy of the state" that vacancies in elective offices "must be promptly filled by an election and that an appointment or other succession is to be held only until an election may be held."

Joseph V. McKee, who became mayor upon Walker's resignation, had contended that no election could be held until November, 1933. In case Tammany does not let Walker run again, it appears doubtful that McKee will get the nomination.

VISIONS 35 PCT. CUT IN COUNTY REALTY TAX BILLS

Reduction of Expenditures Needed, Jacobs Says.

Cook county real estate tax bills for 1931 will be 35 to 40 per cent lower than 1930 bills if taxpayers force local governments to reduce tax levies. This prediction was made yesterday by County Assessor J. L. Jacobs.

Three factors will determine the size of the 1931 real estate tax bills—the assessed valuation, the assessment of personal property, and the tax levies Reduction of valuations and an increase in personal property listings are assured, but the size of the cut depends upon the last factor.

On Wednesday Assessor Jacobs made public real estate assessments of 17 country towns for 1931 showing an average reduction of 24 per cent below the 1930 assessments. These, he said, indicate real estate assessments throughout the county will be cut approximately 25 per cent.

Sees Realty Tax Cut.

In his drive to assess hitherto unlisted personal property the assessor hopes to raise the total personalty assessment for the county from approximately $750,000,000 to $1,500,000,000. The cut of real estate valuations and the increase in personalty listed should, Mr. Jacobs said, give the real estate taxpayer a bill for 1931 from 35 to 40 per cent below the 1930 bill.

Reduction of unnecessary expenditures by local governments and reduction in tax levies will assure the real estate taxpayers the savings, he said. This can be achieved only by united action by the taxpayers, he added.

Cites Promise of Reductions.

"Four months ago the principal local governments promised the citizens' committee on public expenditures to make cuts of $35,000,000," Assessor Jacobs said. "If these promises are carried out and if village and other smaller tax spenders reduce in proportion, taxpayers will have cause to rejoice.

"To reduce levies the governments should file with the county treasurer the exact amount they need in dollars and cents, rather than file their tax rate to be applied to the total of assessments. The latter system has been the practice of the past."

Assessor Jacobs said the 1931 real estate assessment would be completed by his office before Nov. 1. The taxes will be extended by the county clerk about Dec. 1. To benefit the taxpayers the local governments must file reduced levies before the assessment rolls are extended.

Mail Tax Bills in January.

The 1931 tax bills will be mailed about Jan. 1. After the bills are issued property owners dissatisfied with their final valuations will have an opportunity to protest before the board of appeals. The bills are payable in two installments, on March 1 and July 1. The law permits filing of objections in the interval between the installments, and downward adjustments will be credited on the second installment.

The 1931 assessment is a quadrennial assessment and will stand virtually unchanged until 1935, when the next quadrennial assessment will be made. In making the assessment Assessor Jacobs has had a staff of forty to seventy men in the field.

These men have looked into all complaints filed since the 1928 scientific reassessment, which replaced the 1927 quadrennial. They have also examined all other properties. The level of equality established in the 1928 reassessment has been maintained, according to Mr. Jacobs.

STATE GAS TAX IS ATTACKED IN TWO NEW SUITS

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The Illinois 3 cent gasoline tax was attacked from a new angle in the Sangamon Circuit court today. Attorney Justus Chancellor of Chicago filed two suits in behalf of the Whiteside County Oil company of Sterling and the McHenry County Oil company of Woodstock. These companies have been in arrears on taxes, and the state department of finance purposes preventing them from doing further business. The suits seek to enjoin such action. They cite that the gasoline tax is in violation of the principles of taxation; that it discriminates between motor vehicles and other vehicles using the roads in that its imposition results in the collection of revenue for gasoline not used on the public roads and that, in general, it violates the federal and state constitutions.

Questions which were waived in the hearing of the previous gasoline tax case in the Supreme court are revived in the ligitation. A temporary injunction will be issued on the filing of bond and the case will be set down for hearing. Justice Jesse Brown fixed the bond at $25,000. The attorney general will ask that the suits be dismissed on the ground that the question of the constitutionality of the gas tax has already been passed upon and the tax sustained.

ROCKEFELLER'S FORTUNE HARD HIT BY SLUMP

Economist Predicts Decline to 150 Million.

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The Rockefeller fortune held by John D. Rockefeller and his son, John D. Rockefeller Jr., has been heavily affected by the depression, and may now rate as one of the minor large fortunes of this country instead of the greatest in the world, in the opinion of John T. Flynn, economist and biographer of the elder Rockefeller.

From the total of between one-half billion and one billion dollars, which Mr. Flynn estimates to have been the fortune in 1929, after the elder Rockefeller had made gigantic gifts to his chosen philanthropies, it probably has shrunk now to around 150 million dollars, he estimated today.

Retires from Business in 1896.

At its peak, after Mr. Rockefeller had multiplied by wise investment the 200 million fortune with which he retired from active business in 1896 and before he had embarked on his career as a princely philanthropist, the fortune was about one billion, in Mr. Flynn's opinion.

In his biography of the elder Rockefeller entitled "God's Gold," which was published today, Mr. Flynn touched in passing on his belief that the Rockefeller fortune must have sustained heavy losses in the depression, and he amplified it in an interview yesterday in his office on East 40th street."

List of Stocks and Bonds.

Mr. Flynn based his estimate of what had happened to the Rockefeller fortune on the list of stocks and bonds which Mr. Rockefeller turned over to the Rockefeller Foundation, his major philanthropy, and which was published in the foundation's report for 1930.

"These securities had a total ledger value of $112,199,661," Mr. Flynn pointed out. Their values as given in the report were their cost, and they were never valued at the values of 1929 before the crash, when of course they were far higher. Sixty per cent of the investment was in stocks and the rest in bonds.

"Now it is a fair assumption that the securities which Mr. Rockefeller turned over to the Rockefeller Foundation represent a cross-section of his holdings. What happened to the Rockefeller Foundation holdings must have happened, on a larger scale, to the remaining holdings of the Rockefeller fortune.

Can't Figure Gains and Losses.

"We have the records of twenty-six of the forty-eight stocks he gave the Rockefeller Foundation. These twenty-six stocks in the foundation's portfolio had a ledger value of $100,545,819. At the height of the boom they had risen to more than 256 million.

"As the market went down, however, these twenty-six stocks descended in total value to $56,468,027. The rise in the market this summer has brought them to a total value now of something over $87,000,000."

The securities in the Rockefeller Foundation portfolio include such items as 21,944 shares of Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe common, listed by the foundation as having a ledger value of $2,044,935.53. This stock shrank to $395,235 at the lowest point this year and afterward rose to $1,278,238, as computed by Mr. Flynn.

Many blocks of stocks, of course, suffered heavier losses than these few given as instances.

FORD TO CUT PAY, MAKING MINIMUM $4, $5, $6 PER DAY

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Answering persistent rumors that the Ford Motor company had abandoned the standard $6 a day minimum wage paid to all employes, the company late this afternoon issued the following statement, in which a reverse to a $4 a day minimum is acknowledged:

"From the highest executive to the ordinary laborer, Ford employes will receive pay adjustments which it is hoped will be temporary, based on a re-classification of the types of work performed.

"For common labor, a 'hiring-in' minimum of 50 cents an hour has been scheduled.

"The new minimum for semi-skilled labor is 62½ cents an hour.

"Skilled labor receives its former minimum of 75 cents an hour, unchanged.

"The actual wages paid will range from the minimum figures upwards.

"A comparatively small number of men will be affected by the lowest brackets, the majority receiving 62½ cents an hour and upward."

The new wage schedule is $1 less than the $5 a day minimum wage with which Ford surprised the industrial world 18 years ago.

At present the lowest paid worker in the Ford plant is paid on the basis of $6 for a full day. Under the new wage schedule workmen are divided into three classes with lowest rates of $4, $5, and $6.

The $4 class will include a number of workmen disabled in industry who serve as watchmen, sweepers and the like.

TWO SISTERS ARE SHOT BY JEALOUS WIFE

Charleston, Mo., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Two women were in serious condition today after they were shot by Mrs. Ward De Field, wife of the Mississippi county assessor, a prominent Democratic politician in southeast Missouri.

Mrs. Rosa Rummel, 30, was taken to a Cairo, Ill., hospital with a wound in the abdomen. The bullet which wounded her passed through the chest of her sister, Miss Myrtle Layton, who had interposed her body between Mrs. De Field and Mrs. Rummel in an effort to protect Mrs. Rummel. Miss Layton will recover.

Officers said Mrs. De Field explained her act by accusing Mrs. Rummel of being too friendly with De Field.

Bomb Thrown at Produce House Causes $200 Loss

Damage estimated at about $200 was caused early today by the explosion of a small bomb in a window of the A. G. Zulfer company, produce merchants at 115 South Water market. A. G. Zulfer, president, said that he had received no threats and had had no trouble with workers. The police learned that the Walgreen company, which buys supplies from Zulfer, has its own workers pack fruit for its various stores, and that one of these was in the place at the time of the bombing. It was said this man, unlike Zulfer's own employes, is nonunion.

SEEKS $600,000 LOAN FROM R. F. C. FOR WILMETTE

Village Wants Money to Build Water Works.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The village of Wilmette, Ill., today asked the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a loan of $600,000 with which to construct a municipal waterworks. The advance, which is to be made through the corporation's purchase of municipal bonds is being sought under the self liquidating loan section of the emergency relief act.

C. P. DUBBS. [A. P. Photo.]

C. P. Dubbs, president of the Wilmette council presented the application to the board stating that work on the water works would give employment to about 100 men for a period of nearly one year. Wilmette, he said, is the only north shore suburb which does not have its own waterworks, buying its water at the present time from Evanston.

Loan Record Made Public.

The report of the Reconstruction Finance corporation's loan activities for August was transmitted today to South Trimble, clerk of the house, in accordance with the mandate written by congress into the emergency relief bill. With the report went a lengthy legal opinion drafted by Morton Bogue, general counsel of the finance corporation, backing up on legal grounds the corporation's unqualified opposition to publicity for its loan operations.

The new attack on the legality of making the report public brought announcement from Mr. Trimble that he will take legal counsel for himself and make his decision known tomorrow.

Gardner Cowles, a director of the finance corporation, issued a formal statement pointing to decreased loan demands on the R. F. C. as an indication of better business conditions.

Receive 1,521 Applications.

"In the five weeks preceding July 30," according to Mr. Cowles, "applications for 1,521 loans were received from banks, insurance companies, and other financial institutions. In the subsequent five weeks, ending Sept. 3, 1,222 applications from institutions of this type came to the corporation.

"Evidence of the improvement is further found," he continued, "in the total amount of money applied for by those institutions in these two periods."

The amount sought in the five weeks ending Sept. 3, he said, was $148,515,000, or less than half of the $346,511,000 sought in the five weeks ending July 30.

EDGE BRINGS DRAFT OF NEW COMMERCIAL TREATY WITH FRANCE

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Bringing with him the first draft of a commercial treaty with France which must be made, Ambassador Walter E. Edge arrived today from France on the United States line steamship Manhattan. He will remain in this country until after the election.

The treaty is based on the American proposal that France accord the United States most favored nation treatment. The original proposal has been modified in various ways during the two months' conversations which Mr. Edge has had with the French government and in its present form will be studied in Washington.

The ambassador left New York immediately for the capital. After presenting the treaty and explaining it the duties that brought Mr. Edge back home will be completed, but he will remain for a few weeks on vacation, he said. He would not discuss politics.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—In the opinion of many observers, Illinois today completed a flop on its agreement with the federal government to provide state relief for the unemployed before asking further national aid.

Neither house had a quorum—to say nothing of the requirement of a two-thirds vote in each for emergency measures to take effect at once—and, while bills were advanced on the calendar of the house of representatives, there was no actual business transacted that was of real significance.

Lacking votes for roll calls, the assembly adjourned its fourth special session until next Tuesday. And there is grave doubt whether the attendance next week will be any better than it was this week. And next week, it is more or less finally agreed, the legislature will adjourn until after the election of Nov. 8.

Fear Effect in Votes.

The imminence of the election in which all the house seats and a majority of the senate seats are at stake is blamed almost entirely for this situation. More revenue is needed to meet the problem of the jobless, it is conceded, but the only way that more revenue may be obtained is through new taxation and the candidates for re-election are unwilling in these times to appear before their constituents as advocates of higher taxes.

Following yesterday's refusal of the senate—by a shortage of five votes—to pass and send over the bill for the optional county sales taxes, even in its revised form limiting to Cook county, dozens of members of the house of representatives left Springfield before Speaker Shanahan's gavel fell this morning. In the senate only the secretary and a couple of members went through the perfunctory procedure of a recess.

Take Care of the Record.

In other words, the senate, having expunged the record of its adverse roll call on the optional county sales tax bill, thereby giving it one more chance—though slight—next week, lay down on the job completely.

The house advanced on its calendar a few bills of general interest.

On the motion of Roland V. Libonati [Rep., Chicago], two bills for a state-wide sales tax—one providing that the revenue therefrom go into the state treasury and the other specifying that the receipts be allotted to the counties of their source—were taken from the committee of the whole and advanced to second reading. But there is no assemblyman who believes there is any chance of the adoption of a state sales tax.

Hope Is Only a Whisper.

With the same lack of opposition Homer J. Tice [Rep., Greenview] passed to second reading the house bill for an optional county sales tax—the same measure that failed to get by the senate yesterday.

Among the legislators who went to Washington last week and obtained an additional five million dollar loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation and hope to obtain a further advance of $4,500,000 to carry on relief work until after the election, there is a hope that the house may still pass this bill and send it over to the unfriendly senate. But that hope is only a whisper.

The house also advanced the somewhat mysterious bill to increase the state levy on race tracks.

Having gone as far as it could on its calendar, the house was compelled to adjourn over the week-end, and the bottom appeared to have dropped out of this, the fourth, special session of the 57th general assembly.

ROBS 2 IN INSURANCE OFFICE.

Two gunmen yesterday robbed the manager and an agent in the front office of the National Life and Accident Insurance company at 3225 North Lincoln street, taking $350.

RIDE VICTIM

AARON (IRON) BARGER.

Although without a tangible clew to the actual slayers, police last night were convinced that Aaron [Iron] Barger, racketeer, who was found shot to death in an automobile early yesterday at 48th place and Albany avenue, had quarreled with a gang of automobile thieves and perhaps paid with his life for double crossing them. Barger was known as an automobile thief and was accused of complicity in the $135,000 Evergreen Park mail robbery in 1928.

Barger's body was found crumpled in the back seat of the automobile with nine slugs in his head and body. He had been tortured before he was killed, police said, and mud on his clothing and the back of his head showed he had been dragged to the car after he was slain.

Barger was acquitted of charges that he had taken part in the Evergreen Park robbery. He turned state's evidence, police said, at the trial in which four other defendants were sentenced to the penitentiary for long terms. The other defendants were Francis Keating, Virgil Litzinger, John Flannery, and Thomas Holden.

FIRE DRIVES 300 FROM PLANT.

Three hundred employes of the Victor Manufacturing and Gasket company, 5700 Roosevelt road, fled to the street yesterday when fire broke out. The flames were quickly extinguished by firemen. The damage was $5,000.

GOVERNOR VAGUE ON U. S. LOAN FOR SUPERHIGHWAY

Hints Chicago Project Up to His Successor.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Gov. Louis L. Emmerson today refused to reply categorically as to whether he will petition the Reconstruction Finance corporation for an $8,000,000 federal loan to build an elevated highway through Chicago's west side. He indicated, however, that the inauguration of this traffic improvement and unemployment relief project will be a duty of his successor Jan. 1.

"It is obvious that the entire state is needful of better means of ingress an egress in Chicago," the governor told the Chicago Motor club, a proponent of the elevated road, "but the most pressing administration duty of the present is to provide for relief this winter."

Woud Provide Jobs for 10,000.

"Would you say that you aren't asking the government for the $8,000,000 loan because you believe it wouldn't help the unemployment situation this winter?" asked George Barton, engineer for the club.

The Chicago plan commission is authority for a statement that work on the west side project could start promptly after an appropriation is made and that the construction would furnish jobs directly for 5,000 men and indirectly for another 5,000.

"I don't want to make any such statement," Gov. Emmerson replied. "We're going to make many requests of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, for relief aid and for assistance in saving homes and helping banks and railroads. There has been no great pressure for an elevated highway loan.

Mindful of City's Needs, He Says.

"I haven't gone into the elevated highway proposition very deeply because this administration has adhered to a policy that the first obligation was to complete the 160 million dollar bond issue systems. However, I've been appreciative of the metropolitan traffic problems as shown by our widening of arterial routes and our construction of grade separations.

"And I hope that my successor has a similar appreciation of Chicago's needs—and Chicago's dues in view of its contributions to the state road fund."

N. U. FRESHMAN MISSING; POLICE SEARCH ASKED

Evanston police yesterday were asked to search for Frederick Philip Mehl, 17 years old, freshman student in the college of liberal arts at Northwestern university, who disappeared last Sunday after drawing $113, all the money he had, from an Evanston bank on Saturday.

The youth is the son of the Rev. E. E. Mehl, Methodist minister of Lostant, Ill., who was in Evanston yesterday seeking him. Young Mehl had been living at the home of Dr. Stephen V. Balderston, 1205 Judson avenue. He left the house at 6 a. m. Sunday, the physician said.

Doris Bliss, student nurse at the West Suburban hospital, Oak Park, an acquaintance of Mehl, said she had not seen him for two weeks. None of his friends could explain his disappearance.

FOUND DEAD IN CREEK.

Henry Miller, 69 years old, resident at the Oak Forest sanitarium, was found dead yesterday in a creek at 103d street just west of Cicero avenue.

GOV. ROOSEVELT MAKES PLEDGE TO SLASH TAXES

low enough to permit flooding of cheap goods into American markets.

With a lowered tariff, the governor declared, foreign nations would resume an orderly conduct of business with American industry and would reestablish themselves on an economic plane which would permit them to resume buying the agricultural products of farmers of the United States.

Affirms Faith in Business.

The governor affirmed his faith in the courage of American business men to win their way under a system of "good old fashioned trading."

"I cannot picture Uncle Sam," said Mr. Roosevelt, "as a supine, white livered, flabby muscled old man cooling his heels in the shade of our tariff walls."

The Republican policy, added the governor, is one of persisting in a thing which caused ruination.

"The 'Grundy tariff' still retains its grip at the throat of international commerce," he said. "There is no relief in sight, and certainly there can be no relief if the authors of this disaster continue in power.

"Like the Bourbons they have learned nothing and they have forgotten nothing. They still cling to this deadly fettish.

Would Reverse Process.

"And I say to you, in all earnestness and sincerity, that unless and until this process is reversed throughout the world, there is no hope for full economic recovery, or for true prosperity in the United States."

The governor and his party were driven to the ball park where a crowd of 25,000 greeted his initial appearance with a rousing cheer. Floodlights bathed the scene, revealing as in the clarity of daylight thousands filling all the seats in grandstands and bleachers and standing thickly upon diamond and outfield.

Introduced by National Committeeman R. F. Mitchell, Gov. Roosevelt advanced to the rostum and spoke into a battery of microphones attached to loud speaking devices, carrying his voice to every ear in the park.

Pledges Tax Relief.

Going at the outset of his speech to his pledge to relieve the farmer of his present overbearing tax burden, Gov. Roosevelt stressed first the need for cutting down the expenses of local governments. He said:

"Let us examine the proportion of our expenditures that goes to the various divisions of government. Half of what is paid for support of government in this country goes to local government, cities, townships, counties, and other small units. The other half goes to the state and nation.

"This points, therefore, to the necessity for attention to local government. As a broad proposition you and I know we are not using our present agencies of local government with real economy and efficiency. That means we must require our public servants to give a fuller measure of service for what they are paid. That means we must eliminate useless officeholders. That means every public official and every employé of local governments must determine that they owe it to the country to coöperate in the great purpose of saving the taxpayers' money.

Many Unnecessary, He Says.

"But it means more than this, my friends. I am going to speak very frankly to you. There are offices provided for in the constitutions and laws of some of the states that have an honorable history, but are no longer necessary for the conduct of government. We have too many taxing districts. The taxpayers literally groan under layer upon layer of tax units. Relief can come only through resolute, courageous cutting.

"It means still more than this. In many states we must, through the legislature and even through constitutional changes, reorganize our local government for the purpose of eliminating unnecessary machinery and unnecessary positions, and for the purpose of consolidating functions, and concentrating responsibility in fewer hands.

"Some of you will ask why I, a candidate for President of the United States, am talking to you about changes in local government. It is perfectly clear that the President has no legal or constitutional control over the local government under which you live.

Sees Need of Leadership.

"The President has, nevertheless, the right and even the duty of taking a moral leadership in this national task—it is a national problem because in its scope it covers every state, and any problem that is national in this broader sense creates a national moral responsibility in the President himself.

"I conceive the presidency not merely an agency in which routine executive powers are exercised, but as a position of leadership in which may be wielded an influence for the general good of our American system of government. No other official except the Vice President is elected by all the people of the country. No other official owes such a direct responsibility to all the people of the country. He is the responsible spokesman of the nation's policies and the nation's ideals.

"I shall use this position of high responsibility to discuss up and down the country, in all seasons, at all times, the duty of reducing taxes, of increasing the efficiency of government, of cutting out the underbrush around our governmental structure, of getting the most public service for every dollar paid by taxation. This I pledge you, and nothing I have said in the campaign transcends in importance this covenant with the taxpayers of this country.

Favors State Reductions.

"It is true that less than 15 per cent of the taxes we pay goes to the support of state governments. This does not seem to be a large figure, but actually, as you and I know, the cost of state government has increased twofold and even threefold in the last ten or fifteen years. In this field also I believe that substantial reductions can be made. While the President rightly has no authority over state budgets, he has the same moral responsibility of national leadership for generally lowered expenses, and therefor for generally lowered taxes.

"It is in the field of the federal government that the office of President can, of course, make itself most directly and definitely felt. Over 30 per cent of your tax dollar goes to Washington, and in this field also immediate reforms can be accomplished. There are, of course, items such as the interest on the public debt which must be paid each year, and which can be reduced only through a reduction in the debt itself, by the creation of a surplus in the place of the present deficit in the national treasury.

"It is perhaps worth while that I should tell you that I spent nearly eight years in Washington during the Wilson administration, that during those eight years I had a fair understanding of the problem of the national expenses, and that I knew at first hand of many of the details of actual administration of the different departments.

"Spends Too Much."

"Later in this campaign I propose to analyze the enormous increase in the growth of bureaucracy. We are not getting an adequate return for the money we are spending in Washington, or to put it another way round, we are spending altogether too much money for government services which are neither practical nor necessary. In addition to this we are attempting too many functions and we need a simplification of what the federal government is giving to the people.

"I accuse the present administration of being the greatest spending administration in peace times in all our history—one which has piled bureau on bureau, commission on commission, and has failed to anticipate the dire needs of reduced earning power of the people. Bureaus and bureaucrats have been retained at the expense of the taxpayers.

"I read that the President is at work on a plan to consolidate and simplify the federal bureaucracy. Four long years ago, in the campaign of 1928, he as a candidate proposed to do this. Today, once more a candidate, he is still proposing. I leave you to draw your own inferences."

Calls Tariff Ruinous.

When Gov. Roosevelt took up his views on the tariff he declared that the Smoot-Hawley tariff had been ruinous both to industry and agriculture, but that he proposed tonight to discuss the tariff's effect principally as it applied to agriculture.

He first declared that a tariff can never raise the domestic price of a crop in which a surplus is produced, but that a tariff on the things the farmer buys, which keeps out cheaper priced goods, does raise the price of these articles.

Then the governor sought to prove that the high tariff has driven foreign nations to seek retaliation against America.

Find New Outlets.

Deprived of any American market, he said, the other industrial nations in order to support their own industries, and take care of their own employment problem, had to find new outlets.

In this quest they took to trade agreements with other countries than ourselves and also to the preservation of their own domestic markets against importations by trade restrictions of all kinds, Gov. Roosevelt said.

"An almost frantic movement toward self contained nationalism began. The direct result was a series of retaliatory and defensive measures in the shape of tariffs, embargoes, import quotas and international arrangements.

"Almost immediately international commerce began to languish, and especially the export market for our industrial and agricultural surpluses began to disappear. The Grundy bill was passed in June, 1930. In that month our exports were 294 million dollars and our imports 250 million.

Foreign Trade Drop Cited.

"In an almost uninterrupted decline this foreign trade has dropped away so that, two years later in June of this year, our exports were 115 million and our imports 78 million. These facts speak for themselves."

Mr. Roosevelt said he appreciated that the Republican professes that the tariff equalizes the differences in cost of production between American industry and agriculture and that of foreign nations.

"But I know that in practice that theory is utterly disregarded. The rates are imposed far in excess of any such difference, looking to the total exclusion of imports — prohibitory rates.

"Of course the excessive, outrageously excessive rates in that bill as it became law, must come down. But we should not lower them beyond the point indicated. Such revision of the tariff will injure no legitimate interest."

Noisy Parade for Roosevelt Here Tonight; Torches Needed

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

An old fashioned torchlight parade will be part of the Democratic welcome to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt on his arrival in Chicago tonight—provided the torches can be found. A delegation of ward committeemen scurried around yesterday in a hunt for the old fashioned kerosene torches which marchers used to carry over their shoulders on long sticks, but last night they reported no progress had been made.

The search is to be renewed today, but headquarters reported it appeared that the old time flambeaux, which stood high in political favor in the Blaine and Cleveland campaign in 1884, could not be found even in the most antiquated of the junk shops. In 1912, the Bull Moose year, quantities of them were used in processions, but in the last decade or two they seem to have vanished.

Prepare Big Demonstration.

Whether torches are discovered or not, the Democrats are preparing for a political demonstration such as Chicago has not witnessed for years. The reception of the New York governor is to be attended with bands, red fire, transparencies, marching clubs, horns, rattles, fifes, and calliopes. The Union station is to be center of the demonstration.

Gov. Roosevelt faces a strenuous program today. His itinerary will bring him to Savanna, Ill., at 8:40 a. m., followed by a stop at Freeport, Ill., at 9:45 a. m., where he may make a speech. The stop at Freeport will be for twenty minutes. The governor's train will pass through Beloit at 10:45 a. m. and will reach Milwaukee at 1 p. m. There he will be met by Mayor Cermak and State Senator Thomas J. Courtney, Democratic nominee for state's attorney. The governor and his party are to remain in Milwaukee until 7 p. m., when they will entrain for Chicago, arriving at the Union station here at 9 p. m. over the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad.

Clubmen to Meet Candidate.

A committee of the Iroquois club is also to meet Gov. Roosevelt in Milwaukee. It was appointed yesterday by Irvin Rooks, president of the club. It includes four past presidents of the club, Dr. James Whitney Hall, Judge Ross C. Hall, William Rothmann, and Charles J. Vopicka. Others on the escorting committee are James F. Bishop, Frank G. Hoyne, William B. Towles, Thomas J. Webb, Judge John R. Caverly, County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, and Ernest J. Kruetgen. The committee will tender Gov. Roosevelt an invitation to a "victory dinner" in Chicago after the election. In the past the Iroquois club fêted Presidents Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, and Woodrow Wilson.

Upon detraining at the union station tonight, the Democratic presidential candidate, when he is driven into Canal street, will find assembled Democratic clubs from the wards numbered 20 to 30 and from the west side suburbs. Democrats from the other wards and suburbs will be lined up along Jackson boulevard. All will fall into the parade as it passes and will move to the Congress hotel.

Policing Details.

Assignment of police details for the arrival of Gov. Roosevelt were announced last night by Commissioner Allman. A detail of 150 policemen was ordered to report at the Union station at 7:45 p. m. Capt. Patrick Collins, assisted by four lieutenants and ten sergeants, will be in command. Capt. George O'Connor was ordered to have one lieutenant, three sergeants, and thirty-two policemen at the Congress hotel at 8:15 o'clock, to remain there until the presidential candidate departs. The commissioner's order was that the neatest appearing policemen in the department be selected for the two details. They are to wear white gloves and carry batons.

Speech to Be Broadcast.

The governor is to be taken to Cubs Park tomorrow afternoon for the third game of the world series, and at 6 o'clock he is to be guest at a banquet at the Stevens hotel, at which 2,600 plates will be set. Mayor Cermak received assurances yesterday that Gov. Roosevelt would speak for thirty minutes at the dinner, which will be broadcast over W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel.

Mayor Cermak will open the program, and Judge Henry Horner, candidate for governor, will introduce Gov. Roosevelt. Others on the program are Mr. Courtney, Congressman William H. Dieterich, candidate for United States senator, Scott Lucas, and Bruce Campbell, downstate manager.

Nebraska Farm Wife, Mother of 11, Entertains Roosevelts

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 29.—(AP)—In the small, cozy dining room of the white farm house where she has reared her five daughters and her six strapping sons, quiet gray haired little Mrs. Gus Sumnick entertained at luncheon today.

The guest of honor, seated on her right, was Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt who, if her husband is elected President this fall, will become mistress of the White House next March.

"It's a perfect shame," said Mrs. Roosevelt, "to have the crowd trampling all over your lawn and your flower beds that way. It will ruin them, I'm afraid."

"I suppose so," replied Mrs. Sumnick, and then she added with a shy smile:

"But it happens only once in a life time."

Mrs. Charles W. Bryan, wife of Nebraska's governor, sat at Mrs. Sumnick's left at the luncheon party today, and at the foot of the table sat Mrs. Arthur Mullen, whose husband led the floor fight for Mr. Roosevelt's nomination at Chicago. Among the other guests were Mrs. Roosevelt's daughter, Anna Roosevelt Dall, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. James Roosevelt.

Neighbor women and Mrs. Sumnick's five daughters bustled around serving the lunch today, while Mrs. Sumnick herself in a tan and white printed silk dress sat at the head of the table.

It was a chicken dinner—the kind of dinner that has been served on farms all over the country every Sunday for generations. Fried chicken, hot biscuits, home made jellies, and pickles. It was cooked on a range quite accustomed to cooking big dinners, for the Sumnick's are a large family, and they employ a good many "hands" on their five farms all within sight of each other.

The table was daintily set, and autumn flowers glowed in the bright fall sunshine. After luncheon Mrs. Roosevelt was presented with an armful of flowers.

While Mrs. Sumnick entertained the women members of the party, Gov. Roosevelt had his luncheon seated in a big white chair out under the trees. He had a whole platter of fried chicken all by himself.

After a trip to a nearby field where a threshing crew was at work, Gov. Roosevelt and his party started back to Omaha.

Blast and Fire in Home Kill Friend of Owner

Harry Lepke, 27 years old, a decorator, 225 West 66th street, was burned to death early yesterday in an explosion and fire in the home of his friend, Andrew Casper, at 4116 South Francisco avenue. Lepke was occupying the one story building alone while Mr. and Mrs. Casper were on a visit to Sheboygan, Wis. The explosion was attributed by Chief John Kline of the 21st battalion to accidental ignition of fumes from clothes cleaning fluids kept in the basement by Casper for the operation of a small cleaning plant.

Attorney Miller Found Not Guilty in Assault Case

A jury in the court of Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green last night returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of Theodore Miller, former assistant state's attorney, charged with assaulting Policeman Thomas Gallagher of the Hudson avenue station.

Jonas Perlberg, manager of the Melody Mills in North Riverside, which was bombed early yesterday morning, states that the place is not a taxi dance hall as it was described in an item yesterday. Mr. Perlberg also objected to the statement, printed in only one edition, and quoting the chief of police of North Riverside, that the actual ownership of the place has been credited to Al Capone.

PSYCHOANALYSIS INSTITUTE OPENS HERE MONDAY

To Train Doctors to Treat Mental Ills.

The Institute for Psychoanalysis, an institution for the training of physicians and for scientific research into the psychoanalytic field, will open Monday at 43 East Ohio street. It is the second in this country and the sixth in the world, according to its officers.

The institute is partially endowed, and is incorporated under the laws of Illinois as a not for profit institution. Alfred K. Stern, a director of the Julius Rosenwald fund, is president of the board. Other officers are: Sidney L. Schwarz, a trustee of Michael Reese hospital, who is vice president: Dr. Ludvig Hektoen, director of the John McCormick Institute for Infectious Diseases, treasurer, and Walter T. Fisher, an attorney, secretary. Mrs. Helen Swift Neilson and Dr. William F. Ogburn, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago, complete the list of trustees.

Enrollment Limited.

The institute will be open to a limited enrollment. The director will be Dr. Franz Alexander, formerly associated with the Berlin Psychoanalytic institute, the pioneer institute in the field, founded in 1920. He was professor of psychoanalysis at the University of Chicago in 1931, and the past year was engaged in research at the Judge Baker Foundation in Boston. The associate director will be Dr. Karen Horney, until recently with the Berlin Psychoanalytic institute. She is especially well known through her work in feminine psychology. Dr. Alexander and Dr. Horney will be assisted by five clinical associates and lecturers, leaders in psychoanalytic work in this country.

"For the intelligent public today it is becoming as natural to consult a psychoanalyst concerning a psychosis or a neurosis as it is to go to an ophthalmologist in case of eye trouble." Dr. Alexander said yesterday, in explaining the work of the new institute. "The individuals who joined in the formation of the institute did so because of a common interest in psychoanalysis and a belief that the time is ripe to encourage further development.

Study Mental Cases.

"We can serve most effectively by fostering research and training physicians, thus aiding in understanding and treating the mentally ill," he continued. "Since specially selected problems will be studied, a limited number of patients will be accepted whose therapeutic problems coincide with the research aims of the institute."

Dr. Alexander defined psychoanalysis as "a method of investigating mental processes and making use of scientic insight gained by this technique in the treatment of the mentally sick."

It was explained by Mr. Stern that the Chicago institute will be the first of the six to have full time staff members, and whose salaries will be fixed.

"In order to maintain a staff of sufficient size additional gifts are needed, in addition to the fees from the patients," Mr. Stern added.

The part time members of the staff are Dr. Thomas M. French of the Institute for Juvenile Research, Chicago; Dr. Helen Vincent McLean, lecturer at the School of Social Service Administration, University of Chicago; Dr. Karl Menninger, director of the Menninger Neuropsychiatric clinic, Topeka; Dr. N. Lionel Blitzsten of the department of neuropsychiatry, Northwestern university and Dr. Catherine L. Bacon, formerly of Boston Psychopathic hospital.

List of Consultants.

The list of consultants includes Dr. Leo H. Bartemeier of Detroit; Dr. John Favill, Rush Medical college; Dr. Margaret W. Gerard, University of Chicago; Dr. Ralph C. Hamill, Northwestern university; Dr. Paul L. Schroeder, director, Institute for Juvenile Research, and Dr. H. Douglas Singer, University of Illinois.

On the advisory board are Dr. Albert Barrett of the University of Michigan; Dr. Earl D. Bond, University of Pennsylvania; Dr. Abraham A. Brill, president of the American Psychoanalytic society, New York City; Dr. Max Eitingon, president of the International Psychoanalytic association and of the German Psychoanalytic society; Dr. Bernard Glueck, medical director of Stony Lodge, Ossining, New York; Dr. William Healy, director of the Judge Baker foundation; Dr. David M. Levy, chief of staff of the Child Guildance institute for New York, and Dr. William A. White, George Washington university.

The quarters of the institute consist of a library and lecture room, six analysis rooms, a medical laboratory and a reception room.

Set for No. 12

Members of the Artists and Models' union posed yesterday at the studio of Leslie Michaelson, 222 East Ontario street, for the official poster of the Artists and Models' ball, to be given at the Morrison hotel on Nov. 12. Miss Mercedes Ganey, Miss Bernice Argast, and Miss Irene Birdsong were selected for the poster.

"OTHER" WOMAN AIDS HUSBAND JAILED BY WIFE

One thing Bertha Edsterand, fortune teller who has 21 different addresses, can always foretell is when her husband, whose name is Thomas Joyce Baumbaugh, is going to be arrested. Judge Edgar A. Jonas certified to that yesterday when the husband was before him for an alleged burglary.

"She has had me arrested fifteen times and I am getting tired of it," the defendant complained. "She charges me with stealing my own life insurance policy."

The wife, whose marriage is said not to be legal because it took place fourteen days before she was divorced, was not in court. Judge Jonas sent for her and after calling at several addresses, police found her at 3017 West 22nd street. To justify her frequent charges against her husband she said to Judge Jonas: "He's running around with another woman."

Up stepped a red headed young woman, who gave her name as Rose Mandel, 20 years old, 1323 South Western avenue, who said she was the woman the wife referred to, and she denied "running around" with Baumbaugh, saying she had been a friend of both husband and wife. Judge Jonas continued the case.

ASK MANDAMUS ACTION AGAINST CITY OF CHICAGO

Four States Assert Water Order Is Ignored.

Columbus, O., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Mandamus proceedings to compel the city of Chicago to abide by the order of the United States Supreme court fixing the amount of water to be diverted by the city will be presented to the high court when it convenes next month, attorney generals of four lake states decided here today.

The attorneys general, representing Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan and Ohio, will ask the high court to appoint a commissioner a receiver or a United States marshal to carry out the previous orders of the court.

Attorney General Bettman of Ohio, who called the meeting, declared after the conference, the record of performances by the city and state of Illinois in constructing a sewage disposal plant to reduce the water diversion from Lake Michigan "has at all times been meager and inadequate."

The Supreme court several years ago ordered the city of Chicago and the state of Illinois to cease the water diversion by 1938 and to report every six months on progress made in the erection of the plant.

It is the contention of the attorneys general that the Chicago sanitary district and the state of Illinois are not carrying out provisions of the Supreme court's original decree issued in 1930.

HOLD 5 MEN IN INQUIRY ON AUTO FRAUDS

Five men were held at the detective bureau last night in connection with the investigation of a scheme to defraud automobile owners through use of the advertising columns of THE TRIBUNE and other newspapers. Attorney Joseph Taussig of the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin caused the arrests.

The prisoners are Fred Ellickson, 28 years old, 4411 North Winchester avenue; his father, Thomas Ellickson; Perry Knowlton, 33, of 4422 North Washtenaw avenue; Roy Swardfigger, 43, of 3832 Alta Vista terrace, and Emmett Cole, 44, who lives with Swardfiggger.

According to the complaints, automobile sales stores would be opened and their operators would advertise that they would pay cash for used cars. Instead they gave notes, or certificates of indebtedness, sold the cars thus obtained and moved away without paying the owners.

Attorney Taussig said he had been on the trail of the perpetrators of the fraud for eight months, since the arrest of Joseph Briggs, who was sentenced to prison, and Michael Sammell, former operator of the Hall Motor Sales company, 3245 West North avenue, who is under indictment on the same charge.

Mr. Taussig asked that victims of the fraud get in touch with him or with Sergt. Carl Lemke of the automobile theft detail.

U. S. Charges Stone Officials Borrowed to Aid Statement

Nine officials of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate investment concern, were accused of borrowing $100,000 for three days at the time the company financial statement for 1929 was being prepared, at their trial yesterday in the federal court of Judge Charles E. Woodward. Henry F. Norcott, president of the company, and eight associates are on trial before a jury on charges of using the mails to defraud.

In his opening statement, Prosecutor Joseph A. Struett said that he would show the $100,000 was borrowed to be listed as "cash on hand" in the financial statement. Fred A. Mercer, a vice president of the Drovers National bank, told of the loan from the witness stand yesterday.

Charles D. Packer Jr., one of the defendants, went to him on Dec. 30, 1929, Mercer said, and made arrangements for the loan until Jan. 2. Officials of the Stone company agreed not to take the money from the bank, the witness said, and gave a trust receipt which gave the bank the right to call for $115,000 in securities at any time during the three days.

The other witness called yesterday was Edward S. Flynn, an assistant to Packer. Questioned by Prosecutor Struett, he revealed that $150,000 borrowed in 1929 was used by the Stone company to pay a dividend and other obligations.

Flynn testified that at one time late in 1929 the Stone company, which failed for $14,000,000, had on hand only $45,750 of securities that could be used as collateral. He itemized the list as $36,250 in miscellaneous bonds and $7,500 in first mortgage bonds.

Flynn said that from April, 1929, to July, 1930, between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000 was spent by the Stone company on the Lawsonia subdivision at Green Lake, Wis. Receipts from the subdivision were far below this figure, the witness said.

He also testified that the bookkeeping system of H. O. Stone & Co. was changed under the Norcott régime in order that the company's financial condition "would appear in a better light."

Gen. Strong Quits Legion Over Its Stand on Bonus

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. F. S. Strong, retired, who commanded the 90th division at Camp Kearny here during the world war, said today he had resigned from the American Legion as a result of the stand it took for payment of the bonus at its Portland convention. He said the convention deserted "the high ideals upon which the American Legion was founded."

Boy, 12, Rescues Sister, 9, From Their Burning Home

John Salay Jr., 12 years old, was the hero of a fire at his home, 723 Wrightwood avenue, yesterday morning when he rescued his 9 year old sister, Frances. Both children were sleeping in their apartment on the third floor of the building when fire started in the basement and swept upward through an airshaft. Their father, a garage owner, had gone to work and their mother was shopping.

Piles Go Quick

No Salves—No Cutting

Thousands who have piles have not yet learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor suppositories remove the cause.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The hemorrhoidal veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To get rid of Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, drive out the thick impure blood, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study, found a real internal Pile remedy. He called his discovery HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients with success in over 900 cases, and ther decided every Pile sufferer, no matter how stubborn their case, might try his prescription with a money back guarantee.

HEM-ROID tablets have such a wonderful record of success in this city that Walgreen's invite you to try HEM-ROID and guarantee money refunded if it does not end your Pile misery.

Mr. J. E. Dalinghaus,
Department of National Advertising,
Chicago Tribune,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Mr. Dalinghaus:

You may be interested to know that we sold 108 per cent more Budweiser Malt in Chicago the first six months of this year than we sold over the same period of 1931.

Also, the percentage of returns to our Budweiser Malt Title Contest in your city proved highly gratifying.

This contest in which we offered $10,000 in cash prizes received entries from 447,291 individuals, which far exceeded our expectations. We are confident that the rotogravure advertisements and the color pages we ran in the Chicago Tribune played a major part in pyramiding sales. These advertisements in the Tribune were a prime factor in the great success Budweiser achieved in the territory served by your paper.

We want to assure you that the advertising in the Tribune plus your cooperation and service did a mighty good job for Budweiser Malt.

Very truly yours,

Jack Thomas

Advertising Manager

ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC., during the first eight months of this year, concentrated 42% of their Chicago advertising appropriation on Budweiser Malt in the Chicago Tribune.

For their Sunday Tribune roto campaign and daily run-of-paper 3-color pages, they spent 75% more in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper.

"You may be interested to know," writes Jack Thomas, advertising manager of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., "that we sold 108% more Budweiser Malt in Chicago the first six months of this year than we sold over the same period of 1931.

"We are confident that the rotogravure advertisements and the color pages we ran in the Chicago Tribune played a major part in pyramiding sales. These advertisements in the Tribune were a prime factor in the great success Budweiser achieved in the territory served by your paper.

"We want you to know that the advertising in the Tribune plus your co-operation and service did a mighty good job for Budweiser Malt."

Thus the testimony of another great company is added to the record of sales successes achieved in the Chicago market with the aid of the Chicago Tribune.

In using Sunday rotogravure and run-of-paper 3-color pages in this newspaper, Anheuser-Busch availed themselves of the most powerful advertising weapons at their disposal in this market.

And by spending more of their money where it had more chance to yield results in profitable volume, Anheuser-Busch more than doubled their sales over a period in which they used no Tribune advertising.

"The Chicago Tribune did a mighty good job for Budweiser Malt" . . . and it can do a mighty good job for you! If your product or your merchandise is not selling as it should in the market the Chicago Tribune so dominantly covers, start now to make use of the medium which can get results for you now.

Ask for a Tribune salesman to give you complete facts and figures.

POPE TO ATTACK MEXICO TODAY FOR PERSECUTION

Encyclical Is Shortest He Has Written.

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI. tomorrow will publish an encyclical denouncing what will be described as new acts of persecution against the Catholic church by the Mexican government. The pontiff was represented as feeling that a new crisis had been reached between the church and the government in Mexico, and that the modus vivendi of 1929 has been violated.

The encyclical will say that the rights of the church have been infringed and the acts of the Mexican government have interfered with the people's religious habits and practices.

The bishops and priests of Mexico, to whom the encyclical will be addressed especially, will be instructed on the conduct they should follow toward the Mexican authorities during difficult times.

Conciliatory in Tone.

The encyclical will refer to a previous one issued by Pope Pius in 1926 and entitled "Iniqui Affiectisque." In that document was discussed then existing church and state difficulty.

The nature of the pope's instructions to churchmen in Mexico was not learned, but it was known that he would reaffirm the principles of the church, although the tone will be conciliatory.

The encyclical tomorrow probably will be one of the pope's shortest, totalling only 4,000 words, and will be published in the vatican organ, Osservatore Romano, tomorrow evening.

Osservatore Romano recently printed an editorial on the Mexican situation asserting that communism was at the bottom of "religious persecution" in Mexico.

The editorial accused Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, Mexico's revolutionary leader, of plotting in 1924 to raise a Red army to replace the regular troops, and said the anti-church movement was carried to such an extreme in some Mexican states that "hymns to the devil" were sung in public meetings.

BASIS OF AGREEMENT.

The basis of a religious agreement between the Catholic church and the Mexican government was announced on June 22, 1929, thus:

1. The Mexican government will allow the Catholic hierarchy to designate those priests who are to register in compliance with Mexican laws.

2. Religious instruction, while not permitted in the schools [which is specified in the constitution] will be permitted within the churches.

3. The right is reserved to Mexican Catholic prelates to apply for modification of the constitution at any time in the future, which is the same as granted all Mexican citizens.

Limits Activity of Church.

When Gen. Calles, a pronounced anti-clerical, became president of Mexico, the 20th century differences between the church and state came to an abrupt climax.

The Mexican congress in 1926 gave the president powers to legislate by decree, and he drew up legislation to place into effect certain articles of the 1917 constitution, limiting the activity of the Catholic church, recognizing marriage as a civil contract and forbidding religious instruction in public schools.

SEIZE FAKE FAIR STAMPS, ARREST 3 IN OAK PARK RAID

Oak Park police under the command of Lieut. Harry Wilson yesterday raided a flat at 207 Washington boulevard in Oak Park and arrested three men who are charged with selling fraudulent World's Fair stamps. In the flat were found 100,000 of the stickers. The trio are said to have admitted they disposed of 200,000 others at 1 cent each.

Those held are Ben Yost, 24 years old; Paul Nelson, 26 years old; and Kenyon Douglas, 24 years old. Yost's wife, Virginia, was taken into custody, but was released. The police said that the men represented themselves as authorized by the Century of Progress officials to sell the stamps. They all came here from California, where, they admitted, they had worked a similar Olympic games stamp racket.

Yost's brother, Roy, 29 years old, who was arrested in Lake Forest on Wednesday while selling the fake stamps, was formally charged with operating a confidence game and was held for a hearing on Oct. 6. His bonds were first at $1,000. Representatives of the exposition and the Secret Six are to aid in the prosecution.

6 ROB MICHIGAN BANK; GET $12,000; SHOOT 2; ESCAPE

Holland Bandits Flee in Shower of Lead.

Holland, Mich., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Although the trail of six bandits who held up the First State bank here today and wounded two persons when they shot their way out, was lost in a wooded area near Hopkins, police dispatched reinforcements to augment the search.

The bandits entered the bank with a machine gun and revolvers and forced 10 employés, eight customers and three bank directors to lie face downward on the floor. William J. Westveer, assistant cashier, was compelled to open the vault. More than $12,000 was taken.

Ben Hamm, entering the bank on business, fled when he saw the robbers and spread the alarm.

Chief of Police Peter A. Lievense was shot in the right side when he approached the front door of the bank. The bandits fled in two waiting cars at the rear of the bank.

Chief Lievense opened fire on the fleeing bandits. In the barrage, Peter De Jongh, 45, father of four, was shot.

Hundreds of shots were fired as the bandits sped away. Police gave chase and were closing in on the bandits near Burnips, southeast of here, when the robbers halted and opened fire. Three miles farther on another battle ensued. Hundreds took part in the pursuit.

SUBSTITUTES ASK BETTER DIVISION OF SCHOOL WORK

With a meeting of more than 500 normal school graduates in the Crane Technical High school auditorium last night, the recently organized Substitute and Unassigned Teachers' union launched its campaign for a more equitable distribution of substitute work in the Chicago public schools. The speakers were Miss Pearl Greenberg, leader of the new group; Miss Agnes B. Clohesy, president of the Elementary Teachers' union, and Miss Lucy Schacht of the Chicago Normal college.

"This organization," said Miss Greenberg, "is designed to bolster up the morale of substitute teachers at a time when the situation seems almost hopeless. In 1930-'31, when substitutes averaged 7.7 days a month, there were fifty-four on sabbatical assignment, thirty-four who had more than fifteen days' work a month, and 220 who had less than three. In 1932, when the average was 6.6, there were eighty-six on sabbatical assignment, twenty-four who had fifteen days or more, and 390 who had less than three. The preferred list of substitutes must go and what work there is must be divided more equitably."

PARAGUAY TAKES BOLIVIAN FORT IN JUNGLE WAR

2,000 Troops Captured After 21 Day Battle.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Sept. 29.—Paraguayan troops today captured Fort Boqueron, the Bolivian stronghold in the Gran Chaco, after a 21 day battle. The capture of 2,000 Bolivian soldiers and huge stores of war materials was announced in a government bulletin.

Announcement of the capture set Asuncion wild. Society women locked arms with laborers and paraded to the presidential palace behind bands. There they were told the president had gone to the military hospitals to congratulate the wounded for their part i nthe victory.

Deny Fort Was Captured.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Inferentially denying that Paraguay had captured Fort Boqueron, the Bolivian general staff today issued a communique saying the fort "continues to be the principal Paraguayan objective, the attack having intensified since Tuesday, with heavy artillery fire."

Rebel General Wins Support.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 29.—Gen. Pedro Vignola, who rebelled against the government yesterday in the northern state of Antofagasta, continued to hold out tonight, supported by local authorities and civilians.

The civilians organized demonstrations in favor of Gen. Vignola and began forming a civil junta. They sent messages to Provisional President Bartolme Blanche stating they would not permit Gen. Armando Marin, who was taken prisoner at Antofagasta yesterday, or any other man the government designated to assume the local command.

They also announced their determination to separate from the Santiago régime unless Blanche resigns in favor of a civilian.

A dispatch from Valparaiso today reported that the destroyer Lynch left for Antofagasta under sealed orders.

Carlos G. Davila, ousted as head of the socialist régime in the recent air force revolt, sailed for New York tonight. He expects to resume his career in journalism.

Brazilian Rebels Ask Truce.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 29.—(AP)—President Getulio Vargas consented today to hear a plea for peace in the Brazilian civil war and Gen. Goes Monteiro was given full power to decide the terms for the truce requested by the rebels.

Gen. Bartholdo Klinger, the rebel commander who had helped place Vargas in the presidential chair in the 1930 revolt, pleaded for a cessation of hostilities to "prevent further sacrifices of lives."

In the meantime, the ministry of war announced that federal troops had completed the occupation of Ribera Opreto, the coffee capital of Sao Paulo, and that rebel forces were withdrawing further southward.

ELGIN COUNCIL CUTS PAY OF CITY EMPLOYES 25 PCT.

City council members of Elgin yesterday approved an order for a 25 per cent cut in the salaries of all city employés, effective Oct. 15. The officials said Elgin was confronted with the most serious financial crisis in its history.

The salary reduction will affect Mayor Myron M. Lehman. A number of municipal employés will be dismissed. The economy program was made necessary by the estimated loss of $80,000 in municipal receipts intended to carry the city through to the close of the year.

A part of the revenue loss was blamed on the recent action of the Kane county board of review in cutting realty assessments in the county 20 per cent.

Fifty and Fit

A MAN is as old—or as young—as his organs.

At fifty, you can be in your prime.

Why go along with "fairly good health" when you might be enjoying vigor you haven't felt for years?

There's a simple little thing anyone can do to keep the vital organs stimulated, and feel fit all the time. People don't realize how sluggish they've grown until they've tried it. The stimulant that will stir your system to new life is Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. It will make a most amazing difference in many ways.

This famous doctor's prescription is a delicious syrup made with fresh herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. It starts its good work with the first spoonful. That's all you need to drive away the dullness and headache of a bilious spell, and rid the system of that slow poison that saps your strength. It's better than a tonic for tired bowels, and unlike habit-forming laxatives you can take it freely or give it to any child. And it isn't expensive.

Get some syrup pepsin today, and take a little tonight. Don't wait until you're sick to give your system this wonderful help. You can avoid those spells of biliousness or constipation. A spoonful every now and then is better than constant worry about the condition of your bowels, or fear of auto-intoxication as you grow older. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin protects the system. All druggists keep this preparation.

THE HOUSING BILL.

Opposition to the housing bill prepared by the state housing commission appointed by Gov. Emmerson has developed in both houses of the legislature. The objections to the bill seem to be based on the theory that the grant of power is too broad. Curiously enough, the objections have been raised principally by downstate members from essentially rural communities which could not be adversely affected by the bill if the powers conferred were tenfold what they are.

It is to be hoped that in the discussion of the bill at Springfield the members will not lose sight of the impelling reason for passing a housing bill at this session. The last congress voted more than a billion dollars to be lent for so-called self-liquidating projects. The Reconstruction Finance corporation, which is handling the money, is known to be favorable to large scale urban housing projects, particularly if they are intended for slum clearance. Illinois will get none of the housing money unless Illinois provides, in the words of the federal act, for regulation "by state or municipal law as to rents, charges, capital structure, rate of return, and areas and methods of operation." These points have been covered in the bill prepared by the housing commission. If the legislature is not satisfied with the work of its commission the original bill should be modified or a new one substituted.

The legislature has devoted its efforts thus far largely to seeking a way of raising funds to relieve the unemployed in the cities. The money it is trying to raise is to be distributed as charity, in sums barely sufficient for subsistence. The housing loans offered by the federal government promise reëmployment to as many as 25,000 Illinois building mechanics at full wages and to that extent will relieve much of the pressure for charity funds. To pass up the opportunity to obtain this much relief for the unemployed at no added expense to the taxpayers of Illinois would be unthinkable.

As has been said in this place before, the principle of government aid in housing is open to serious objections, but it is now too late to raise those objections. The money has been voted by congress. Illinois will contribute more than its proportional share to the reconstruction fund, but unless the legislature votes a housing bill Illinois will receive none of the money which the Reconstruction Finance corporation will allocate for housing and Illinois building labor will remain out of work.

Certainly a measure which offers as much by way of unemployment relief as this one does ought not to be dismissed with an epithet like Mr Devine's "Utopian." Mr. Devine and other opponents of the measure owe it to themselves to sit down with the members of the housing commission and attempt to compromise their differences for the sake of the thousands of unemployed men and their families who are most directly concerned.

LEAD IN THE BOOTS.

Boyne City, advantageously situated, as the chamber of commerce would say, in a healthful location at the foot of beautiful Lake Charlevoix in upper Michigan, has a new postoffice. The city's population has been decreasing, but its postoffice needs have been increasing. This contradiction of nature by politics may be explained by the assumption that as people move away more letters are written between the old and the new homes, by the fact that more hay fever sufferers are moving into the region for the season, or by an active congressman. Twenty years ago Boyne City had over 5,000 population and a postoffice which set the federal government back $960 a year rent. Now it has 2,650 inhabitants and the new postoffice cost the government $65,000. Four years ago Boyne City had 52 federal taxpayers. The survivors, if any, may take a particular interest in the new building, but the remainder of the populace can dance around it as if it were a Maypole, when May dancing is seasonable.

Boyne City seems to be one which actually got something out of Postoffice Jack Garner's program of recuperation by going broke. No doubt there are many others. The Charlevoix county town is only a small exhibit to reveal a massive plan. Theorists say America perishes because it has no plan. They are mistaken. It may perish, but it has a plan. It is a plan of conspicuous waste, recommended to the study of the planners.

Congressman Bohn, who got the new postoffice for Boyne City, did something which was politically profitable for himself and, although it was swag from the public funds, it cost his constituents in the region virtually nothing. Therefore it was, politically, all good. It wasted public money. It gained public support. Out in Utah, for another instance, the apostolic senator, Mr. Smoot, is having a hard run in the Mormon country for reelection, but he may pull through because he has been such a good provider. His car loadings in Washington, billed for Utah, have been so remarkable that the state may think twice before it dismisses such a go-getter. At that, Utah balanced up its givings and its takings better than most of the mendicant states which aim to get ten dollars in subsidies for every dollar paid in tax. Utah paid $2,381,319 in 1931 and touched Uncle Sam for $2,332,942 in federal aid alone.

Every one knows that the first law of politics is the use of public money for politically profitable and economically wasteful projects. It is known that no private enterprise could be solvent after a few years of political methods. It is also known that politics would be unworkable without the economic waste. It therefore occurs to the liberal mind that the extension of political government is the way to economic recovery. The way to get out of a bog is to slip lead in the boots.

HAPPY RUSSIA.

A new decree in blessed Russia, the planner's Eden and the haven of the proletariat, requires the farmers to deliver meat products in specified amounts at fixed prices for the next fifteen months. It is explained that the decree is forced by the shortage of meat and is to prevent the peasants from taking advantage of an earlier modification of collectivist regulation which gave them some free trading privileges.

Under the soviet coercion of agriculture the greatest farming country in the world cannot raise and distribute enough food for its population. Failure to make the meat deliveries will subject the peasant family responsible for it to a fine equivalent to the market price of the products demanded. Thus the emancipation of the working classes progresses under the great plan executed by an absolutism only occasionally modified by assassination undertaken by its victims.

By forced labor, restricted rations, seizure of products and the employment of foreign experts soviet Russia endeavors to avoid starvation. Now and then the oppressed farmers massacre the commissars' agents and now and then the Red soldiers massacre the farmers. In despair the peasants destroy their stock and their surpluses and starve or the agents rob them of their goods and they starve.

The planned society has force behind it. It has the army. It is without compunction or tenderness. It has a dictatorship which does not submit to political opposition. It has destroyed freedom and independence. It has established a slavery which is a religion to its addicts and a terror to the nonconformists. It is in constant danger of starving to death because the food raisers have been reduced to the status of their animals. This government is, therefore, the hope of humanity, and the American intellectuals urge that the United States undertake to assure for itself at least some of the revealed blessings.

WE HAVEN'T BEGUN TO FIGHT—AND MAYBE WON'T.

The New Yoicks have been too much for Charlie Grimm's young men and just now it looks like a hard winter. It may be different when the battle is rejoined at Wrigley field here in Chicago even if the prospects just now could not be used for anything heavy in the way of a loan. The Cubs never did like the road very well. It does not suit their style to open an inning. Their preference is to come up for the last half of the ninth and then with two out and two strikes on the third batter look at the score board and, discovering that the tally is only ten to one against them, pound out eleven runs. This cannot be done if they do not know their opponents' final score.

It is true that Detroit is the only town the Cubs have been able to lick outside their own league in some thirty years of trying, but that is merely proof that a miracle is needed and this is the place for them, where the river runs backward, the teachers live without money and the proudest historical event is a massacre. The New Yolcks are being lured into the interior. In the end they'll be in luck if they are adopted by the farm board or let in for something from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. They can't get away with the present rough stuff, not even if Al Capone is in Atlanta.

Editorial of the Day

"MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN."
[Rockford Journal.]

The handwriting is on every courthouse wall. It is so plain it doesn't take a Daniel to interpret what it means. The politicians have seen it. Like Belshazzar, king of the ancient Chaldeans, "their thoughts trouble them so that the joints of their loins are loosed and their knees smite one against another."

Not only is a warning written on the wall but the last chapter of the giddiest and gaudiest age of American extravagance is being transcribed across the nation in bold-faced type.

For a generation or more dizzy officeholders, intoxicated by the glitter of easy money, have indulged in a wild orgy of spending money that has finally landed this prosperous land on the verge of the black pit of bankruptcy. If the truth were admitted, local governments are bankrupt already, living on money pilfered from the pockets of a nation yet unborn.

It was sweet while it lasted. The flowing stream of golden millions was a temptation few could resist. Figures indicating that ten per cent of the population were on some kind of public pay roll told only half the story. The other half was written in magnificent checks and vouchers that quietly slipped to a silent host who had their fingers in the government but whose names rarely appeared—who sold the supplies and machinery and equipment, and obtained lucrative franchises and contracts and concessions, realizing fabulous sums of money.

People had come to look upon political money making as part of a fascinating national sport. They expected it. They wrote jokes about it. They condoned it. A scandal at a high point in government was winked at and laughed off. One who ventured to protest or object was at once deluged beneath a flood of clamorous shouts that he was just another "politician" trying to make himself heard. People paid small heed to one who cried out against the squandering that was soon to prove the one cancerous growth upon an otherwise healthy form of government.

There was only one end that could possibly come of it. The back of the nation cracked beneath a load of confiscatory taxes. The people could not pay. And when they could not pay, only then did they begin to take account of what was going on.

Today a chastened America stands amidst the wreckage and disaster and ruin that are the fruits of her wanton prodigality—but with a newborn, resolute purpose that the great American prodigacy must come to an end, lest it destroy the vitals of this great commonwealth.

Wholesale slashing of costs and expenses today is the beginning of the end—either the end of America's folly or the end of a system of representative government that was intended as a safeguard against the precise evil which has overtaken it. It must be one or the other. If we may judge from what we hear of the voice of the people of this incomparable government, it will be the end of folly and not the end of a government that deserves to endure.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Here to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

BOTH OF THE OLD PARTIES are going strong now to round up the farm vote, the railroad vote, the soldier vote, the wets, the drys, the standpatters, the radicals, the manufacturers, the investors, and all the other kinds of elements we've got floating around in the body politic. But neither one of them has given thought to the people who can swing the election either way, the "I don' wanna lose my vote" fellows. The party that gets that vote will win hands down. And this is where the straw vote comes in. That is the straw vote whose results are announced close enough to election day so that another straw vote can't be published showing the other one is all wrong. The "I don' wanna lose my vote" boys and girls are not bothered about the burning issues of the day. All they want is to be on the winning side. They're persuaded in their own minds that if they vote for a candidate who isn't elected they've thrown away their votes. And, gosh, to a sovereign voter that is something just too horrible for words. Charge, Democrats! Sic 'em, Republicans! Go after these "I don' wanna lose my vote" voters. That's where victory lies.

MOTHER.

She was just a woman,
As most women are,
Making little wishes
To the first white star.
"Little star of evening,
Shining silver bright,
Light a path through darkness
For my lad tonight."
She'd sit near her window
Chaining prayer on prayer,
The candle at her elbow,
Gleaming on her hair.
When she'd see him coming,
In the star-light glow,
She'd snuff out the candle—
He was not to know,
How she'd waited for him,
Chaining prayer on prayer,
One after the other,
To lead him safely there.

A MAN WHO DIED down in Arkansas the other day at the age of one hundred and twenty said he remembered every presidential campaign from that of James Monroe in 1816. A clinching argument against living to be one hundred and twenty.

WE MUST ADMIT that the hitch-hikers have their side of the argument, too. All the sympathy has been given to the auto driver and nobody takes up for the hitch-hiker. And there is much to be said on both sides; oftentimes the hitch-hiker has just as bitter disappointment when given a ride as the kind hearted autoist who takes one in. For instance, the other night on the west side in Chicago an autoist saw a girl standing out in the road wriggling her thumb for a ride. He stopped and took her in and the lady hitch-hiker immediately leveled a gat at his head and demanded his money. And what do you think! Why, that auto driver had only a dollar. Yessir, just a dollar for all the trouble the lady hitch-hiker had gone to. Just a dollar! Why, the gun must have cost more than that. Automobile drivers should really be more considerate and carry at least five dollars in their jeans. Standing out in the road and wriggling one's thumb and pulling a gun on a guy ought to be worth five bucks if it's worth anything at all. Something ought to be done about this.

THE DRAGON KILL.

A dragon in the alley snorts and pants.
Dearest, go and get your longest lance!

Stab him as he writhes upon the stone, break his hide and crush his brittle bone!

Kill him ere I lose my sanity, ere my entire reason flees from me.

His breath is hot and rhythmic and the smoke that billows from his nostrils makes me choke!

My darling, lance in hand, strode out the door to cut the dragon from his husky roar, and, soon returned, I thought to see him sway with blood upon his clothes, and matted clay.

"Aha," he cried, "I killed him with a blow.
Don't look, my dear, it's sickening below.

I sliced him neatly into twenty parts and of his thumping heart I made two hearts."

Bravado seldom is my hero's mien.
I looked below. It was a tar machine.

WHAT DREADFUL MASSACRES Chicago has known! The Fort Dearborn massacre, the St. Valentine's massacre, and now this terrible Yankee massacre. No, don't think about it; it's too horrible, too sickening!

BATHS AND BLOOD PRESSURE.

S. G. writes: Will you write an article on baths? What baths should a person with high blood pressure take? What temperature and duration? How about a person with low blood pressure? What baths will induce sleep and which will increase the body's energy?

Baths are not of much help in the treatment of either high or low blood pressure. They have some value as emergency measures and that is all. If a person with high blood pressure is dizzy, is having nose bleed or hemorrhage from elsewhere, or is on the verge of apoplexy—if we can tell when that is—he can secure some temporary relief by a fairly short soothing bath at around 90 degrees. If a person has fainted as the result of a temporary, rapid, and considerable drop in blood pressure, to douse him with cold water is a quick relief procedure that has merit. A cold body bath or shower would be even more efficient, but it is not often necessary. These are to be classed as nothing more than emergency measures.

Blood pressure may be high because of emotional strain such as worry and excitement. The soothing, tepid bath already described is all right as a temporary expedient. But no form of bathing will permanently lower a blood pressure that is high as a result of thickening of the blood vessel wall. It is doubtful if it should be lowered even if it could. The opinion is growing that this type of blood pressure is there for a purpose. It is needed to make up for some departures from the normal in the body purposes, and if there were a drop harm would result.

The bath that causes sleep is the soothing, warm bath. As a rule, the temperature of this bath should be around 85 to 90. There are people who are excited, and in whom poor sleeping results from the warm bedtime bath, but they are exceptional.

To save a drunkard from delirium tremens, or an excited person from delirium of any sort, nothing is superior to the warm, tepid bath—one with a temperature of a little above what is called neutral—one that feels a little warm to the hand. Institutions that care for delirious patients are equipped with warm, continuous baths and warm sprays.

A bath that is hot enough to cause the skin to turn red will cause fever. In those diseases which are now being treated by throwing the patient into a fever some use is made of hot baths. However, for this purpose various electric heating machines are more efficient than hot water baths.

The cold bath at, say, 50 to 60, is invigorating and stimulating. However, it should not be continued for more than five minutes and usually it is given for less. Nor is it used on people who are not able to get up a good reaction following its use.

These are but a few of the things that might be written on the subject of baths. A book of a thousand pages on the subject probably would be a waste of time and material. But one of a hundred pages and no illustrations would not exhaust it.

MAY BE NETTLE RASH.

D. O. F. H. writes: Why does the face swell when fat or sweet foods are eaten? One eye has been bothering me for about three years. The doctors have taken all tests and find me all right. Is it serious? Is there any cure? What can I do to overcome it? Can my partner get it from sleeping with me?

REPLY.

Apparently you have severe nettle rash after eating certain foods. It is not contagious. It is not serious, though it is quite uncomfortable. The simplest cure consists in avoiding the foods that cause it.

AVOID EMOTIONS.

J. S. writes: In a recent article on a woman who has worn out emotionally, indifference to everybody and everything was suggested for recovery.

1. Does this indifference to everything refer to the use of stimulants such as coffee and tobacco?

2. Will the use of these drugs hinder the recovery if the user is in the habit of taking them moderately?

REPLY.

1. It did not. The advice was to avoid indulgence in every form of emotion and emotional experience. These are not served in cups. Tobacco and coffee are drugs.

2. I don't think so. It is not good judgment to pick a "worn out" period as the time to wrestle with a drug habit. Don't dig up more snakes than you can kill.

WHITE SPOTS.

Mrs. E. G. writes: I would like to know what white spots on the hands and face are caused from and what is the cure.

REPLY.

The cause is multiple. Probably no one knows much about it. Some people keep the spots stained, using walnut juice for the purpose. Cures due to taking dilute muriatic acid properly have been reported.

WRECKING ORDERED.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—[Friend of the People.]—There is an old house next door to us which should be removed or razed. Early in the spring the roof was removed and now only the four cement walls stand. Last night some boys built a fire in it right under one of the windows on our side and smoke and flames blew up the side of our house, nearly setting it afire. The walls are in danger of collapsing. P. V.

This building has been found to be in a dangerous condition and the owner has been notified to wreck. This order will be enforced. JOHN E. ERICSSON.
Deputy, Department of Buildings.

LOST HEIR'S SHARE.

Hinsdale, Ill., Sept. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Our lawyer is holding a lost heir's share of an estate. 1. Is he permitted to do this? 2. If not, who should hold it? 3. How can I compel this lawyer to turn it over to the proper person? 4. How long a period must elapse before this share can be distributed among the other heirs? B. K.

1. If the estate was probated then ordinarily the court would insist that such share be deposited with the county treasurer.
2. See No. 1.
3. The facts that you state are not conclusive. If you wish to litigate you should employ another attorney.
4. Seven years.

DEPENDS UPON FACTS.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Some time ago I purchased a lot from some subdividers on which there is a very small balance. If the subdividers should go into bankruptcy or receivership will I lose my lot or can I pay the small balance to the receiver and get my deed? K. G.

As long as the title is in the subdividers' names and your contract is not recorded the subdivider is in a position to resell or to pledge the property to a holder without notice of your rights, but if no such dishonest step has been taken and you can trace a specific lot among the subdividers' assets then your rights in that lot would be recognized in the bankruptcy proceedings.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SECURE JUDGMENT FIRST.

Keithsburg, Ill., Sept. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a claim due me against a person now dead. Her money is in a bank that recently failed and is now in the hands of a receiver. She left a small piece of property that is rented. The two years are up. Can I force a sale now after the two years are up? L. S.

In general a creditor can force an execution sale of his debtor's assets after securing judgment. Where the debtor has died, probate proceedings would be necessary. We advise you to place your claim in the hands of an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 30, 1916.

LONDON.—The Germans continue to give ground slowly before the terrific attacks of the allies on the Somme front. The war office report says that the British troops occupied 500 yards of German trenches to the east of Les Boeufs. They also are pushing their way southward in the direction of Bapaume, having last night taken a strongly fortified farm only 500 yards southwest of Le Sars. The great battle still rages in the vicinity of Thiepval. The British were forced out of "Hessian" trench, but retook it later, capturing 500 prisoners in the operation. The French made further progress between Fregicourt and Morval, to the east of Combles.

BERLIN.—The repulse of a strong British attack on the Somme front is reported in the official announcement, which says: "After the sanguinary repulse of the enemy's attacks on Wednesday, the battle of the Somme slackened considerably. A strong British attack between the Ancre and Courcelette was repulsed on the western wing in hand to hand fighting with the loss of a small trench section. Northwest and north of Courcelette the attack broke down under our fire."

LONDON.—Reports from Berlin and Vienna indicate that the Rumanians about Hermannstadt in Transylvania have been driven back toward the border after some violent fighting. Vienna says the heights south and southeast of the town have been captured by the Austro-German troops. The battle has not been concluded, but Berlin insists that the resistance of the Rumanians has become weaker. The Bulgarian statement reports that on the Macedonian front the Bulgars repulsed the enemy's left wing to the Stara Nieretske Planina and occupied the line of the Listz mountain and Ischitshewo mountain. On the Florina front vigorous artillery firing is reported.

LONG BRANCH, N. J.—President Wilson made it plain that he wants no "disloyal" Americans to vote for him. He expressed indignation over a telegram from Jeremiah A. O'Leary of New York, president of the American Truth society, accusing him of being pro-British, and saying he had failed to obtain compliance with American rights. The President sent Mr. O'Leary a short telegram which officials indicated Mr. Wilson had desired to put in stronger language. His message follows: "Your telegram received. I would feel deeply mortified to have you or anybody like you vote for me. Since you have access to many disloyal Americans and I have not I will ask you to convey this message to them."

NOWATA, Okla. — Two Negroes, accused of being implicated in the killing of Deputy Sheriff James Gibson during a jail delivery here today, were taken from the jail by a mob tonight and lynched in front of the courthouse. A first attempt to lynch one of the Negroes was frustrated by the Rev. Perry E. Pierce, a Methodist minister, who pleaded with the mob until the suspended Negro was cut down unconscious. The mob dispersed, but re-formed later and lynched the two men. Events culminating in the double lynching moved with dramatic swiftness. Three Negro prisoners effected an escape from the county jail late today. They were discovered by Sheriff James May, who was knocked down and robbed of his pistol. Gibson went to his aid and was shot to death.

CHICAGO.—All records for increased assessments and assessment of back taxes were broken when the estate of Richard W. Sears, one of the founders of Sears, Roebuck & Co., was instructed to pay back taxes amounting to $1,400,000 by the Cook county board of review.

WORLD SERIES

Second Game—Oct. 10, 1916.

BOSTON.—[By I. E. Sanborn]—Just as darkness was about to terminate in a hard knot a magnificent 14 inning pitchers' battle between Babe Ruth of the Red Sox and Sherrod Smith of the Robins, Del Gainer stepped to bat for Larry Gardner and lined a drive into the twilight of left field, driving home the tally which gave Boston its second victory over Brooklyn in the world series of 1916. The score was 2 to 1. It was not only the longest game in innings ever played for the big bunting, but it was the best pitched and most nerve racking. Last year's record for attendance still stands, however, for less than 42,000 people saw today's struggle. McNally, running for Hoblitzel from second, scored the winning run on Gainer's smash. The first tally of the game was made by Brooklyn in the first inning when Myers hit a home run. Scott evened the count for the Red Sox in the third after he had smacked out a clean three bagger.

PHYSICAL MONSTERS IN THE HOME.

Streator, Ill., Sept. 23.—On your front page today you have an article concerning the death of a 2 year old child whose stepfather had overstepped reason and whipped the boy seriously. Is there any significance in the fact that you print this story on the front page? If so, I suppose it is because the child did not survive the whipping. What puzzles me is that a child has to suffer so much to make the front page. Why do all the victims of cruel treatment have to suffer behind the barrier of property lines? Some few cases come to the attention of proper authorities, but so many do not. I don't say anything can be done about it, because it lies so far within the jurisdiction of the head of each family.

The home may be humble, or it may be fashionable, but it is a Lilliputian kingdom, with the children at the mercy of physical monsters. They need not be monsters to be feared as a child fears the monsters in his troubled sleep. Rather they should be monstrous comforters, or leaders, examples.

Grownups would not like to be sent to a Lilliput, where they would be at the mercy of giants maybe thrice their size. And if they were, what behavior problems would develop if the giants tried to beat them! If these giants satisfied their desires and whipped the grownups for all sorts of reasons!

"When a mule is kicking he isn't pulling," but I am doing what I can about it. Several years ago there was a boy who spent his time with a father who treated him cruelly, excepting the time he spent in the detention home, branded incorrigible. Since taking this boy with me he has developed into his natural self, a better than average boy.

Folks who punish children in anger should remember that "Anger is a short madness." And who would turn a madman loose upon a child? JOE LAUTH.

UNDER REPUBLICAN AUSPICES.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—This is an open letter to the head of the agricultural division of the Republican party national campaign headquarters at the Palmer house. I want to ask for a public reply to the following three questions:

1. Mr. Head of the Agricultural Division, you are instructing all Republican party workers in the western states to tell the farmers that Gov. Roosevelt did not invoke the laws of New York to stop Wall street from robbing the farmers. Now will you tell me why the Republican governor of Illinois did not invoke the laws of Illinois to stop La Salle street from robbing the western farmers by selling huge quantities of these same securities?

2. Will you tell me why the Republican governors of other states where there are stock exchanges and securities brokers did not rush to the farmer's protection and invoke their state laws to keep the farmer's money in his pocket?

3. Will you tell me whether [a] you think the activities of Mr. Samuel Insull's man, Mr. Frank Smith, to elect Mr. Len Small as Republican governor of Illinois are for the protection of the farmers, and [b] you believe Mr. Small and Mr. Smith, Mr. Insull's man, can be depended upon to safeguard the farmers from the stock brokers?

If a good explanation occurs to you for the Foshay frauds in the northwest and the national Insull larcenies, which occurred under high Republican auspices, you might include the explanation in your reply, because farmers everywhere will enjoy reading it. In fact, you might go further and explain how so many now defiated and worthless securities happened to be issued and inflated while Calvin Coolidge was President.

THOMAS QUINN BEESLEY.

IS THIS THE SAME GLENN?

Kankakee, Ill., Sept. 24.—I am curious to know if this Glenn who made the boat trip with Bill Thompson and Len Small down the river recently is the same Glenn who made a speech in the Luna theater, Kankakee, Ill., in 1928, before an audience of over a thousand people, in which he said, "Len Small wants to serve the state of Illinois another term. I am for that. I believe he should serve another term, but I am not saying where." Is this the same Glenn?

BEN W. ALPINER.

THE NEW TRANSFERS.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—With a gallant gesture of liberality the Chicago Surface Lines confers a great new service upon the people of Chicago. On Oct. 1 they will graciously issue a new transfer which will "eliminate difficulties in making certain trips, although involving some reversal of direction" and "provide complete information of the passenger's entire trip." What a favor!

Of course, the main purpose will be "compliance with the letter and spirit of city ordinances." They will therefore see that the public of Chicago is lawabiding, whether they will or not, by cutting down stopover time and prevent any loitering on city streets or in community stores between cars.

Two and a half years ago the Chicago Surface Lines was given sixty days to meet certain demands in return for the city traction permit. Among these was the car-L transfer, which was to allow the citizens of Chicago to change freely back and forth. We are still waiting for it.

HAPPY STREET CAR RIDER.

A SLOGAN.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—As a voter in the state of Illinois I propose the following slogan to members of all parties:

With Hoover and Horner
We turn the corner.

ANGUS HIBBARD.

PLACING THE BLAME.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—It has become the fashion of the unthinking, inspired by administration propaganda, to shift the blame for federal waste to congress. The fact is that the congress recently adjourned is the only branch of our government which has done anything towards economy. The colossal waste and extravagance are found in the executive departments and in the padded pay rolls, boards, bureaus, and commissions, over all of which President Hoover presides and most of whom he has appointed.

Under the Harding-Coolidge-Hoover régime the federal pay rolls have been so padded in needless bureaus and commissions that we may be said we have a commission form of government. During these years 200,000 tax eaters have been added to the federal pay rolls and, as Thomas Jefferson said of pay roll politicians, "they become a subservient party machine and few of them die and none resign." With an army of nearly a million of such retainers from all over the nation, hand picked and appointed mainly by the President and his cabinet and partisan supporters, and selected largely because of their ability to carry their respective bailiwicks at primaries and elections, what chance is there to prevent the renomination of even the most unpopular and unworthy President in a national convention which is bound to be packed with these pay roll patriots?

QUIN O'BRIEN.

WATERWAYS AT PUBLIC EXPENSE.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 23.—Did you not forget to mention in your editorial, "Taxed Beyond Endurance," while talking about the Los Angeles waterworks appropriation the subject of the money spent on waterways in Illinois, supported by the government to the detriment of the railroads, especially those running north and south in Illinois, which have paid great amounts in taxes and are continuing to pay great amounts in taxes?

Think it over! These canals will pull manufactories and storage plants out of Chicago proper and scatter your population, just as automobiles have moved great numbers out of cities to outlying districts. Charity begins at home.

J. C. SMITH.

PROSPECTS FOR THE FAIR.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—In my travels during the last few months in Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, and northern Illinois I have been feeling out the opinions of those whom I meet in regard to the Century of Progress exposition. I find an almost unanimous determination on the part of these people to attend this magnificent event. I know of many people who are already saving the necessary money or making the necessary plans to attend. I honestly believe it will be the most successful event ever to be staged, and hope that the powers that be will not be intimidated into skimping on the good will advertising. It will be returned at the gate many times.

VEHON'S ESTATE VALUED AT MORE THAN $1,000,000

Bequests to 12 Charities in Retired Tailor's Will.

The will of William H. Vehon, retired president of the Royal Tailoring company, disposing of an estate valued at more than $1,000,000, was filed yesterday in the Probate court. Vehon, who died in his Highland Park home last Saturday, was a former president of the National Association of Merchant Tailors and also a pioneer real estate dealer. He was 76 years old.

Twelve charities are bequeathed a total of $34,500 in the will. The remainder of the estate, with the exception of $6,000 distributed to several nieces and nephews, was left to the widow, Mrs. Tillie G. Vehon, 128 Lake avenue, Highland Park.

Bequests to Charities.

The charities which benefit and the amounts left to them wer the Home for Aged Jews, $2,000; Jewish Peoples institute, $1,000; Jewish Charities of Chicago, $5,000; Chicago Jewish Orphan home, $10,000; Johanna lodge, $2,000; Travelers Aid society, $2,000; Chicago Winfield sanitarium, $1,000; Mother's Aid of Lying-In hospital, $1,500; Council of Jewish Women, $1,000; Chicago Women's aid, $1,000; Denver National home, $5,000, and the Sally Joy Brown fund of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, $3,000 to be paid in annual installments of $300.

Estate to Quirk's Widow.

The will of James Quirk, publisher of Photoplay magazine, who died in Hollywood on Aug. 1, was admitted to probate yesterday by Oscar Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner.

Quirk's widow, May Allison, a former motion picture actress, who now lives at 101 West 57th street, was named as sole beneficiary. The estate is valued at approximately $10,000, mostly in personal property, according to Attorney T. W. O'Shaughnessy, who filed the will.

Employés of the magazine told Mr. Caplan, however, that Quirk had disposed before his death of nearly $500,000 between his wife and two daughters. Quirk was 47 years old.

LAKE FOREST'S PLANE MYSTERY IS CLEARED UP

Mrs. Robert G. McGann, 965 East Deerpath avenue, Lake Forest, yesterday explained to Chief of Police Frank Tiffany the mystery concerning the plane which was flying low over Lake Forest on Wednesday and which caused a number of residents to make complaints. Mrs. McGann said she had hired the plane to fly over her residence and take photographs of it from the air. Chief Tiffany issued a warning that planes, under any circumstances, will not be allowed to fly low over the suburb in the future.

RENO IS GOAL OF RUTH ELDER IN NEXT FLIGHT

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Both Ruth Elder, trans-Atlantic flyer, and her husband, Walter Camp Jr., son of the late football expert, confirmed today reports that she is going to Reno to get a divorce.

"All that I want to say is that the report is true," Miss Elder told inquirers, "that I am leaving for Reno. I am not yet sure of the date. I have asked my lawyers to issue a statement for me."

At the office of Zabriskie, Sage, Gray & Todd, attorneys, an announcement was issued saying:

"Owing to increasing incompatibility and differences between them the couple have found it impossible to continue to live together. Mr. and Mrs. Camp have no children and financial questions have been arranged in a separation agreement."

Camp is Miss Elder's third husband. The others were C. E. Moody and Lyle Womack of Lakeland, Fla.

Camp's first marriage was to Frances English. They were divorced in 1927. Although Miss Elder and Camp were listed in the social register after their marriage in 1929, they were left out of the book this year.

DID YOU EVER SEE A TWO-LEGGED CHAIR?

CHAIRS aren't made with two legs, because you couldn't sit firmly, surely in them. You couldn't maintain your balance. A fundamental principle of balance demands support at all four corners!

The reason the vital elements in Eveready Raytheon Tubes remain balanced is because they have four supports instead of two. Four pillars! All other tubes have only two, because the four-pillar principle is patented for use on Eveready Tubes.

Jolts, jars, vibrations from the dynamic speaker never affect the performance of Eveready four-pillar Tubes. They can't! The four pillars provide firm support for the delicate, vital elements.

Let your dealer demonstrate Eveready four-pillar Tubes to you. Compare them with other tubes yourself!

WARNING! The market is flooded with old, slow-heater tubes. Eveready Raytheons are quick-heaters. Modern tubes heat up in 10 seconds or less.

War Prisoner Pens Story of His Experiences

Sergt. Halyburton Describes German Camps.

"Shoot and Be Damned," by Sergt. Ed Halyburton and Ralph Goll. [Covici-Friede.] Published Sept. 28.

"SHOOT AND BE DAMNED" is a war story of a different order from most that have appeared in the last few years. In the first place, as far as it is possible to determine, the story itself is absolutely authentic, based on seemingly incontrovertible facts. Then the action of the story takes place almost entirely in German prison camps and only at the beginning of the book, for a few pages, does the reader witness action on the front itself.

"Shoot and Be Damned" is written in the first person and is developed, as far as plot is concerned, in the linear or the picaresque method. The story rambles from one adventure to the next with, it seems, very little conscious attempt at unity. The attitude of the narrator, Ed Halyburton, is one of almost incredible modesty. The honesty, frankness, and sincerity of the writing serve to increase the vividness and reality of the book.

To authenticate the book the author has included in the text two letters, one from Gen. Summerall and the other from Gen. Pershing, both containing high praise and commendation of Ed Halyburton's initiative and his unusually courageous behavior in the prison camps.

In the first engagement of American troops with German troops Halyburton was captured. His first experience with prison camps was at Metz, where he was detained after a devilishly gruelling cross-examination, the results of which were unsatisfactory to the German authorities. Halyburton determined that he would reveal nothing, that he would under all circumstances act as a loyal American citizen, be mum on all possible revelations, and sternly oppose all efforts at propaganda.

After a short stay at this camp the author and his buddies were moved to a Russian prison camp in West Prussia near the town of Tuchel. The living quarters here were underground dungeons, icy, dank, and fetid with the accumulated filth of hundreds of imprisoned men acquiescing to disease, starvation, and death, unaided and uncaring. The food consisted of a daily ration of inedible bread and weak synthetic coffee, and occasionally a tepid slime they called soup.

Halyburton says: "Then I understood that we had come to a city of living dead men; that it was starvation that stared at us from the gloom of our dugout." After a trip to the delousing station, where the author and his companions nearly died of exposure, the men were given wooden sabots with paper uppers and informed of their wagon detail duty. This duty consisted of torture, from which men died by the dozens. So the story goes. Facing the specters of hunger, cold, disease, even death itself, the minds of the prisoners were slowly weakened and their morale utterly broken.

Halyburton himself, the bravest and most capable of the men, skirts the edge of insanity. Finally, with the assistance of the Red Cross, without whose aid they would have surely perished, the bribing of prison guards and officials, which led to favors of all sorts, and an unswerving courage, this group of American soldiers, under the guidance of Halyburton, fight their way back along the tortuous road to normalcy, self-respect, and the desire to live. This section of the book, one of the most difficult to write in view of the pitfalls of sentimentalism, exaggeration and melodrama, is, oddly, the best, the most effectively written. In fact, the description in its brilliance and simplicity of the terrors of the dungeon camp can hold its own against the most conscious and artistic modern transcription of horror scenes.

After it was clear that the allies were winning the war the prisoners at Tuchel were transferred once more, this time to Rastatt, where conditions in the camp itself were much improved, but where the morale of the soldiers was crippled. Halyburton immediately took charge, reorganized the camp, gave the men many fight talks, and brought order and self-respect back to the prisoners.

Before the war was over there were more than 2,000 American soldiers detained there. This section of the book, however, is not as interesting as the first, since the author was not inspired by his material to dramatize the facts.

"Shoot and Be Damned" is another one of those books that by objective realism rather than by intrusive moralizing are a bitter indictment of war.

Canadian Church Urged to Approve of Birth Control

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 29.—(AP)—The United Church of Canada, representing the largest group of Protestants in the dominion, was urged by its board of evangelism and social service today to place its stamp of approval on birth control.

Every Christian married person has the right to determine "in light of the facts and obligations involved how far precautions against reproduction shall be employed in his or her own life," said a report adopted by the board. The general council of the United church includes the bulk of Presbyterians in Canada and all the Methodists and Congregationalists.

Another proposed declaration by the church, as recommended by the board, was that civil marriages should be established in all provinces. [In some provinces only marriages by ministers of religion are permitted.] It also urged the church to hesitate in "demands that the state forbid any subsequent union" by marriage of persons who have been divorced.

The church was called upon to take a stand, similar to that of the Church of England and the United States Federal Council of Churches of Christ.

Group Offers Greek Music of All Ages

Byzantine Ensemble In First Concert.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Byzantine ensemble, making its first appearance at the Tsoukalas Little Theater of the Dance last night, has gone in for something rather out of the ordinary in musical programs. It is a song group of two women and eight men, and it confines itself largely to Greek music, but Greek music of all ages.

For example, its first group last night covered nearly 2,000 years of time. The first number was Anacreon's "Song of Bacchus" of the sixth century B. C., hummed without words, the second was Ioanou Damaskinou's "Cherubicon" of the seventh century A. D., the third, Petros Pelopponissios' "Antiphona" of 1730 A. D. Necessarily these were of widely differing character and makeup, but at the same time they bore a marked resemblance in their slow moving, dignified pace.

From that point the program became more modern. "Neapolitan Nights" entered into another section, a group of more or less modern Greek folk songs comprised a third. Folk music is a good deal the same in its appeal the world over, simple in construction, direct in melody, sometimes greatly charming in effect. It is said that Greek music has affected many other countries, and one can easily believe it. There were certain details in this program like Hungarian music, others bearing fleeting resemblances to songs of the Jewish liturgy. Mostly, however, it had a character all its own.

Marion Schroeder Booras is the musical director of the organization, and Spiro Stamos, arranger of much of the program, plays upon the sandur, an instrument of 140 strings bearing some resemblance to the Hungarian cembalom, and, like it, played with padded hammers. Mr. Stamos was both agile and expressive in solos on the instrument, and produced a quite unexpected number of different tone colors. The 1932-33 musical season thus begins with an interesting novelty.

50,000 Attend Aurora Frolic and Mardi Gras

Friendship week "frolics" drew a crowd estimated at between 50,000 and 60,000 to Aurora last night where a Mardi Gras and calithump were staged. Six counties participated in the festivities—Kane, De Kalb, Will, Du Page, Kendall and McHenry. Parades in humorous costumes and masks and riding in old vehicles took part in the program. A street dance was held in Stolp avenue, in the heart of the city, after the parade. There will be a Venetian carnival tonight and tomorrow night on the Fox river. The concluding feature will be a doll buggy parade Sunday afternoon.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright, 1932, By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

MURDER OF THE MAID.

Hurrying across the sidewalk, Prof. Fordney and Inspector Kelley opened the gate in the nine foot brick wall which paralleled Lake Shore drive. As they entered Alex Patrie's yard, Fordney quietly closed the gate while Kelley rushed over to the crumpled form of the Patrie maid lying huddled against the wall.

"Strangled!" he exclaimed.

At the front of the yard a man was trying to force his way past a policeman. While he was arguing, Jax, the family chauffeur, stopped the car near him, jumped out and rushed to the girl.

He did it . . . he did it!" shouted the man.

Jax nervously inquired what had happened. The accuser rushed to Fordney's side and cried, "I'm Palmer. I was going by, alone on top of the bus, an hour ago, and when it stopped for a light I saw them standing right there where she is, fighting. I just heard the maid had been murdered and I came right back to tell you what I knew. The big . . . !"

"Jax, why are you pretending to have just arrived? I saw you in that car parked at the corner five minutes ago," said Fordney.

"I heard she was dead and . . ."

Where did you hear it?" broke in Kelley.

"We did have an argument about an hour ago, but, my God, I didn't kill her! I heard about . . ."

"See, see, I told you," shouted Palmer.

"Why," exclaimed the chauffeur, with a vicious look, "you're the guy I saw her with last night!"

The two men clinched. Kelly, separating them, said, "We'll take YOU to headquarters, eh, Fordney?"

WHOM DID THEY DETAIN AND WHY?

[See solution on page 30.]

Miss Judith Boddie of Chicago, daughter of the late John T. Boddie, real estate owner, was licensed in New York yesterday to marry William A. Walker, whose address was given as 2478 Orchard street, Chicago. The engagement was announced last month by Mrs. John T. Boddie, 325 Fullerton parkway, who stated her daughter was to marry William Addison Walker, son of Dr. and Mrs. James Walker of Salina, Kas.

Miss Boddie, who made her debut in 1924, left for France immediately after the announcement to shop for her trousseau. She had spent considerable time traveling in Europe in other years. Walker went east to meet her at the boat upon her return. In securing the license yesterday he said he was a banker and gave his age as 28. Miss Boddie's age was given as 26.

New Handbags Win Approval of the Shopper

Innovations in Clasps Get Attention.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

VERSATILE dress designers are now sending some of the most interesting new handbags along with their new dress collections, clever new idea, all of them, each handbag as much a distinctive creation as any dress or suit or coat.

For instance, Chanel's dresses are decorative and practical, with every excuse in the world for being created, likewise the handbags. A flat new model, a bag as flat and thin as any compact, is made of two shades of pin seal, deep brown, lined with beige pin seal leather. Two extremely thin compartments can be expanded to care for the important extras, but the three very flat and detachable cases that occupy the inside half are the things that are new and worthy of your capricious approval.

These pin seal triplets take care of your cigarets, your powder and your loose change; each can be removed and carried around without the remaining two, any of the three can be carried with other handbags or stowed in a coat pocket, since they are plain and of a very deep brown pin seal that harmonizes with every color.

Schiaparelli always does things in a grand manner and her newest handbags prove it. Imagine a well shaped but perhaps the biggest bag you can smartly clutch under the anchor of your well trained left arm and you have this big, new model. One knockout creation is made of wine red antelope and lined with gleaming wine red satin, and for a complete contrast and as something very different, a copper clasp is used. Four copper oblong slots in a vertical row hold a long copper dagger attached to a matching red cord.

Another huge bag to be used for transporting all your cash and aids to beauty is a bag of forest green antelope, lined with satin of the same shade and also clasped in copper. A big round blob of copper snaps into place, and around this is slipped a shoestring bow with the ends also sealed with copper. These models can be selected in brown with copper and silver, but the coppery glints are the newest fashion highlights as sponsored by that particular genius Schiaparelli.

If you go in for tricky closing devices there are two amusing new ideas that ought to intrigue that sort of a yen. One exceptionally good looking street bag in either black or brown of fine calfskin can only be opened by pressing a concealed button, and the pressing section or button is in turn concealed under a metal square in the extreme left hand corner of the upper frame. To make all this even more mystifying your monogram should decorate the metal oblong, thus completely obliterating all hints as to how you open the bag.

Some utterly humorless soul has sent out on a hectic career a handbag called the hypodermic bag. Don't get excited and don't be misled; the name has nothing to do with any possible fittings. It is called that rather playfully because of the opening device—the silver metal plunger which releases the clasps is patterned after the plunger of a hypodermic needle, consequently the eccentric, though easily explained, name.

New evening bags are going to surprise people with reversed color scheme. Some wide-awake maker has thought of a simple and decorative method of lining a luxurious evening vanity so that dribbles of rouge and lipstick will not spot them. White beaded bags have linings of ruby red velvet. Shimmering satins are also lined with dark shades of velvet. This is an invention that should have been perfected ages ago.

Jewish New Year Observance Starts at Sundown Today

Celebration of Rosh Hashana, new year's day throughout the Jewish world, will take place beginning at sundown tonight in all Chicago synagogues. The feast will usher in the year 5693 on the ancient calendar. The season, which is observed in special prayers for forgiveness for the sins of the last year, will continue until sundown Monday.

Ancient tradition surrounding the new year tells of the recording angel entering the name of each individual in the Book of Life and decreeing what life will offer to the one named. Penitence and prayer in the interval between Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur may alter the decree, but on the Day of Atonement the record is sealed for the year.

Traditional observance of the new year will be held in the Chicago Loop synagogue, 110 North La Salle street, for visitors to Chicago. Rabbi Elias Gamze, spiritual leader of that congregation, announced that the ancient rite of Tashlik will be held in the lower level of Wacker drive at the river Sunday afternoon.

At Sinai temple, Rabbi Louis L. Mann will preach tonight on "Religion and the World Crisis." There will be services in the temple tomorrow at 10 a. m.

Latin Quarter Is Ready for Fete Tonight

Advise Guests to Polish Up Their French.

BY JUDITH CASS.

POLISH up your French before you go to the Latin Quarter fête at the Drake tonight—of course you're going—for remember you will be on Paris' Left Bank from the time you cross the gangplank of the Ile de France until you cross it again to go home, and although some English is spoken there all the signs and advertisements are in French and you will miss half the fun if you cannot understand them.

The architects who are giving the fête for the benefit of their relief fund have done a marvelous job in reproducing the Latin Quarter and all the high spots of that far famed section are there. Cafés, hotels, shops, bars—everything is there. And all you need to be on hand to enjoy it all is an invitation, a "passport," which can be secured for $5 at the gangplank if you haven't already attended to this important detail, and a costume. And if you haven't a costume you can obtain one at the Drake before you go aboard the Ile de France for the sum of $2. The Ile de France sails first at 10 p. m., although the grand march won't start until 11:30. I neglected to find out where the grand march is to be held, quite an oversight, for there is to be dancing in four different places, but I'm sure no one who wants to take part in the grand march and so have a chance to win a prize with his or her costume will have any difficulty finding the proper place.

There is to be no cover charge in any of the places where there will be music for dancing or cabaret performances; in fact, there will not be any place where one can spend more than a few francs [nickels and dimes will be accepted in place of French coins] for the price of the "passport covers practically everything.

A few of those who are having dinners tonight before the fête are the Joseph T. Ryersons, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Shaw, the Howard Linns, the Ambrose C. Cramers, the Horatio B. Hacketts, Mrs. Joseph B. Long, Mr. and Mrs. William A. P. Watkins, the junior Edward A. Cudahys, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Cable, the Warren Ripples, and the John Kelloggs.

Among those who have worked with John Root in designing the setting are Andrew Rebori, Alfred Shaw, Walter S. Frazier, Howard Raftery, John Norton, Knight Cowles, Philip Maher, George L. Dickson, Thomas E. Tallmadge, Louis Skidmore, Nathaniel Owings, George Senseney, Earl H. Reed Jr., and David Leavitt.

There are 360,000 square feet of canvas in the setting and the total expenses to date amount to $4,500, of which about half has been paid to draftsmen and technicians who have been unemployed for months, so the ball benefits unemployed architects in two ways, by having given employment to some of their number and by increasing their relief fund. The architects who have designed the setting all donated their services, of course.

Art Young to Speak on Hunting with an Arrow

The first free lecture of the autumn series at the Field Museum of Natural History will be given tomorrow at 3 p. m. in the James Simpson theater of the museum. Art Young of Detroit, Mich., archer, author, explorer and hunter, will speak on "Hunting Big Game with Bow and Arrow." Young, who shot lions, bears and other big game with bow and arrow, will give a demonstration of archery following the lecture.

Louise Dewey to Make Debut on October 19

Tea Will Be Held at Home on State Parkway.

BY JUDITH CASS.

As soon as pretty Louise Dewey arrived at home from Detroit yesterday morning she and her mother, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, put their heads together and decided on Wednesday, Oct. 19, as the date for Louise's debut.

Miss Dewey will be introduced to society at a tea at home, 1507 State parkway, and later in the season her mother and father will give a dance for her. Mrs. Dewey is very busy these days, having a debutante daughter and strong political affiliations, and when I talked to her yesterday she was as busy as the proverbial bee telephoning all her friends, reminding them to listen to President Hoover's talk on the radio last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey were dining last night at International house out at the University of Chicago—Mr. Dewey is president of the board of directors of that beautiful institution—and as soon as Mrs. Dewey heard about the President's address she telephoned and made arrangements to have a radio at the directors' dinner so that she wouldn't miss the talk or the dinner.

Mrs. Dewey, by the way, just heard yesterday that Mrs. John W. Garrett's arrival is postponed and that she will not be here next Wednesday, so Mrs. Dewey's small dinner for that night is postponed. Mrs. Garrett is the wife of the American ambassador to Italy and she is coming to Chicago to help at the Republican headquarters.

Junior League Theater Elects.

At a meeting yesterday of the Workshop of the Junior League Children's theater Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. was elected chairman of the group and Mrs. Richard Gambrill Jr. was made secretary. The directors include Miss Helen Tieken, Miss Alice Gerstenberg, Mrs. Walter P. Paepcke, Mrs. Norman MacLeish, Mrs. Philip B. Maher, Miss Peggy Hambleton, Miss Dorothy Schmidt, and Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay III.

The league's first play of the season, "The Secret Garden," is to open on Nov. 5 at the Playhouse theater. Tryouts for the cast will be held at 10 o'clock next Monday morning at the theater.

The Lighthouse Volunteer Aids who help to raise the money necessary to carry on the work of helping the blind to help themselves at the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind, are going to be mannequins in a fashion show at a South Michigan avenue shop next Tuesday afternoon, the money they earn to go to the Lighthouse.

The show will be at 2:30 o'clock and if it is as well attended as the one the Aids modeled in last spring it would be wise to be there early if you really want to see the fashion parade, for last spring's show was so crowded that the late comers couldn't squeeze in with a shoe horn.

The young women who will model are Miss Barbara Graf, Miss Katrina Mauff, Miss Jane Fortune, Mrs. Arthur Farwell, Mrs. Ernest Byfield, Mrs. Harry B. Clow Jr., Miss Jeannette Peterkin, Miss Elizabeth Ricker, Miss Ann Robinson, Miss Anne Small, Mrs. Wilbur Calhoun Smith, Mrs. Sidney Strotz, Mrs. Louis C. Sudler, and Miss Ann Elizabeth Walsh.

Mrs. Franklin G. Clement is president of the Aids, but she will be relinquishing her gavel next Friday to some one else, for the annual meeting will be held that morning at 11:30 o'clock at the Drake and new officers will be elected then.

Peterkins to Move Soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Peterkin are giving up their apartment at 199 Lake Shore drive and will move within a few days into the former apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Insull Jr., at 1242 Lake Shore drive. The apartment, which is 25 stories above the drive, has two floors, the lower one of which is to be taken by the Peterkins.

The Insulls are moving upstairs into the attractive apartment that was formerly occupied by Walter Frazier. The Peterkins keep their Lake Geneva estate open all winter and give numerous week-end house parties. They are still spending most of their time in the country.

Mr. and Mrs. George Henry High, who spent the summer at Osterville on Cape Cod, are now at the Virginia Hot Springs and are expected to arrive some time next week at their apartment in the Lake Shore Drive hotel. Mr. High usually returns from his summer travels in time for the pheasant shooting season in Illinois.

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Neil is mystified by the peculiarities of Miss Bundy, who is broken in health and mentally disturbed. She has hired a photographer, named Tilbury, as bailiff. He and his wife, a common, illiterate couple, occupy the lodge, and hold a strange influence over Caroline. Natasha Andreyev, Caroline's half Russian niece, beautiful but fiery tempered, acts as her aunt's secretary. She detests the Tilburys. Caroline puts Neil in charge of the library in the daytime, cautioning him to admit no one. She tells him her father, a man of science, was also a mystic. Caroline and the Tilburys hold nightly meetings in the library. Neil has a friend, Giles Gisborne, vicar of a nearby parish, who lives with his sister, Rachel. Neil has lunch in Bath with Rachel and Tasha. He sees Tasha hold a secret meeting with a strange man and later sees her pay the stranger's bill in the tearoom. Neil is attracted to Natasha, but is baffled by her odd behavior. Emily Braselton, Caroline's one close friend, calls to investigate the ominous rumors she'd been hearing.

INSTALLMENT XVII.

INSUFFERABLE CHAPERONS.

"Do you mean you had intended to go away? You mentioned the possibility, I know, but I'm not sure I took it seriously."

"Well, you may take it seriously now. If things break well for me this green and pleasant land shall know me no more. I shall vanish, that's all."

Even though Natasha did not sound particularly happy as she made the announcement Neil felt as if hit by a sledgehammer.

"But, hold on! You can't do that!" he cried in unconcealed dismay. "If you desert me what amusement will be left? Expect me to spend my evenings doing crossword puzzles?"

She gave a ringing laugh. "And far more profitable, too," she retorted. "They can be solved, you know."

"I'm patiently hoping you can be solved."

"I advise you to give up the struggle." She glanced sideways at him. "I gave it up some time ago. Now I'm just letting fate do as it likes with me. I've reached the point when anything's better than continually weighing right and wrong, even taking hurdles blindfolded. One may break one's neck, but at least one will have a good run for one's money. Isn't that so?"

The time came when he was to recall this reckless speech and read into it calamitous meanings. Now, however, he was too keenly responsive to the challenge of her mood to analyze anything closely.

They were spinning along a high ridge with nothing visible but the emerald slopes on each side and the blue sky laced with gray, raveled clouds—a wind swept world, peopled by themselves. Before Neil realized what he was doing he had pinioned the slender, strong fingers as they rested on the wheel, and had brought his face within an inch of the scarlet beret. The breath of daffodils filled his nostrils, a fluttering strand of hair brushed his lips.

So far, but no farther. All he touched was the point of her averted chin as she swerved from him.

"No! He caught the low whisper. "Not that!"

The breath of daffodils filled his nostrils, a fluttering strand of hair brushed his lips.

"Why not?" he argued with a sudden longing to master her resistance. "Because it interferes—with driving—and other things."

His heart beat like a triphammer, and to judge from the crimson flooding her cheeks hers was behaving likewise. And yet he had received a repulse too definite to question. What did it mean? That though the attraction between them might be mutual some instinct in her fought against it tooth and nail? No doubt that was it. She was restrained by loyalty to the man whose voice last night had fired his jealousy to white heat. She was right, he had no business to meddle. Inevitable, of course, for him to want her a hundred times more now than before. That was to be expected. Whose wise brain coined the aphorism about man's remembering the kisses denied rather than those granted?

For some minutes he could not trust himself to speak, but when they had narrowly missed slaughtering a parson on a push bike the tension relaxed. Safe ground again. Well, let them keep to it. Neil grimly resolved to commit no further indiscretions.

Exeter—shopping—a visit to the cathedral. Where should they go for tea? It was at Natasha's suggestion they drove to Bath, the very name of which was now detestable; and that there was reason for the maneuver was speedily apparent. No sooner was the meal terminated than the girl rose, eyed him hesitatingly, and asked if he minded being left for twenty minutes.

"I shan't be longer. Where do you want me to pick you up?"

"O, here. I'll hunt up the American bar."

Two dry Martinis left him still ransacking his memory for new invectives to hurl at his own head. In the name of all moonstruck imbeciles, what spell had descended on him, Neil Starkey, of all people? When he thought of how, on that lovely stretch of road he had been about to declare his passion like any schoolboy he groveled with shame. Yes, passion for an object he knew would have none of him! He reviled himself for straining after the unobtainable, and even more bitterly denounced his weakness in watching the clock as he pictured the scene being enacted somewhere not far off. He was about to command a third drink when the horn drew him glumly to the pavement, to find the cause of his chagrin awaiting him.

As he expected, not a word of explanation. Her expression was indecipherable. He climbed in beside her, totally bereft of conversation, but aware that she, like himself, was wrapped in meditative thought. There was a touch of wistfulness in her subdued mien.

Just as they reached Stoke Paulton a station taxi met them, chugging out of the gates. Inside was a sedate, elderly man, black clad, with an open brief case on his knees. At sight of him Natasha stiffened and gazed with intent curiosity.

"A visitor! He must have come by appointment, from the look of him. That's queer. I heard nothing of it." All at once she uttered a cry of enlightenment and gripped Neil's arm. "Tell me—what do you suppose he is?" she demanded urgently.

"Possibly a medical specialist. More likely a lawyer."

"Lawyer! I knew it—it's her solicitor from London. So that's why she got rid of me this afternoon. I knew she didn't want one of those things we bought. Of course—fool that I am! That explains it."

"Explains what?" he inquired, mystified.

"Why, that she's up to something she doesn't want me to find out. As if it concerned me what she does! But she's afraid, all the same—afraid I might spoil her game."

However, what Miss Bundy's game was neither of them found out till the damage was accomplished.

Friday, the twentieth of March—that day whose smallest incident was to be raked over again and again and subjected to the most agonized scrutiny; but Neil as yet little dreamed it was to stand out red lettered in his memory for the rest of time.

He was gazing blankly at the spot where the car had just disappeared into the shrubbery, getting used to the idea of Natasha's being gone and still feeling a bit staggered over his hostess' inconceivable whim of installing the bailiff and his wife in the house as caretakers and—crowning absurdity—chaperons.

This latter suggestion was only too palpably an excuse for the couple's new promotion. With embarrassed avoidance of his eye the old lady had passed quickly to other matters. He, Neil, was to be given entire charge of the study keys and lock up as usual. Mrs. Tilbury would take over the housekeeping, and she and her husband would have their meals by themselves.

No sooner had the announcement been made than the speaker left the dining room, and half a minute later her outraged niece burst in like a cyclone.

"You've heard? Chaperons? Really, it's the last straw! Has she gone quite mad? That insufferable pair lording it over every one, making free of her personal belongings——!" For a moment breath failed her. "Not that it affects me, for I shan't stop to see it. It's you I'm thinking about."

"You needn't. I've promised to spend the month at the vicarage, so I shall come here only to work. I understand Rachel has invited you, too. What about it?"

She grew suddenly evasive. "I can't tell yet what I'll do. As I've got to bring the car back to Saunder's garage in Glastonbury for overhauling I may turn up Sunday for a day or two. She returned to the source of her indignation. "Isn't there something uncanny about the way those two are creeping up, step by step, getting more power? If I wasn't so sure Emily was going to put everything right I'd say now they're coming into the house they'd never move out again. They will, though, sooner than they think. Thank God, she's leaving in an hour. Why, even up to last night I felt something might happen to upset her plans.

HERE ARE SOME QUEER FACTS ON THE FOOD YOU EAT

No Plum in Plum Pudding; Peanut Is Not a Nut.

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Strange, amusing, even incredible facts are unearthed in writing about food. The better known the food the more surprising often seems to be some fact connected with it. That some of the strangest facts are also the most obvious might suggest that food has been something for mankind to live by, toil for, cook, but not to think about.

Here are a few examples:

Plum pudding contains no plums, and a large proportion of the English national dessert is imported into that country.

Jerusalem artichokes are not artichokes and have no connection with Jerusalem. Just poor relations of the sunflower.

No Soda in Soda Water.

Soda water has no soda in it.

Science supports the story of the Garden of Eden to the extent of proclaiming lower Armenia the original habitat of the almond, the quince and the peach.

What's in a name? Zwelbach and biscuit have the same one. Translate them, then try to find another resemblance.

Chop suey originated in San Francisco and has since enjoyed a great success in China.

Potatoes were first cultivated for their beautiful foliage in England.

Ancient Eggs Just Pickled.

China's fabulous century old eggs are merely pickled. Most of them are only two or three years old, no older than a well ripened cheese, and not so strong.

Marshmallows, tall, wild pink cousins of the hollyhock, lent their name and originally their root to a fluffy white confection. Now only the name remains.

Tripe is flesh, not fish.

In Persia a date is considered the choicest alms.

Nature's attempt to produce twin oranges produced instead the navel orange.

Once there were no spring chickens. Chicken originally meant "young fowl."

Sweeter than sugar some 300 times is saccharin.

No Milk in Coconuts.

Tiny jujube candies got a good name by utilizing the juice of jujube fruit, similar to a red prune. The juice has been discarded, but not the name.

Coconuts contain no milk—it's water.

The vegetable world's milk producer is the milk tree of Venezuela. Growing in semi-arid localities, when pierced in the trunk, it provides natives with milk.

Head cheese is a cousin of the sausage: hog's head, feet and other odds and ends diced, seasoned and cooked.

By their fruits ye shall know them. Sweet and bitter almond trees are indistinguishable.

South American natives chew coca leaves as Americans chew gum without suffering from effects of cocaine.

A Misnamed Fruit.

The smooth, butterlike avocado is the most misnamed of fruits. "Alligator pear," a double misnomer, has finally been discarded in favor of the Spanish word for lawyer, because it sounds like the original Aztec name, ahuacatl.

A mystery for future Ph. D.'s to solve is: What was the lotus which intoxicated the ancient lotus eaters? Only one thing is certain: It was no water lily.

Allspice was so named because it was supposed to combine the flavors of cinnamon, clove and nutmeg.

Truffles cannot be cultivated because no one has discovered how to propagate them. This greatest of delicacies is rooted out by pigs.

British beef eaters are eclipsed! Citizens of the United States normally consume 175 pounds of meat per annum, the bulk of it beef. The English eat only 110 pounds. The French, the next highest, consume only half as much meat as their neighbors.

Peanut Not a Nut.

The peanut is not a nut.

Corn is maize to you, wheat to the south and central European; barley, oats or rye to the north European.

We call America's greatest contribution in the meat line "turkey" because some 16th century Englishmen thought the new fowl came from the Levant.

Eating bananas without brown spots is like eating green apples.

To prove how delicate was an egg shell, pressure was applied on eight eggs and it was found that a shell 13 thousandths of an inch thick could withstand 400 to 675 pounds of pressure.

"Emergency Shelf" May Meet Demands of the Younger Set

BY PHYLLIS HAMMOND.

Have you a house full of "the younger set?" Do they tear in after school to demand food and more food until your refrigerator or ice box of supplies for supper is near depletion? Or are they the older kind, that pretend to be so dignified about it all—the type that sneak furtively out to the kitchen somewhere around midnight, or bring in a crowd after the game and casually ask, "How about a little lunch?"

Don't let this discourage you. There are ways to foil them. One that is fast becoming popular, not only with housewives but bachelors and ladies of the bridge table as well, is to create your own "emergency shelf."

Here, perhaps on the topmost shelf of your pantry or cupboard may be stored cans of soup to be used for children's lunches when your cupboard is unexpectedly bare, or for those days when the north winds blow and something hot is much appreciated.

Complete Luncheon Possible.

Other suggestions for the filling of this shelf are boxes of macaroni, jars of jelly, peanut butter, and apple butter for sandwich spreads, and cans of spaghetti, corn, asparagus, peaches, berries, pineapple, etc., packages of cream cheese, grated cheese, tea, cocoa, and so on into the night, depending upon how enthusiastically you go into this thing.

It might be wise to include a loaf of sliced sandwich bread and some canned milk also. Then you are sure the lack of nothing can spoil the party. No matter what happens now you won't get caught, for a complete luncheon, midnight snack, or what have you may be prepared from your "emergency supplies," and in a very short time too.

Your bridge clubs or sewing circles will like these salads, which take but a few minutes to prepare. The color green predominates in all of them. Green pepper cups make interesting holders for grapefruit salad.

One cup of drained canned grapefruit pulp, two tablespoons of nut meats, one half cup of celery chopped fine, one slice of onion, French dressing, and two sweet green peppers. Cut peppers lengthwise, and remove fiber and seeds. Mix juice of grapefruit with French dressing. Rub mixing bowl with slice of onion. Combine grapefruit, celery, and nuts with French dressing. Fill pepper halves with mixture, sprinkle with paprika and chill.

Dish for Unexpected Guests.

Canned asparagus salad served with a tart dressing is a quick and satisfying dish for unexpected guests. Drain one can of asparagus and dip several times in a pan of cold water. Place in rows on a bed of lettuce, decorate with narrow strips of pimento, and serve with mayonnaise or French dressing.

Filling and suitable for a luncheon dish is lima bean salad. Take one cup of canned lima beans and mix thoroughly with three-fourths of a cup of diced celery, one teaspoon of minced onion, two tablespoons of green pepper, chopped fine, four tablespoons of grated cheese, and French dressing. Serve on large lettuce leaves, topping with more mayonnaise.

NEW VEGETABLE DISHES ARE USEFUL IN VARYING MENUS

A wider variety of fresh vegetables is possible this season, and at lower prices, than in many years past, housewives have learned. A housewife may surprise her family with some of the more unusual vegetables or the newer ways of serving.

Two recipes taking advantage of vegetable bargains are here presented by Miss Dorothea Muehl, home economist of Purdue university:

FRIED TOMATOES.

6 or 8 firm tomatoes.
1 egg.
1 tablespoon cold water.
Finely sifted bread crumbs.
Salt and pepper
1 tablespoon chopped parsley.

Wash the tomatoes, remove a thin piece from the stem end, and cut the tomatoes into slices about one-half inch thick. Beat egg slightly, add water, dip the tomatoes in this, and roll in the bread crumbs, which have been seasoned to taste with salt and pepper. Allow the coated tomatoes to dry out somewhat before frying. Heat fat in a heavy skillet, place the coated tomatoes in the hot fat, brown on one side, then turn carefully, and reduce the temperature so that the tomatoes will have sufficient time to cook before browning. Lift from the skillet to a hot platter, garnish with chopped parsley, and serve at once.

WATERMELON PICKLE.

4 pounds watermelon rind.
Limewater made with 2 quarts cold water and 2 tablespoons lime.
2 quarts vinegar.
1 pint water.
4½ pounds granulated sugar.
2 tablespoons whole allspice.
2 tablespoons whole cloves.
10 small pieces stick cinnamon.

Select rind from a firm, not overripe melon, and before weighing trim off green skin and pink flesh. Cut in inch cubes and soak for 2½ hours in the lime water. Drain, cover with fresh water, cook for 1½ hours, or until tender, and add more water as it boils off. Let stand over night in this same water, and next morning drain. Bring to the boiling point the vinegar, 1 pint of water, sugar, and spices tied loosely in cheesecloth. Add the drained watermelon and boil gently for 2 hours, or until the sirup is fairly thick. Remove the spice bag, pack the watermelon pickle in sterilized glass jars, seal air tight, and store in a cool place.

VEGETABLES LOW; GRAPES CHEAPER THIS AUTUMN

Potatoes, grapes, onions, cabbage, tomatoes, and many other vegetables and fruits are lower in price than they were a year ago, thanks being due from the housewife for larger crops as a result of good growing weather.

Even the approach of cold weather is not held likely to bring much higher prices for vegetables which can be stored, such as potatoes, cabbage, and onions.

Peaches have nearly all been harvested except in some of the New York orchards which do not ship any great quantity of their fruit to Chicago. Grapes will last at approximately their present low prices until after severe frosts.

The juice grape market has seen boxes of California red, white, and black juice grapes sold for record low prices. "Luga" that hold about 26 pounds are selling from side tracks on the near south and southwest sides of Chicago for around $1 to $1.10 per box or enough for about two gallons of juice, which sometimes turns into wine.

PASTEURIZATION PROOF BACTERIA FOUND HARMLESS

Some of the Little Animals Dote on Process.

Geneva, N. Y., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The pasteurization of milk has long been a recognized safeguard of the public health, and the discovery of the fact that certain types of bacteria, known to the scientist as thermophilic or "heat loving" bacteria, are able to withstand pasteurization and grow in the pasteurized milk need occasion no concern for the healthfulness of the milk supply, declares P. Arne Hansen, bacteriologist at the New York state experiment station.

No Injurious Effects.

In his experiments, Mr. Hansen fed milk containing large numbers of these bacteria to rabbits and guinea pigs without any injurious effects whatsoever on the health or growth of the animals. The fact that this particular type of bacteria may grow in milk during pasteurization is not a valid argument against the pasteurization of milk, concludes Mr. Hansen, for sufficient information is now available on conditions in the milk plant which favor the development of heat loving bacteria to make possible their control by careful attention to details.

"The presence of heat loving bacteria in market milk appears to be unimportant from the public health point of view," says Mr. Hansen. "However, large numbers of these or of any harmless bacteria in pasteurized milk are undesirable because the milk trade requires a product as free as possible from all bacteria, harmless or otherwise. The milk industry is making every effort to keep the number of these heat loving bacteria and of other harmless bacteria at a minimum by following procedures in the operation of their pasteurizing equipment which tend to check the development of these organisms."

Brink No Changes.

While the consumer knows that even the highest grade milk, as well as many other foodstuffs, contains some harmless bacteria that are everywhere present, it is well to know with certainty that the types that are present are actually harmless, says Mr. Hansen, adding that his experiments offer a scientific basis for the generally accepted fact that heat loving bacteria do not produce changes in milk injurious to health.

COOKED, CANNED TOMATO HOLDS ITS VITAMINS

Even when cooked or canned the tomato is credited with retaining its content of vitamins A, B, and C, usually destroyed by heating. In flavor and color the tomato as a vegetable also offers a contrast to other fresh or cooked foods.

BUMPER CROPS CHEER MICHIGAN FRUIT GROWERS

Record Production Is Expected.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Benton Harbor, hub of the southwestern Michigan fruit belt, is rejoicing over the large crops reaching its market. Observers are optimistic over the future of the forthcoming crops of peaches, melons, apples, and grapes because of the recent rains in Berrien county, which for years has supplied Chicago tables with a large part of their fruit. Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, as resort cities, are visited each year by thousands of travelers.

Benton Harbor's grower to consumer market, which was built at a cost of more than a million dollars, is gradually becoming too small for the demands made upon it each season, according to City Manager George Barnard. "The market is well on the road to a new volume record for fruit," he said.

More than half a million fruit packages have been handled in the municipal market this season. This exceeds the 1931 total, according to Glenn Woodward, the market master.

Buyers and sellers have to pay a fee to transact business on the market. More than $5,500 has been paid to the city in fees this year. There are refrigerator cars and a dock and railroad, with many large trucks to carry the Berrien county fruit away to distant markets.

The proceeds of produce sales so far this year have turned large sums of money into business channels here and, with the grape and peach crops already on the market, this income is due to be augmented considerably in the coming weeks.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

One way to prevent windows from sticking is to rub the cords occasionally with soap, running the windows up and down a few times after the application.

GOOD TEA has NO SECRET... In America, many of the best teas bear the trademark shown above. It appears on tea packages to let you know that the tea has more flavor, fragrance and strength . . . because it contains genuine India Tea. Of course, you know that India grows the finest tea in the world. That's no secret!

EASE OF PREPARATION MAKES SWISS CHARD POPULAR VEGETABLE

Simplicity of preparation for the table has done much to make Swiss chard a popular vegetable. The leaves are washed carefully, the wilted ones discarded, and the tender shoots stripped off. Boiling the leaves in salt water until they are tender is an easy method of cooking. Seasoning consists of salt, pepper, and butter or vinegar if desired. The midribs may be cooked separately and eaten like asparagus or browned like braised celery.

Another method follows: Cook the greens, chop and season them to taste with salt, pepper, and butter. Fill greased ramekins two-thirds full with the cooked greens. On top of each filled ramekin drop a freshly broken egg. Add salt, paprika, and sprinkle with grated cheese. Set the ramekins in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (350 to 400 degrees F.) until the egg has set and the cheese has melted.

REAL SOUTHERN BISCUITS FIND CHICAGO MARKET

Recipe Is Handed Down from Slave Days.

BY JEAN GUTHRIE.

Chicago, "city of big shoulders" and stamping ground for gigantic industries, has been adopted by a little southern lady with a passion for beaten biscuits.

Florence Wright Matthai, formerly of Tennessee, but for many years a resident of Chicago, looked about her some four years ago and decided that what northern palates needed was an introduction to those most romantic aristocrats of the bread family—real southern biscuits. Her recipe, handed down from the days when slaves wakened the household every morning by the noisy pounding of the dough for the day's biscuits, needed a few changes. To be practical, it had to lend itself to the equipment and ingredients available today.

In the south beaten biscuits spread with butter were the logical and necessary accompaniment for southern fried chicken. In the north our penchant for cheese dishes gave a chance for interesting new variations in service. New sizes and shapes for cheese spreads, small soup accompaniments and open faced sandwiches made perfect additions to the buffet supper or after theater food fest. This ingenious cook went even one jump ahead of known competition and perfected a whole wheat beaten biscuit which she believes to be an exact duplicate of those made by early American settlers before the days of pure white flour.

Ordered by Merchants.

At first friends became interested. Then merchants demanded these homemade southern biscuits for their customers. Business boomed. Today, back again in her roomy Nashville kitchen, Mrs. Matthai is turning out smooth golden brown biscuits at the rate of 2,000 a day, packing them mysteriously with a bit of Dixie sunshine and a dash of her own never failing friendliness and sending them back to gladden the palates of good food lovers of Chicago and a wide range of other northern cities, hungry to know just what Irving Cobb was talking about when he extolled the delights of beaten biscuits.

"Beaten biscuits," Mrs. Matthai explains, "grew up in this country in Virginia where they were made by the early settlers who beat thousands of biscuits to fluffiness on the family biscuit block."

Age Old Custom.

These blocks, now extremely rare and valuable, were composed of a slab of mammoth rock hewn flat and round by the family slaves. Supporting this tablelike rock was a section of huge tree trunk about three feet high.

However, for ages before America was discovered, beaten biscuits were made all over the known world. In many countries the dough was beaten three-quarters of an hour with a heavy ax handle or iron rod. It was then shaped and baked in an iron kettle or oven beside a huge fireplace. In this country 1,800 "licks" was considered the correct amount of beating for the day's biscuits, and even after the old block retired to the woodshed and the modern breaker came into use, old servants insisted on administering a few licks just "for luck."

While most women nowadays will prefer to select their beaten biscuits from among the delectable varieties now on the market, there is always a thrill to be gained from adventuring at least once for one's self. The following recipe, suggested by Mrs. Matthai herself, has been made practical for northern housewives by the ingenious substitution of a clothes wringer for the more expensive breaker or the obsolete biscuit block.

MRS. MATTHAI'S BEATEN BISCUIT.
- 1½ pounds soft winter wheat flour.
- 2-3 cup butter.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- ½ teaspoon sugar.
- 1 cup ice water or cold milk.

Weigh out the flour and mix it with the other dry ingredients. Place in a cold mixing bowl, add the fat and cut into the dry ingredients until about as coarse as corn meal. Add the cold liquid and mix to a stiff dough. Knead until the mixture holds together, then put through a breaker or a clothes wringer about 250 times. Roll out to one-third inch thickness and cut with a two inch cutter or with small fancy shaped cutters. Pierce the center of each biscuit several times with a fork and bake in a slow oven [325 degress F.] for one hour. Such biscuits may be kept in good condition for months if stored in a ventilated—not an airtight—container.

CURRIES LEND ZEST, SNAP TO WESTERN MEALS

Should Be Cooked, Not Sprinkled Into Dish.

BY MARY MEADE.

Ages ago—in the land where mountainous elephants plodded, where old men sat dreaming over the slow smoke of hookahs and wonderful Hindu wizards conjured impossible creations from wild fowl and coriander, strange vegetables and stranger herbs—magic powder was discovered—a powder called by the natives "karl"—a powder we now call "curry."

This tantalizing, hunger teasing creation which the true East Indian makes in his own mysterious blend of hot pepper, nutmeg, turmeric, cloves, cinnamon—even coriander seed, the essence of ginger, onion and garlic—is said to have come by name of karl, which, interpreted, means "bazaar stuff," from the custom of purchasing the favored herbs fresh each day at the native bazaar or street market. These fiery leaves and berries were then ground between flat stones and spirited into the culinary triumph of the meal to rouse heat frayed appetites to renewed enthusiasm for the business of eating.

Add Zest to Meals.

Today, though we of the more blustery north have nature on our side in drumming up hunger pangs, curries lend a zest and snap to our more languid occidental meals which to the epicure with a yen for the fiery is utterly irresistible. Since our inexperienced American palate does not crave the quintessence of "hotness," curry powders prepared commercially hit the spot nicely, may be had in packages, jars, or small metal boxes, and may be purchased of your nearest grocer.

As for what is to be curried—the choice is your own, as an amazing variety of foods may be subtly flattered by his tangy powder. The oriental countries offer curries of meat, of vegetables, of fish, of eggs—or of combinations of any of these. Croquettes, escaloped dishes, soups, pilaus salad dressings—no end to the possibilities. The trick, however, is not to sprinkle the curry in nonchalantly just before serving, but to incorporate it knowingly while the concoction is gently bubbling, and thus give it plenty of time to send its flavor and bouquet throughout the dish before the triumphal debut.

An epoch in curries is the following peppy pork dish—a perfect complement to a dinner of sautéd apple slices, whipped, buttered turnips, Brussels sprouts, pear and jellied lime salad, deep dish apple pie, and hot tangy coffee.

PORK CURRY.
- 2 tablespoons finely minced onion
- 2-3 cups chopped celery
- 3 tablespoons fat
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 3 teaspoons curry powder.
- 2½ cups diced cooked pork.
- 2½ tablespoons flour
- 2½ cups meat stock [in which pork was cooked].
- 1 teaspoon peppery sauce.

Heat the fat in a large skillet. Add the onion and celery and simmer gently till brown. Stir in the curry powder and salt, then add the hot stock and the meat. Simmer half an hour, then add the flour which has been blended to a smooth paste with three tablespoons of water. Continue to simmer for seven minutes, then stir in the peppery sauce, mixing thoroughly. Serve up in the center of a hot platter surrounded by a border of dry boiled rice or buttered noodles, and covered by an overlapping row of sautéd apple slices.

CURRIED EGGS.
- 4 hard cooked eggs
- 2 tablespoons fat
- ¼ cup thinly sliced onions
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- ½ cup sliced stewed mushrooms
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 3 level teaspoons curry powder
- 1½ cups savory meat stock
- 1½ tablespoons flour

Melt the fat in a frying pan and cook the onions in it until well browned. Add the pepper, mushrooms, salt, curry powder, and meat stock and simmer half an hour. Make a paste of the flour and two tablespoons of water and stir carefully into the mixture, avoiding all lumps. Simmer until smooth and thickened. Stir in the eggs which have been sliced medium thin, and when heated through, serve on crisp toast and garnish with parsley sprigs.

GARDENER'S CURRY.

Slice two medium sized onions into one-fourth cup of heated fat and brown in a skillet. Season with 1½ teaspoons of curry, and one-half teaspoon salt, and add one cup of boiling water. Simmer ten minutes, then stir in a cup each of peas, chopped carrots, chopped cabbage, and tomatoes, all cooked. Cook gently for twenty minutes longer. Now prepare a paste of one and one-half tablespons of flour blended with two tablespoons of water and stir into the curry. Heat five minutes longer and serve over rice, noodles, or with mashed potato puffs.

Household Hints

For a sweet flavored cottage cheese the milk should sour rapidly.

If baked potatoes are split or pricked as soon as they are cooked they are not likely to be soggy.

If it is necessary to let peaches peeled for canning stand before cooking, cover them with a weak salt solution to prevent darkening. Use one teaspoon of salt to each quart of water.

Week-End Prices Low on Round Steak, Pork Loin

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers, the committee on marketing information of the meat council of Chicago states:

"Round steak and pork loin roasts represent unusually economical meat buys for the Chicago housewives over the coming week-end. These cuts of meat are being offered in Chicago retail meat stores at especially attractive price levels at the present time."

Are you handicapped at the office?

To put in a full day's work, you need a full man's strength. A man, half-sick from constipation, has less chance to succeed in today's keen competition.

This insidious condition often causes headaches, loss of energy, sleeplessness. It takes the edge from your working hours.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also has iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it becomes a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than using pills and drugs — so often harmful.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Cranberry Season Is Here; Make Tasty Sauces and Jam

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Out pops the cranberry—they do pop when they're cooking—to announce that fall has arrived and that another season of these fresh red colored bog fruits brings material for jams, jellies and juice cocktails or mock cherry pies, sauce, fruit salad or pudding.

The Puritans had access to wild cranberry bogs in Massachusetts about this time of the year three centuries and 12 years ago. And ever since these tasty oval shaped berries have been adding variety and zest to holiday and every day meals of Americans. Even the English and the German appetites have been whetted enough to demand some of our harvest in past years.

Harvest Now Under Way.

The harvest is under way now in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Washington and Oregon. The crop will be about one-fifth less than last year, which was normal, although in Wisconsin the estimate is for 65,000 hundred pound barrels as compared with but 45,000 barrels yielded by virtually the same acreage in 1931.

Housewives already can find some of the early crop, called the "Early Black" from Massachusetts, priced in Chicago stores at about 15 cents a pound and in many instances sold in other stores at two pounds for a quarter.

Total Yield 525,000 Barrels.

The total yield for the country will be around 525,000 barrels or more than 52,000,000 pounds to be eaten or preserved before warehouses are emptied early in 1933. Retailers sell them usually from quarter barrel boxes which hold an average of 24 pounds.

Although the cranberry grows wild, cultivation of the bogs has brought increased size and better colored fruit as well as control of disease and greater ease of harvest. The industry in the last 100 years has brought nearly all of the cranberry bogs under more efficient handling by cultivation, flooding to prevent harmful frosts and better means of picking.

Grown in Wisconsin, Too.

In Wisconsin the area of production lies mainly around Wisconsin Rapids in Wood county where a railroad loading station has been named Cranmore in due respect for the shipping industry and the warehouses supported by nearby growers who are linked with eastern cranberry producers through an association which promotes better merchandising and more standard quality.

The cranberry is credited by housewives as holding many shortcuts in food preparation. Its tartness and pectin aid in jelly making to such an extent that the most inexperienced bride can claim she's a good cook on the basis of cranberries.

"Ten Minute Sauce."

"Ten minute sauce" is an instance. There's no peeling necessary. Any short pieces of vine or stem that might be found among the berries or hanging on a stem can be easily removed and the quantity washed.

For the sauce, boil two cups of sugar and two cups of water for five minutes, then add a pound of cranberries, which is four cups, and boil another five minutes or until the popping ceases, which is sufficient cooking. For a thinner sauce, just add the sugar to boiling water and pour in the cranberries immediately for their five minutes of cooking.

The cranberry juice cocktail is hardly more intricate. Cook four cups of cranberries in four cups of water until the skins pop open, strain through cheesecloth and add three-fourths of a cup of granulated sugar. Cook until it boils two minutes and serve cold. For future use, cork and seal in sterilized glass bottles.

Keep Youngster Occupied if Callers Come

He Won't 'Show Off' if He's Busy.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Have your callers just left and are you worn to a frazzle—what with the way your small daughter or son acted and trying to keep conversation rolling smoothly? If so, you will be interested in this letter.

"My 4½ year old daughter is such a sweet child when we are alone. But the minute she is before strangers she must perform, 'show off,' it used to be called. Have you any leaflet that will assist me in the above fault?"

I have no leaflet, but since so many parents have this trouble I will make some suggestions here and now. It is quite usual for this sort of thing to begin to happen when children approach their fifth birthday, and from then on for a few years. We won't try to go into the whys and wherefores in detail, but we might hint at them.

Here are some of the causes: children are then old enough to begin to be interested in grownup conversation. They are often either ignored or talked to in such a way as to make them self-conscious. They are frequently brought into the group of callers and then left at loose ends, with literally nothing to do, so in their boredom they "show off." Now, as to remedies.

In general, see to it that your small son or daughter is kept occupied or interested in one of a number of ways, while these special visitors are around.

If you want to, draw her into the group for a while and talk about things that will interest her and let her talk, too. Let her bring her dog or kitten or show something that will be of interest to her, but not about her. Let her help if anything has to be done—like preparing tea or passing napkins or cookies, or answering the door.

Then, if she will have to be indoors and near you all, let her have her favorite playthings, or plan some handwork she enjoys. If there's an outdoor place for her, plan some outdoor thing she can do.

Other devices will occur to you on the spur of the moment when you have unexpected callers, or deliberately when you know in advance. That is, they will occur to you if you have the principle in mind, which is this—that you can't expect an idle or thoroughly bored child to just sit—or be a model and polite. You must make some intelligent provision for him or her.

In addition to this but not instead, you can make a direct appeal to some children at some ages by explaining that these are your friends and that you wish your little girl or boy would help you to enjoy them and to give them a good time.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF LORA—TRYING TO RUN AWAY TO GET MARRIED TO THAT PEST, PRIGGY!
IT WAS TERRIBLY FOOLISH OF COURSE. SHE WAS SORT OF BORED WITH THINGS AS THEY WERE AND FELT THAT ANY KIND OF A CHANGE WOULD BE AN IMPROVEMENT.
I'M GLAD YOU ADMIT IT WAS FOOLISH. THAT'S THE WAY YOU LOOK AT THE CAMPAIGN—ANY KIND OF A CHANGE WOULD BE AN IMPROVEMENT.
WELL THAT IS BETTER THAN VOTING THE REPUBLICAN TICKET TIME AFTER TIME JUST BECAUSE YOUR GRANDFATHER DID.
WHAT ABOUT YOU? YOUR ANCESTORS HAVE BEEN DEMOCRATS SINCE THEY CAME OVER ON THE SANTA MARIA. I SUPPOSE THAT DOESN'T INFLUENCE YOU IN THE LEAST.
ABSOLUTELY NOT. IT IS ENTIRELY A MATTER OF PRINCIPLE WITH ME.
ALL RIGHT, NAME ME ONE PRINCIPLE OR IDEA THE DEMOCRATS CLAIM THAT THEY DIDN'T GET FROM THE REPUBLICANS.
I'LL NAME YOU A DOZEN IF YOU'LL MENTION HALF THAT MANY THE REPUBLICANS DIDN'T TAKE FROM THE DEMOCRATS.

Why Hesitate When You Find a Good Cream

One Brand Is About the Same as Another.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I'm constantly asked if this manufacturers' cream is better than that manufacturer's cream; if this powder isn't better than another powder; or this astringent better than that.

True, we are confronted with so many products on toilet table shopping days that confusion must result. This product makes convincing claims the next—just as convincing.

Now, if we should be overtaken by a physical ailment that calls for medical attention we do not run around and experiment with a half dozen physicians. There is the family physician or the physician recommended as the best for the particular ailment, and we give him the benefit of our faith in him.

I can recommend no better plan when you are confused about cosmetic purchases. You have tried some manufacturer's cream, no doubt, and you have found it effective. Why, then, go experimenting around with other products? There honestly isn't such a walloping pile of difference between one good manufacturer's cream and another good manufacturer's cream. These manufacturers are out to keep the standard of their product up to par. They're aware of the competition they're up against. They've put too much money in their product to offer inferior brands.

So, I say, when you find a cream or powder that is agreeable and becoming to your particular skin, keep on with it. Or, if your fancy choose a new experiment, don't be overconcerned about the product. Give it a fair trial and if it agrees with your skin, keep on with it—but don't believe that because your fancy happens to have changed that the other good product has deteriorated.

It's quite possible that you may strike a cream that does not agree with your skin so well as another. You may have to do a little experimenting to get the right one for you. But here it is well to let a professional who knows skin texture and can study your individual need advice you. Particularly advice is needed about astringents, as these vary in strenth considerably.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

A Request for Stove.

"We are an old couple, nearing 70. I have been unemployed for a year and our little savings are now almost gone. I am asking if you could find a small stove for us. A heater, laundry, or cook stove would do. E. B."

Unemployment has practically wiped out the nest egg this elderly couple had been planning to use later, so they can't possibly buy the stove they need now. Perhaps you have one not in use you'll donate to them.

Place for Discarded Clothing.

"I am out of work and have been getting help from the charities, but they cannot give me clothes for my chilren, who have almost nothing to wear. The boy is 4, but wears size 6. The girl is 3 years old, and the baby, a boy, is 2 months old. T. B."

Here's a family you can help if you have small children.

Lily Pons, Opera Singer, Back in U.S.; Plans Divorce

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Lily Pons, opera singer, a $25,000 diamond ring on her finger and a baby jaguar in her arms, returned today from Buenos Aires and confirmed reports of her impending divorce from August Mesritz, Dutch lawyer, 24 years her senior. "I won't have time to divorce him until June," she said. "Then I will go to Paris and get the divorce. The reason is that he wants to live in Europe. My contract calls for my presence here for several years."

Herbert Mundin Enjoys His Job in 'Cavalcade'

Grows Red Whiskers to Play the Butler.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 29.—If everybody gets as much fun out of the film version of "Cavalcade" as Herbert Mundin, English actor, gets in rehearsing for his part and spoofing the other imported actors, it's going to be an interesting picture.

Mundin was standing on a corner on the Fox lot relating the trouble he had been compelled to go through to get here for his role. After playing parts in "Chandu the Magician," "Silent Witness," and other recent films, he had to leave the country, go below the Mexican border, and wait there until his quota number to enter the United States as a Briton had been reached. While he waited he grew a luxuriant red mustache which is needed for his part as "Bridges," the butler, in "Cavalcade," and received some anxious queries from the restive Fox officials as to how his passport complications and his whiskers were progressing.

"Whiskers growing rapidly," Mundin wired back. "They're doing so well am having trouble keeping them on the Mexican side of the line."

Mundin also says it is a test of a man's standing with his wife if one's wife, being a resident, does not have to share the difficulties of bobbing out of the country to get entry papers in order. "All she would have to do would be to pass the word she didn't want you back," he said. "I kept sending Mrs. Mundin flowers all the time for six months before I had to make my trip to Mexico."

Mundin was describing a portion of the plot of "Cavalcade" where the principals leave England for the Boer war. "All those in the cast are real English men and women, brought over from the stage cast in London," he said. An inquirer interrupted: "Did they bring over real Boers for the other parts?" "O, no, you can get all the bores you want right here in Hollywood."

Mundin and Clive Brook, one of the stars of the piece, were discussing the reported tribulations of the three Barrymores in "Rasputin" at MGM studio. "I hear they are changing the name from 'Rasputin' to 'Disputin'," Mundin said. "That's good," Brook told him. "I don't know why I didn't think of that myself. In fact, when I repeat it I shall have thought of it myself." Those Englishmen have a lot of laughs together, and, strangely, most of them seem to be over war incidents, for both Brook and Mundin saw hair raising action.

Edward Small, independent producer, has concluded an agreement to produce feature films for United Artists release. His first will be "I Cover the Waterfront," a recent best seller, and will be followed by an original named "Style," by Adela Hyland, which is supposed to show next spring and summer fashions to the feminine American public as a side attraction to a dramatic story.

Ethel Barrymore made them chuckle during time off on the "Rasputin" set at MGM by telling the story of a stranger on the studio lot who came up to one of the actors and said, "I beg your pardon, are you a supervisor?"

To which the actor retorted: "When you say that, smile."

Under Jimmy Cagney's new working arrangement with Warners the actor resumes work at $1,750 a week which is not by any means as much as he demanded when he walked out, but the studio makes a lot of other concessions. Liberal raises are stipulated every time Cagney's option is renewed by the company and it is understood he draws a bonus as well. When Cagney walked out, last June, he was drawing $1,400 a week.

Erich von Stroheim has a trick, when agitated during the making of a film, of saying: "It's bad; it won't do; it smells from here to Albuquerque." So when the director's birthday came up this week, members of his technical crew and some of the wisecrackers of the cast of "Walking Down Broadway," gave a little informal celebration and presented him with a lavishly wrapped gift which proved to be an enlarged photo of the Albuquerque, N. M., railroad station, with a photo of Von Stroheim superimposed, and under it the caption, "The Albuquerque Kid."

KATHLEEN BURKE.
[Bloom Photo.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Kathleen Burke, Chicago brunette, won a screen contract, and the part of "The Panther Woman" for which 50,000 girls had been trying, according to announcement from Paramount film studios here today.

The Chicago girl, age 19, was brought to Hollywood three weeks ago to make screen tests in competition with four other girls representing other American cities, who had been the survivors in the film corporation's national contest for young beauties. She will play a featured part in "The Island of Lost Souls" for her first film part, in which she will join a cast including Richard Arlen, Leila Hyams, and Charles Laughton.

Miss Burke was born in Hammond, Ind., and attended Riverside High school in Hammond and Waller High, Chicago. Her mother, Mrs. Eulalia Burke, lives at 1243 North Dearborn street.

Miss Burke had worked as a copy writer for a Chicago advertising agency and had served as photographer's model in Chicago in recent years.

Wife 'n' Hubby Disagree; She Writes Doris

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"We differ on a number of subjects," confides "Jean M.," bride of a year and a half. "And before we married we seemed to agree on everything."

Well, "Jean," that's just one of the little jokes practiced by girl and man before marriage. They don't expose their differences. They play-act compatibility of thought and tastes. Often it isn't that a pair is so ideally suited to each other in thought realms as it is that before marriage they respect each other's right to his and her opinions.

After a year or so of marriage they begin to diagnose the differences and believe that there must be something wrong with the match since the differences of opinion keep coming up.

Childish reasoning! Why shouldn't two grown beings have differences of opinion? There's nothing dangerous about this unless thinking and arguing and quarreling make it so. There is no reason on earth why two people should think in perfect unison, act and dream in perfect unison.

It isn't that people have different points of view that causes domestic friction. It's one highhanded thinker believing that because the other's opinion is different it must be wrong. Get two strong minded humans believing their way the only correct way and the wonder is that any of the china escapes breaking!

Goodness, if couples would only grant the same tolerance toward each other's opinions they grant outsiders, the right to differ from them, what a lot of domestic unhappiness would be saved! But no, they've got to go at it tooth and nail, until personal affronts are introduced that have nothing to do with the subject under discussion. Ill feeling on both sides ensues, whereas it ought to be granted by each that every one has the right to his own opinions.

In married life to make this two-opinion problem workable things under discussion should be approached without heat, without nagging, without grouching, but with the understanding that some sort of plan must be drawn up that will allow each a chance to express him and herself in his and her own way some of the time.

Louise Dewey to Make Debut on October 19

Tea Will Be Held at Home on State Parkway.

her infant daughter who arrived at the Alice Home hospital on the 20th will be going to their Lake Forest residence tomorrow or Sunday. The new baby is the Casselberry's third daughter.

Margaret Wells Returns Home.

Miss Margaret Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wells of 421 Barry avenue, returned from her summer holiday at Faerboro Beach, Me., a few weeks before the rest of her family in order to enter the new Graduate Teachers' college of Winnetka.

The purpose of the college is to prepare college graduates for teachers, and Miss Wells, who was graduated from Vassar last June, hopes to become a teacher of English history when her training is completed. Most of her days are spent at the Parker school or in the Winnetka public schools observing the progressive methods of those institutions.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells are still in the east and will drive home after entering their son, John, in the Tome school in Maryland, arriving in Chicago next Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Shaw are closing their summer camp at Les Cheneaux in Michigan and will return with their two sons on Sunday to their residence at 49 East Division street.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter H. Harrison returned yesterday from their Huron mountain lodge and again are at the Parkway hotel for the winter. Their daughter, Mrs. Cyrus Edson Manierre, has placed her son, Cyrus Jr., in school at Rolle, Switzerland, and she will travel in Italy and France before returning in November to Lake Forest.

Parties For Elinor Rew

Mrs. George S. Haskell, who has been residing at Warm Springs, Ga., for more than a year, is to return to Chicago for the wedding of her cousin, Miss Elinor Rew, to Charles M. Price, and she and Mrs. Haskell are to give a supper party for the prospective bride and bridegroom next Thursday evening at the Saddle and Cycle club.

The wedding, which is to be a small one, will be solemnized on Saturday, Oct. 8, at 4 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Rew, in Evanston. Miss Elizabeth Alger of Kenilworth will be the maid of honor and Edward Price will be best man for his cousin.

The bridesmaids, who will act as ribbon stretchers to form an aisle for the ceremony, will include the bride's two sisters, Miss Theresa and Miss Ada Rew; Miss Katharine Price, the bridegroom's sister; Miss Alberta and Miss Elizabeth Bailey of Cleveland, Miss Evelyn Cooke of Detroit, Miss Martha Potter of Southwest Harbor, Me., and Corning, N. Y., and Miss Jean Wille of Cleveland.

All of the out of town attendants were classmates of Miss Rew's at Sarah Lawrence college and are to be house guests of the Rews next week.

The bridegroom and his cousin, Edward Price, are to be hosts at a supper dance tomorrow evening at the Kildeer Country club. Other prenuptial festivities include a tea for the wedding party to be given on Sunday by Mrs. William B. Johnson of Evanston, a luncheon and bridge with Mrs. Robert L. Scott of Evanston as hostess on Monday afternoon, a supper and kitchen shower to be given by Mrs. Raymond Cook and her daughter, Miss Mary Cook, on Monday evening; a luncheon and bridge party at the Winnetka residence of Mrs. William Sherman Hay on Tuesday afternoon, a supper and bridge party that Mrs. John H. S. Lee and her daughter, Mrs. Winston Healy, will give on Wednesday evening, and a luncheon for Miss Rew and her house guests to be given on Friday by Mrs. Chester Tripp. On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Rew will give the bridal dinner for the wedding party and all of the out of town guests. On Tuesday evening Miss Alger is to give a spinster dinner for Miss Rew.

Mr. Price and his bride will reside in Evanston after a short honeymoon in the east.

Tax Figures In Berkshires

From Pittsfield, Mass., comes the news that the figures of the assessed valuations of estates in the Berkshires have been made public, and since several well known Chicagoans have residences there, the figures on those are of interest here. Tor Court, the estate of Mrs. Warren M. Salisbury, whose Chicago residence is at 1100 Lake Shore drive, is carried on the books of the assessors at $139,560. Mrs. Frederick T. West, who lives at the Hotel Ambassador when she is in Chicago, has a tax levy on $26,475 at Court Hill, her Pittsfield place.

The South Mountain music colony maintained by Mrs. Frederick S. Coolidge is in the names of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sprague Coolidge of Cambridge. The property, which includes the Temple of Music, Rehearsal Hall, Mountain House, and several cottages, is listed at $52,400.

Mrs. Harriet Pullman Schermerhorn, wife of Col. Arthur F. Schermerhorn, pays a tax on $100,500 at Schermeer, in Lenox. Mrs. Schermerhorn is the daughter of the late George M. Pullman. Among other Chicagoans in the Lenox group are Miss Kate Buckingham, owner of Bald Head, on the heights above Lake Mahkeenac, $53,000; Dr. and Mrs. Robert Metz, owners of Fernbrook, $32,700, and George Higginson, owner of The Ledge and The Corners, $70,400.

At Stockbridge Mr. and Mrs. James Ransom Walker have a tax levy on $19,400 at Fair Acres, on Prospect hill. In the Great Barrington colony is Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss L. Coonley's Folly Farm, on which the assessed valuation is $33,800, including the uncompleted Cotswold villa of native stone, $30,000.

The most valuable estate in the Berkshires, according to the tax list, is the property of the E. Parmalee Prentices, Mount Hope farm, at Williamstown. There are 106 buildings, of which 34 are dwellings, and the estate comprises 1,327 acres. The total assessed valuation is $732,344. The seventy room mansion, which has a picturesque setting overlooking the Greylock mountain hopper, is listed at $400,000. Mr. and Mrs. Prentice have 29 horses, 34 sheep, 59 cows, and 2,800 fowls. Mrs. Prentice is the former Alta Rockefeller, sister of the late Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick of Chicago.

Paris Designers Return to Flared Skirt That Permits Comfort While Walking

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—It is going to be all right for the skirt to be full this winter, provided it is full at certain points only. Paris had her try at the slinky Empire skirt that allows only a half a step, and she has come back this fall to one that permits lots of stepping and that has grace. The best of the Paris dressmakers are showing skirts that have their fullness concentrated in front only. This type of skirt appears usually on frocks for formal daytime wear and on some evening dresses. It is a much alleviated version of the Cleopatra skirt.

In the drawing sketched today you can see what the front-full skirt looks like, as interpreted by Louiseboulanger. This is an afternoon dress made of beige crêpe silk with a dull surface. The blouse is a simple affair with a V neckline which ends at the top before the raglan-topped sleeves finish their careers at the actual sides of the neck. A scarf of self material begins on the left side of the bodice front, emerging from a slit, passing around the neck and falling over the right shoulder in front, where it is tied in a knot. The ends are split. The sleeves are a variation of the leg o'mutton. The skirt has a plaited front panel, that begins above the draped girdle at the waistline and ends at the hem. This gives it the correct front flare of the new season.

CUBS ARRIVE HOME TODAY; STILL CONFIDENT

BABE AIRS HIS VIEWS OF CUBS AND 'CHISELING'

Yells 'Big Hearted Charley' at Grimm.

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Babe Ruth is carrying on a private feud with the Cubs. Few of the thousands today heard his impudent blasts directed at the enemy dugout.

"Sure, I'm on 'em," admitted the great man in the bedlam of the Yankee locker room. "I hope we beat 'em four straight. They gave Koenig and Hornsby a sour deal in their player cut. They're chiselers and I tell 'em so.

"Haw haw! You ought to see Grimm burn when I round first and holler 'Big Hearted Charley.' Imagine those guys moaning about the small crowds."

Cubs Shooting Pop Guns.

Ruth has an analytical baseball mind.

"The Cubs can't beat us," he said, "because they're shooting pop guns. We got the power. Take today's game. It was a fine sight to see those two kids, Warneke and Gomez, out there pitching better than most old timers. Each went the route. Neither was fidgety or scared and both had plenty of stuff through the ninth. But we made the runs. We've got a club that can always come up with a wheelbarrow full of runs."

Pipgras will oppose Root at Chicago, according to Ruth.

"Remember that Pipgras has a motion tailored to order for Wrigley field," said the Babe. "He pitches best in a crowded park. In his last shutout against the A's, with 80,000 in the stadium, they couldn't follow the ball. Pip will have those Cubs bent into pretzels.

He Gives Stephenson Credit.

"Demaree is a .250 hitter batting fifth, and Cuyler is not belting them in the clutch. Another weakness lies in Herman's inability to play left handed batters.

"Gehrig hit three singles down an alley before Herman wised up and shifted. Before that he was sitting on top of second base."

Ruth says the Yanks have the advantage of knowing Cub batting weaknesses through McCarthy.

"Now and then a ball will get away from a pitcher, but our guy is always pitching out of the book," he pointed out.

Pitching out of the book means pitching according to a pre-game tabulation of each hitter's strong and weak spots and strict adherence to the schedule. Ruth rates Stephenson the highest.

"He can clip 'em off his ear, elbows or kneecaps. If they win any games at all you'll find old Stevie responsible."

Papa Gomez Celebrates as Son Fools Cubs

Rodeo, Cal., Sept. 29.—(AP)—While the Yankees were beating the Cubs today, one of the citizens of this little town bordering San Francisco bay strutted up and down the main street in shirt sleeves and overalls proudly greeting his fellow townsmen. Manuel Gomez, father of Vernon Gomez, Yankee pitching ace, was so excited he couldn't stand still long.

"What do you think of my boy Vernon, now?" he cried to his friends. "I knew he could do it. He certainly showed those Cubs something."

Mrs. Mary Gomez, mother of Vernon, sat quietly before the radio in her modest home. "Vernon always wanted to be a baseball player and as long as he decided that was his way of making a living I am glad he got to the top," Mrs. Gomez said. "I am sorry for the boy pitching for the other side. It must make him feel bad to lose in front of such a great crowd of people."

WILDCATS END DRILL TODAY FOR MISSOURI GAME

Battle Tomorrow to Throw Light on New Rule.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern's football team will finish its fourteenth day of practice this afternoon preparatory to opening its schedule tomorrow against the University of Missouri. Frank Carideo, serving his first year as head coach, will bring his Tigers to town today and, as far as he is concerned, he is ready for more than just a preliminary game testing the ability of the Northwestern players, who, next week, will begin defense of their Big Ten title.

Nothing New in Team's Ability.

Kick off tomorrow is scheduled for 2 o'clock. The attendance is expected to reach 20,000. Arrangements have been made to announce the results, inning by inning, of the world series at Wrigley field.

Two weeks' preparation by the Wildcats, in addition to spring practice, has not brought out any new information as to the strength or weakness of this year's eleven. The situation remains about the same. Northwestern has a veteran back field, but only two regulars are likely to play tomorrow. Al Kawal will start in place of George Potter, whose recent injury will keep him out of the lineup until the Michigan game. Pug Rentner complained of a charleyhorse yesterday and probably will be held out of the Missouri game.

Jake Sullivan, the right half, was not a full time player in 1931, but he is better for a year's experience. Coach Dick Hanley believes he will fit in with the others.

Dick Fencl, regular end, has a bruised leg and will not play tomorrow unless his services are required.

Development of tackles and guards remains Hanley's problem. The material is a shade better than fair and should develop. But Northwestern's schedule leaves little time for development. If the Wildcats had another week before meeting Michigan and then did not have to try to beat all the strong teams in the Big Ten, they might expect to finish at the top. As it is, they may do well to win four of their six conference games.

Weaker on Reserves.

Injuries will hurt Northwestern more if any occur, for reserve strength does not measure up to that of a year ago.

Northwestern fans will have their first opportunity tomorrow to see how the new dead ball rule works. In the Chicago-Monmouth game last Saturday there was little if any difference

WILDCATS ACTING WILD

When Ollie Olson, Northwestern full back, swings his right leg, the football travels places, and how it travels. He's showing here how he does it.

Jake Sullivan, Purple half back, wasn't a full time player last year, but if he keeps going like this they can't keep him off the team or off the goal line either.

SULLIVAN SCHOOL STOPS CLASSES TO FOLLOW CUBS

Many of the afternoon classes at the Sullivan Junior High school at 4430 Beacon street have been discontinued for the last two days so that students could assemble in the auditorium to hear the radio broadcast of the world series between the Cubs and Yankees, it was revealed yesterday.

Students who listened to the reports of the game over the school radio were charged 5 cents each. The auditorium seats 800 persons and there was a capacity crowd each day.

Lewis W. Colwell, principal of the school, declared that the proceeds from the admission fees will go into the miscellaneous school fund. "Baseball enthusiasm has been running so high among the students," he said, "that they couldn't study and the broadcast scheme was devised."

HONESTY IS THE MOST EXPENSIVE BASEBALL CODE

Owners Profit by Not Winning Flag.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—Honesty has become such an expensive luxury in the baseball business that it may be found advisable hereafter for the magnates to dispense with some of the more elaborate fixings by which the sincerity of the world series is guaranteed to the customers and muddle along with a commoner and less expensive brand of honesty.

The world series receipts, under the present arrangement, do not leave the proprietors of the contending clubs much profit under the best of circumstances, and in some cases permit them nothing better than an even break, if that. In fact, there are some firms operating clubs in the two leagues at this time which might regard a world series as a misfortune rather than a boon, and if they had had the luck to win pennants this year might have had to borrow money with which to give the party.

How It Is Divided.

Under the present system of distribution of the world series receipts Commissioner K. M. Landis receives 15 per cent of the total with which to pay his own salary of $65,000 a year and the operating expenses of his office. The players' share is 65 per cent of the remainder, and the two leagues receive portions of the money that is left before the owners of the contending clubs begin to participate in the revenue from their own production.

The players' participation ends with the receipt of the fourth world series game, but if the championship is decided in four games, as has happened twice in recent seasons, and as may happen again this year, the share which the owners of the contending teams divide among themselves may not leave them any profit, or, at best, much less margin than the work and responsibility and the size of the turnover would justify.

There was a slight misunderstanding between the commissioner and some of the magnates a few years ago, at the climax of which his honor was reported to have pulled out of his pocket a document that might have been his $65,000 a year contract or warrant as czar of the baseball industry. Throwing the document, which, of course, might have been nothing more important than a jury summons or a chattel mortgage, on the table before the rebellious bullfrogs who had summoned a crane to be their king and had begun to tire of absolutism, the commissioner is alleged to have invited them to tear it up.

The implication was that he was worth every dollar of his rather expensive cost as the personal guarantor of the integrity of the national game, which had acquired a somewhat shady reputation a few years before. If they should accept his invitation to cancel his contract, that would signify to the customers that they were tired of honesty on the grand scale and wished to return to the old system.

It's Got the Habit.

However, the baseball business has now acquired a habit of honesty, with reservations, of course, and by this time there doubtless are some magnates who regret that they did not seize the opportunity to tear up the contract—which might have been a chattel mortgage—and reduce the overhead cost of baseball's good name. It would have been a means of saving much money and these are times when it is possible to hire a reasonably honest man for the job of czar for $50 a week.

The players' pool of 65 per cent of 65 per cent of the receipts of the first four games runs up the price of an honest reputation. The theory is that the players cannot be suspected of prolonging the series by neglecting to bear down if they are relieved of all financial motive to do so. But if the players' pool were reduced to a smaller percentage of the first four games or to the present percentage of the first three games, this effect would still be maintained and the magnates would be made much happier.

There is little sympathy for the magnates, who are not heroic figures by comparison with the athletes, but this has been a bad year for the baseball industry and they may have to

Enid Wilson Is Defeated in Golf Upset

West Peabody, Mass., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Two years ago, when the women's metropolitan golf championship was being decided at the Engineers' club in Roslyn, the matches were followed by a 20 year old New Jersey girl who was heard to remark: "Gee, I wish I could play that kind of golf."

Today, at the Salem Country club, Miss Charlotte Glutting of South Orange, the girl who had expressed the wish to become a top notch player two years previous, put Miss Enid Wilson, British champion, out of the women's national championship tournament. Miss Glutting won on the home green when her opponent, 1 down at the time, conceded her a 20 inch downhill, side hill putt for a half.

It was an upset, one of the biggest that has happened in the championship in recent years, but the American girl richly deserved to win the match after making as brave an uphill fight as any one ever made.

Maureen Orcutt Loses.

Miss Wilson was not the only favorite to fall in today's quarter finals, for Miss Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., perennial challenger but never yet a winner, was eliminated by the many time Canadian champion, Miss Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, 2 and 1.

Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, who has been a champion five times and a runnerup once, squeezed her way into the semi-final round by beating Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo girl, who

HACK WILSON AS "GOAT."

ALTHOUGH individual batting leader with a percentage of .471 compared to his team's average of .249, Hack Wilson was the "goat" of the Chicago Cubs-Philadelphia Athletics world series of 1929. In fact, his misfortunes in the field earned him the temporary nickname of "Sunny Boy," following the most remarkable inning in the history of world series baseball.

This inning was the seventh—"Lucky Seventh" for Philadelphia—in the fourth game of the series at Philadelphia. The count before its start was two games to one in favor of the Athletics. Charley Root and Quinn were the starting pitchers, but before the afternoon was over Nehf, Blake, Malone, and Carlson had officiated for Chicago and Walberg, Rommel, and Grove for Philadelphia.

During the fusillade which sent Athletics' hurlers to the showers, Root was moving along nicely with no thought of impending disaster and the score was 8 to 0 in favor of the Cubs when Mack's men went to bat in the last half of the seventh.

Al Simmons, first up, cracked a homer into the right field stands. Nothing to worry about with the big lead. Foxx singled to right. Then Hack Wilson lost Miller's looping fly in the center field sun. Root deflected Dykes' grounder, which English probably would have snared for an out, and Foxx scored. Boley singled over Root's head and Miller scored, Dykes going to third. Burns batted for Rommel and popped to English. Bishop singled over second, Dykes scoring and Boley going to third. Nehf went in to pitch as Root retired to the showers with the score 8 to 4.

Nehf's supposed orders were to force the Philadelphia sluggers to hit fly balls, if possible, instead of line drives. Haas sent a fly to center field. Hack Wilson misjudged it in the sun. He then ran in, but saw he could not reach the ball after his late start and tried to block it with one hand. The ball rolled to the fence for a home run with three runs counting. Score now 8 to 7, with one out.

Nehf passed Cochrane and was replaced by Blake. Simmons, second time up, hit toward McMillan at third and the latter was set for what seemed a sure double play to end the inning when the ball took an erratic bound over his shoulder and both runners were safe. Foxx singled to center, scoring Cochrane with the tying run and placing Simmons on third. Malone then took the mound. He hit Miller with the first ball pitched. Dykes then doubled to left field, Simmons and Foxx scoring. Boley, and Burns, batting for Rommel, struck out. Score, 10 to 8, which was the final.

From this account one may see where several other factors could have changed the result, but Wilson's two misjudged flies gave him the "goat" honors.

About That "Split."

Wake: The fact that Mark Koenig did not join the Cubs until Aug. 11 no doubt caused the players to vote him only a half share of the world series players' pool. They did not take into account their standing on Aug. 11. The records show that Koenig did just about as much as any man on that team to bring the championship here. He should have had a full share. "Not Interested," Says Hornsby of World Series

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Rogers Hornsby doesn't care whether the Chicago Cubs win or lose in the world series against the New York Yankees. The former manager of the National league champions, who was not voted a share in the world series money, refuses to listen to the radio broadcasts of the games.

Rosenbloom Whips Scozza; Dempsey Referees Bout

MONTREAL, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Maxie Rosenbloom, New York light heavyweight, slapped out a ten round decision over Lou Scozza of Buffalo at the stadium tonight. Jack Dempsey, who served as referee, was the principal point of interest for 15,000 fans who braved near freezing weather to contribute to the aid of the unemployed. The bout itself was spiritless, but Dempsey kept things livened up by combining his duties with autograph signing and answering greetings between rounds.

CANZONERI STOPS LEW KIRSCH IN THIRD ROUND

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, stopped Lew Kirsch in the third round of an over-the-weight bout tonight.

Canzoneri, making his first local start in ten months, gave a brilliant exhibition after a mediocre first round. He punished Kirsch considerably after he warmed to his task and outclassed the latter so much that Referee Willie Lewis halted the fight after one minute and twenty-nine seconds of the third round.

Dykes Slated to Become White Sox Manager, Report

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Jimmy Dykes, sold with other players to the Chicago White Sox, will succeed Lew Fonseca as manager for the Chicago club, it was reported today. Philadelphia baseball experts assert that the deal already has been completed. If the report is true it would mean that the White Sox would have to pay off Fonseca for his contract that has one year to run.

GRIMM RATES GOMEZ BETTER THAN GROVE

Warneke Blames Walks for Loss.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—Two baseball specials rattled toward Chicago tonight, but one sang clickety-click, while the other carrying an added burden of woe went bumpty-bump as it headed for the west and new opportunities.

At least the Cubs were leading in the westward trek, for their train got away almost an hour ahead of the slower dressing and more jubilant Yankees. The Cubs will arrive at the La Salle Street station at 12:45 tomorrow afternoon and the Yanks are due at the same depot at 1:55.

The latch string hung outside the Cubs locker room in the Yankee stadium this afternoon where burly guards had patrolled the day before. There was not a great deal of conversation, however, and interviews were at a premium, the Cubs not being exactly in a talkative mood.

No Hits in Pinch.

Manager Charley Grimm talked offhand as he climbed into his street trousers. There was no time for relaxation and mediation.

"Now, this Pitcher Gomez," opined the Cub leader, "is a great pitcher. He beats Lefty Grove with me. In there today he was just as fast as Grove and he had plenty of control. What happened today? I'll tell you the answer to that one. Too much Gomez."

There were optimistic ball players grouped about their leader in the locker room and one ventured the remark that:

"The Cubs made nine hits—and you got a couple yourself, Charley."

"How about the strikeouts," Grimm countered. "About eight wasn't it? Did we get hits when they meant something? That's the story."

Cubs Glad to Move.

Soap and towels and a lot of repartee were flying about in abandon. Everybody was dressing as rapidly as possible. It appeared as if the Cubs were happy to be getting out of town. A lot of their friends kept dropping in to speed them up. Hope which springs eternal from semewhere or other began to spring from the hot water faucets in the shower room.

A Cub was actually heard to break into a whistle.

Outside and in the bus across town to the train the Cub spirits perked up even more. They were confident the Yankees would fall in Wrigley park.

Root was selected by the still smiling Grimm for the Saturday game in Chicago and with the Cub fans behind him at home, his teammates expressed confidence he would lick the American leaguers. If Root should fail, Malone will be in there for the big game Sunday.

Headquarters Quiet.

Cub followers began to pile out of their hotels early tonight and head for Chicago. By dinner time the Commodore, which has been Cubs headquarters, had taken on a normal appearance and there was every evidence that the big show had struck its tent.

Lonnie Warneke, the Cubs' pitcher, had a somewhat similar explanation to that given by his teammate, Guy Bush, yesterday. It was bases on balls. Warneke reflected that bases on balls are merely hits by another name. The boy from Arkansas walked four past Sewell, close to third, and it bounced off the left field wall for a double. A lazy fly leaped off English's bat and into the hands of Combs in short center. Crosetti, the youthful Yank shortstop, then rendered valuable aid to the enemy. He fumbled Cuyler's grounder, slapped it around like a rubber ball, and was still doing his little panicky act after Cuyler had arrived at first and Herman at third.

YANKEES WHIP CUBS FOR SECOND STRAIGHT, 5 TO 2

Gomez Shades Warneke in Young Pitchers' Duel.

Stephenson drove a none too robust fly to Combs, but the Cubs didn't neglect to take advantage of the veteran's lack of throwing skill. The instant the ball dropped into Combs' hands Herman tore for the plate and made it standing up. Then Demaree, playing in Moore's place because of the presence of the left-handed Gomez, closed the inning with a fly that Ruth took in without trouble.

Combs Waits Him Out.

Warneke's first inning in world series toil was a flop not only because of an apparent case of fright but because he found himself unable to outguess Combs, the Yank leadoff man. The kid's first pitch was a perfect strike. Then Combs started fouling off the good ones and neglecting to give any attention to those that were wide. He ran the count down to 3 and 2, fouled a few more and then walked. When Sewell walked the Cubs swarmed around Warneke to get him back to earth and their talk must have been a success, because he fanned Ruth on four pitched balls. All the strikes were sharp breaking curves, two of which the Babe took without moving his bat.

What Ruth couldn't do in this situation, Gehrig did. He worked the count to 3 and 2 and then crashed through Grimm's defense for a single. Combs scoring and Sewell stopping at second. A pop foul put Lazzeri back on the bench and Dickey then pulled another drive in Grimm's direction. The manager made another frantic dive but the ball, just as in the case of Gehrig's hit, skipped through for a single, scoring Sewell and sending Gehrig to third. Then Warneke found his bearings again and slipped over a third strike on Chapman to close the unhappy inning.

Cubs Tie Score in Third.

For a few moments in the second it appeared as if the Cubs might come crashing through in an important way. Grimm led off with a single to center and Hartnett walked. They moved along on Jurges' sacrifice, but the rest of the inning was made up of strikeouts for Warneke and Herman.

It was none other than Ruth who helped boost the Cubs into a momentary tie with a run in the third. After two were out Stephenson slammed a grounder to right and Ruth meant to pick it up, but the ball slipped past him and the kind hearted scorers decided it was a double instead of a single and an error. Then Demaree stepped into the breach with a single to right scoring Stephenson, but an instant later the young man took a big lead off base and Gomez nipped him with a throw to Gehrig.

Walk to Ruth Brings Trouble.

The Ruth menace caused Warneke to get into that spot that let the Yanks jump out in front again with two runs in their half of the third. With one gone Warneke, trying to keep the ball on the outside, walked the Babe. Gehrig hit another single toward right and Herman slapped it down back on the grass, thus holding Ruth at second.

A scooping pickup by Jurges robbed Lazzeri of a hit. Then Warneke was ordered to pass Dickey to take a chance on Chapman, but the strategy went blooey when Chapman looped a single into right, sending Ruth and Gehrig home.

Yankees Go Dumb.

Grimm tried to start something for his own men when he singled to start the fourth, but it meant nothing because two of the next three fanned.

The Yanks also steamed up for some important deeds in the fourth only to blow their chances by dumbness on the bases. Combs singled to left and went to third on Sewell's single in the same direction. There was one out at the time. Ruth poked an easy grounder to Warneke, who pegged to Hartnett. Hartnett ran Combs back toward third and Sewell was charging into the same bag from the opposite direction. Combs, forgetting the bag belonged to him, stepped off and Hartnett tagged him. Then Sewell contributed to the bone play by starting back to second. A throw from Hartnett to Jurges doubled him.

Cuyler Smacks Triple.

Gomez had his strikeout ball working in the fifth, but this didn't keep him out of trouble. He fanned Herman and English in the twinkling of an eye, making four strikeouts in five consecutive batters. Cuyler then rammed a high fly into the right field corner and Ruth made a valiant attempt to spear the ball, but it trickled down to the ground and Cuyler, playing a long shot, tore for third. He beat the throw by inches and he would have gone home a moment later with a run if Sewell hadn't leaped high for a bounder close to third and thrown out Stephenson.

Gehrig's third hit, a twisting liner that Herman couldn't gauge, opened the Yank fifth and brought on another run. He moved down to second while Herman was throwing out Lazzeri. Lou scored on Dickey's single into center and the inning closed abruptly when Dickey was doubled trying to steal as Chapman fanned. There were only two Yankee hits after this. Ruth slapped a single to right in the seventh and Gehrig grounded into a double play. Lazzeri scratched a hit past English in the eighth and another double play was pulled.

Hope Flares in Eighth.

The eighth brought to the Cubs the second and last inning in which they produced two hits, but this merely delayed the inevitable. English opened with a single to right. Cuyler flied out and Stephenson shot a single into left. What might have developed into something with another hit or so faded completely when Demaree and Grimm rolled into force outs.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

Let's talk about something pleasant this morning. The White Sox, for instance.

The deal bringing Al Simmons, Jimmy Dykes and Mule Haas to the south side goes to show that you can't keep a good town down.

President Lou Comiskey could have withheld announcement of the biggest player catch since Hornsby was purchased by the Cubs until a dull day in December. But he had the welfare of his city at heart.

Comiskey knew full well that thousands of Cub fans would be hurling themselves into the muddy waters of the north branch of the river unless drastic measures were adopted to get their minds off that first world series game.

So before there was any time for widespread hari-kari he made known that the Sox really were making an effort to reëstablish Chicago's prestige in American league baseball. And when the Comiskeys decide to reëstablish Chicago's baseball prestige they mean to reëstablish Chicago's baseball prestige.

The club leaders say there are a couple more deals of importance to be transacted before they leave for the spring training camp at Pasadena, Cal. It will take another star player or two to make the Sox a team to be reckoned with next year, but it is encouraging to find that at last they really have made a start toward rehabilitation of a club that easily could prove the best drawing card in the league.

Chicago is the best baseball city in the country. All it needs is something to shout about.

The University of Illinois will open its 20th football season under the coaching of Bob Zuppke tomorrow afternoon. A. A. Stagg is the only Big Ten coach who ranks Zuppke in length of service.

Zuppke's teams have won only one conference victory in the last two years. Let any other coach turn in a record like that and the alumni would be ready to tear him limb from limb. But Zuppke has builded so well that the achievements of his 19 year career at Illinois have withstood even these disasters.

The Orange and Blue has the edge on every Big Ten team except Michigan since Zuppke took charge in 1913. The Wolverines have won seven of the 12 games between the two teams in that span. But any good Illinois man will tell you that Red Grange's 39 to 14 victory over Michigan in 1924 was worth two or three Michigan wins.

Under Zuppke the Illini have played 98 Big Ten games with a record of 57 victories, 34 defeats and seven ties. They have played 45 nonconference foes, defeating 38, losing to six and tying one.

Illinois' complete record under Zuppke:

Cubs Arrive Home Today; Full of Hope

men today. One of the walks was intential but it didn't help a bit.

"Those walks brought the break in the game," Warneke said, and he was right so far as there was any particular break.

Across in the Yankees' dressing room there was every evidence of confidence. Col. Jacob Ruppert, the club owner, breezed in to congratulate Manager Joe McCarthy.

"That's the spirit, Joe," boomed Ruppert. "Just make it two more in a row and that will be fine."

"We'll try to do just that," grinned the manager.

Afterward McCarthy confessed he expected to run into a bit of trouble in Chicago. He pointed out that Root and Malone in Wrigley field would never permit the Yankees to make a runaway of either game.

"Those fellows are tough," said the Yankee manager, "but we'll try Pipgras Saturday and await results."

McCarthy and Babe Ruth were recipients of gifts this afternoon. McCarthy got a silver pitcher from the team for leading it to victory in the American league and the Babe drew a silver jacketed cigar humidor to mark his participation in his tenth world series.

Sonnenleiter to Direct Northwest Park Activities

George Sonnenleiter yesterday was appointed supervisor of athletics in the northwest park district. Sonnenleiter was a gymnasium instructor for the district parks for five years. The district is composed of 13 parks and playgrounds.

Ah, a Romantic Note in Series! It's Lefty Gomez

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The Spanish flavor which was injected into the Yankees' second victory over the Cubs in the world series was furnished by Vernon Gomez of Rodeo, Cal. Left handed, superstitious and rather eccentric the Yankees' gay caballero is a mixture of Californian and Castillian. In later years Charley Grimm may have to remember him as the Spaniard who blighted his life.

Gomez cuts something of an unusual figure in the purely American atmosphere of baseball. Long, lean and lanky, with a dreamy look, his proper setting would be under a rose arbor, strumming a guitar on a moonlight night. He is six feet two inches tall and weighs only 150 pounds.

Gomez will be married right after the series.

"June set the date today," he said. "We're to be married two days after the Yankees come back from Chicago. Naturally I hope we win the next two games—I'll be home sooner."

The southpaw's fiancée is Miss June O'Day, 19 year old dancer in the New York company "Of Thee I Sing."

FORMER HELEN MEANY ENTERS DIVORCE PLEA

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Charging her husband with intolerable cruelty since the day of their marriage two years ago, Helen Meany Balfe, internationally known diver, petitioned for a divorce today in Superior court from Henry H. Balfe, New York food broker.

The former national and Olympic champion also asked that she be allowed to resume her maiden name.

Miss Meany married Balfe Sept. 26, 1930, after dominating the ranks of American women divers for more than ten years.

BOTH YANKS AND CUBS JITTERY AS PLAY STARTS

Warneke Almost Shrinks Before Sluggers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—Well, anyway, the weather was all right today. Both teams were jittery, however, when the umpire called "Play ball!" and maybe that accounts for some of the things that happened.

One could almost see Warneke's six foot frame shrink when Lou Gehrig and the Babe cocked their bats. The big Chicago fellow who lost only six games in the National league found himself in several tough spots in Yankeeville. The speed of the Cub infield saved him on at least two occasions with dazzling double plays.

Ruth didn't appreciate his free walk in the third. He shouted a message to the Cubs' dugout, which later was interpreted as, "What's the matter with you guys, are you yellow?"

The red, white and blue bunting looked a bit weather beaten after a damp night, but the brilliant sun and a light northwest breeze soon ironed out the wrinkles.

At 1 o'clock there were not enough people in the lower grandstand to get up a bridge tournament, but the top tier was beginning to fill.

Some of the long range cameras the photographers lugged in looked like "Big Berthas." It took two men to carry the biggest one.

The game started on time—1:30—and Babe Ruth's pose during the playing of the national anthem was still a study of some kind or other.

The Babe is no good at bending. Stephenson rolled an easy one to him in the third, but Ruth didn't stoop quickly enough. It cost a run, for Demaree hit safely.

Cuyler gave Ruth a fly he couldn't handle in the fifth. By the time Babe got the ball back to the diamond Cuyler was safe on third.

The Stadium was not filled, but the apartment house roofs entertained a capacity crowd, the threat of rain yesterday having held down the upstairs al fresco attendance.

The sanctity of the press section was zealously guarded by an evil tempered man in uniform. He spent the afternoon and most of his strength chasing "butcher boys," who were wasting their time in such a section, anyhow.

George Earnshaw, the Athletic pitcher, sat in a box hard by the Cub dugout. He appeared a bit bored at times.

The Cub infield was hot, and in defeat showed the Yankees a thing or two about the game. They tied the world series record by making double plays in the fourth, fifth, seventh, and eighth innings.

Koenig was on the bench because he wrenched his left wrist in sliding to a base in the opening game. The Cubs missed him at bat more than in the field.

The Yankees became almost prohibitive odds-on favorites tonight along Broadway, as a result of their second straight victory over the Cubs. Jack Doyle quoted the Yanks as favorites at 10 to 1, with the Cubs long shots at 9 to 1. The chances of the Yankees making it four straight have brightened, of course, and the odds now are only 7 to 5 against the American league champions, with the same odds, of course, applying to their chances of winning the next two contests.

For the opening game in Chicago the Yankees are held favorites at odds on, the price being 3 to 5. The price against the Cubs winning the first game in Chicago is 8 to 5. Three and a half to one against the chances of the Cubs winning the next two games was the best quotation available tonight.

The chances of the Cubs winning four straight, and the series, of course, are very remote, the odds being 20 to 1 against them doing that.

Honesty Is the Most Costly Baseball Code

They have made the players reasonably happy and certainly Judge Landis, with his salary of $65,000 a year and a large office fund and his official prerogatives, must be one of the happiest mortals in the U. S. A. at the current rate of exchange. The official prerogatives alone would be almost enough for a man with a natural love of prerogatives and twenty years' experience on the U. S. district bench, which is one of the most prerogative jobs in the civilized world.

Another expensive item in the cost of baseball's fair name is the irritating and cumbersome system by which the world series tickets are ostensibly kept out of the hands of undeserving persons, particularly scalpers. This method requires the customer to buy tickets for three games, even if he only desires tickets for one and to accompany his application with a certified check.

Some Might Have Called It.

The cost of selling tickets in accordance with this plan, including the mailing by registered mail, is more than the hire of a pretty fair journeyman shortstop with a good pair of hands and a bold stance at the plate.

So the baseball business has gone from one unhappy extreme to the other. In 1919 the business was not even reasonably honest, harboring, as it did, numerous characters of distinctly larcenous disposition. In 1932 it is topheavy with honesty.

There are certain ball clubs which, if they had won pennants this fall, might have been glad to call off the world series and take a stand-off on the books, making no money, to be sure, but anyway, not losing any. It was fortunate that the pennants were won by the two firms which, if the series ends in four games, can laugh off the consequences with a merry, "O, well, pour le sport."

Complete Plans for Auto Traffic to Wrigley Field

Plans were made yesterday to handle the thousands of motorists who will drive to Wrigley field for the Chicago world series games, the first of which will be played tomorrow. The second game is scheduled on Sunday and the third, if necessary, on Monday.

Capt. James U. Sammis of the Lincoln park police announced that outer drive traffic would be reversed between the hours of 3 and 5 o'clock tomorrow, Sunday, and Monday. The drive, which ordinarily is used for north bound autos, will be changed to a one way south bound boulevard during the series here.

Streets in the area bounded by Sheridan road and Byron, Halsted, Roscoe and Herndon streets, will be closed to traffic. No autos will be permitted on Sheffield avenue from Waveland avenue to Addison street, and Waveland avenue from Sheffield to Seminary avenue.

There will be no parking allowed in Addison street from Herndon to Halsted streets, Clark street from Grace to Roscoe streets, nor in any alley.

INJURIES WORRY MICHIGAN RIVALS AS GAME NEARS

Wolverines Limp About; State Back Ails.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 29.—[Special.] — Michigan coaches this afternoon put the finishing touches on a battered Wolverine squad for Michigan State game here Saturday. Whitey Wistert limped so badly it is doubtful if he can play at tackle. Damm, hurt yesterday, worked with the second squad, which was given easier exercises than those prescribed for the regulars. That left Austin, a capable man, and Chapman, rated as No. 5, for the tackle posts. Capt. Williamson worked but little at end, and is not likely to see much service. Everhardus, a back, had to be kept with the seconds. Work on defense took up most of the afternoon.

SPARTAN BACK HURT.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 29.—[Special.] —Possible loss of Bernard McNutt, first string full back, for the game with Michigan Saturday, cast gloom over the Michigan State camp today. McNutt suffered a dislocated left shoulder in tackling practice and the Spartan trainers have not yet decided whether he will be available by Saturday.

If McNutt is not available Joe Kowatch, Ionia boy whose utility back field work has aided State in many past emergencies, probably will be called on to fill the gap. Kowatch has played every back field position and has particularly distinguished himself as a consistent blocker and tackler. The varsity showed less drive after the mishap and looked far off form in their encounters with a stubborn freshman defense.

HASS LEADS GOPHERS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Capt. Walter Hass will be at quarter back for Minnesota in the opening game with South Dakota State here Saturday. That was assured today as he ran the team through its last hard workout of the week. Pug Lund and Sam Swartz were at the half backs. Bill Proffit is favored to get the call over the injured Jack Manders and Butch Larson at full back. Roy Oen, center; Sulo Koski, guard, and Marshall Wells, tackle, are the only certainties in the line.

FROSH POUND PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 29.—[Special.] —Building a defense for the Kansas State eleven occupied the time of Purdue's football squad today. Freshmen using Kansas State plays kept pounding away at the varsity line in a long scrimmage and found more holes than pleased the coaching staff.

John Husar of Chicago is expected to start at left tackle in place of the injured Dutch Fehring, and Howard Keegan will be at right half back in a back field that will have Paul Pardonner, Fred Hecker and Roy Horstmann at the other positions.

ILLINI HALT FROSH.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.] —Illinois varsity football teams had little difficulty stopping the assaults of freshman teams which used Coe and Miami plays today.

Capt. Gil Berry, Chuck Andrews, Jack Cravens, and Ed Snavley worked in the first string back field and probably will start the first game Saturday. Jack Beynon, Al Adams, Bob Malberg, and Red Gragg formed the secondary on the other squad. The tackle positions, which have caused the most worry this year, were filled by Bart Cummings, Julius Hoeft, Layern Joslin, and Hal Petty.

BADGERS LOSE CENTER.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 29.—[Special.] —The Wisconsin football squad scrimmaged today in the final hard workout before the Marquette game Saturday.

Announcement that Jerome Femal, one of the two promising centers on the squad, was ineligible, forced Coach Clarence W. Spears to put Capt. Greg Kabat at center in competition with William Koenig.

Because there are many promising tackles on the roster, Charles Goldenberg was removed from that position to quarter back.

KOKEN DAZZLES RESERVES.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Mike Koken opened his campaign to regain a position on the Notre Dame varsity football team today when he made a dozen long gains, punted for the second team, and caught several passes in a scrimmage against the reserves.

Koken, Joe Sheeketski, and Steve Banas appeared in a back field which made a steady march to the goal line of the best reserve team.

Tomorrow all teams will be given a rest preparatory to Saturday's annual frosh-varsity game, which will start at 1:30.

INDIANA BUSY ON PASSES.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Indiana's varsity was sent through a strenuous session today in the last hard workout for the Ohio university game here Saturday. Pass offense and defense were stressed, with Opasik, Saluski, and Don Veller doing the throwing. All are in good condition except Dickey, end, who is suffering from a minor injury.

IOWA WORKS ON KICKING.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 29.—[Special.] —Kickers received a long session in the new University of Iowa stadium tonight as the Hawkeyes prepared for the Bradley game Saturday.

Dutch Schmidt, half back, topped the punters and registered consistently on place kicks from the 10 yard line. Wilman Hoss, Forest Park, Ill., sophomore guard, attained the best distance on kickoffs and probably will draw that assignment for the opening game. In a short dummy scrimmage against freshmen using Bradley plays Howard Moffitt was used at quarter back. Marvin Kuhn, full back, and Ed Dolly, guard, still were out of the first string lineup with injuries.

OHIO PRACTICES DECEPTION.

Columbus, O., Sept. 29.—[Special.]— More versatility and deception will be noted in the play of the Ohio State back field if plans of the coaching staff materialize. Each back field man is learning the intricacies of at least three positions. This afternoon in scrimmage Carroll, Hinchman, and Keefe worked out the system effectively and baffled the second string team.

Enid Wilson Is Defeated in Golf Upset

holds the New York state title, 2 and 1, after being three down and seven to play.

The other member of the "big four" of women's golf for 1932, Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, co-medalist in the tournament, won by the widest margin of any today, taking her match from Miss Rosalie Knapp of the Women's National Golf and Tennis club at Glen Head, 3 and 2.

The finish of the match between Miss Glutting and the British champion was as dramatic as anything that has happened in any championship in recent years.

Miss Glutting Proves Nerve.

Playing to the final hole Miss Glutting was 1 up, having taken the lead for the third time in the match by winning the 17th. Her drive was to the right side of the fairway, a trifle farther out than Miss Wilson's, but in a far less favorable spot for she had to play over a bunker to reach the green while the English girl's tee shot was placed where it opened up the green for her.

Miss Wilson hit a beautiful iron shot, which stopped a foot or so off the green. Miss Glutting's shot was more difficult, because she had to play from a hanging lie. She topped her ball and it hopped into the bunker, crawling half way up the bank and flopping back into the sand near the steep face.

It looked almost certain then that the British champion would win the hole and square the match, making extra holes necessary. Miss Glutting barely managed to get her ball out of the bunker on her next stroke and she had played four before Miss Wilson was called upon to play her third.

Recovery Shot Does It.

Miss Glutting's fourth was a beauty —a deft chip shot that sent her ball up within two feet of the hole. With two needed to square the match, Miss Wilson's next effort was a weak chip that was neither straight nor far enough, leaving her ball a good 15 feet from the cup. She putted, missed and then, to the astonishment of everyone standing around the home green, she knocked her own ball away, walked over and congratulated her rival.

Asked afterward why she conceded Miss Glutting the putt—one that was by no means dead, especially under the circumstances—Miss Wilson said: "She would have got it anyway; so why waste time?"

Pairings for tomorrow's semi-final round matches follow:

Mrs. Vare vs. Miss MacKenzie.
Miss Van Wie vs. Miss Glutting.

CILOEK'S 74 IS LOW IN RYAN DAY GOLF MEET

John Ciloek's 74 won low gross in the Joseph W. Ryan day golf tournament at Westgate Valley yesterday. More than 300 competed.

Father Thomas Burke, George Hilton and Henry Hilton tied for second low with 76, Father Burke winning in the draw. There also was a three-way tie for low score on the 35 yard seventh hole, a water hole. F. Martin, Rose Marshall and C. J. Grindell each had a two, Grindell winning the draw.

The prize for low score on the third hole went to Henry Lenard, the boxer, who had a two, and the award for the longest drive was won by Joe Zang, whose best effort was 240 yards.

Wildcats End Drill Today for Opener

in the play from a year ago. Perhaps this was because no attempt was made to interpret the rule literally as far as falling on the ball carrier after he had touched the ground.

The dead ball rule was not put in the code merely to call the offense to a halt under unusual circumstances. It was put in to prevent the ball carrier from being hit while he is unable to protect himself. In college games played thus far, the defense still has fallen on or tackled the runner whether or not he touched the ground. If this continues to be permitted, there remains no reason for the rule.

Fumbling will be decreased under the new rule. One of the principal reasons for fumbling is the shock to the ball carrier when he strikes the ground. Strictly interpreted, if the ball carrier touches the ground with his knee as he falls, the ball is dead and if he fumbles, even a fraction of a second later, it does not give the other team opportunity to gain possession of the ball.

TWO MAROONS HURT.

Two more varsity back field men were temporarily put out of commission at the University of Chicago football practice yesterday. Capt. Don Birney sustained a shoulder bruise in the morning workout and Ed Cullen, sophomore full back, took too hard a crack on the leg.

These additions to the sidelines contingent brought the back field casualty list to six, since Pat Page Jr., Al Summers, George Mahoney, and Bernard Johnson already are nursing aches and pains.

The show at White City Monday was canceled yesterday. Promoter Mique Malloy was unable to sign a suitable windup. His next date is Oct. 10.

BUNKER HILL KEEPS LEAD IN GOLF LEAGUE

Bunker Hill retained its lead in the Northwest Golf league by defeating Ridgemoor 16½ to 10½ in the regular series of matches over the water course at Kildeer yesterday. Edgewater whipped Medinah 24 to 3, Kildeer defeated Park Ridge 15 to 12, and Rolling Green beat Westward Ho 16½ to 10½.

Tom Robbins of Park Ridge led the individual scorers with a 72, one over par. Art Sweet of Ridgemoor turned in a 73. Carlton Smith of Rolling Green, Martin Hon of Bunker Hill, Bud Wagner of Westward Ho, and Frank Wilcox of Westward Ho all submitted 77s.

The league standing is now: Bunker Hill, 122; Rolling Green, 114½; Edgewater, 104; Park Ridge, 102; Kildeer, 98; Ridgemoor, 79½; Westward Ho, 79½, and Medinah, 62½.

Wesleyan and De Paul Renew Feud Tonight

A repetition of last year's struggle is expected tonight when De Paul university and Illinois Wesleyan football teams clash at Loyola stadium. Both teams won their opening games last week, De Paul whipping St. Viator, 12 to 6, and Wesleyan defeating Carbondale Normal, 7 to 0.

Illinois Wesleyan held a 2 to 0 lead until the final minutes last season, when Matty Steffen went into the game despite injuries to turn defeat into a 6 to 2 triumph. The Wesleyan team will outweigh De Paul considerably tonight, employing a line which scales 200 pounds.

The De Paul attack will meet rigid resistance and Coaches Jim Kelly and Ben Connors plan to open up a bit. Most of the early season raggedness was ironed out of the offense during the last week of drill. De Paul's chief threat continues to be Matty Steffen, 165 pound half back who runs, kicks, and passes with equal skill.

Ted Jablonski, who will start at full back again, appears to have mastered the job. It is on him that De Paul hopes will rest tonight.

KALAMAZOO AT HOPE.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The Kalamazoo college team is expecting its hardest game of the season Saturday with Hope college at Holland.

IDENTIFY HORSES LOST IN BLAZE AT HAWTHORNE

Eight race horses destroyed Wednesday night as the result of a $75,000 fire in the Hawthorne track stables, 37th street and 52d avenue, Stickney, were identified later by Benjamin Miller, superintendent of stables. Emil Denemark, west side automobile dealer, was the owner of five of the horses.

Supreme Token, valued at $15,000; Shelda Dean, valued at $5,000, and Rough Rider, valued at $1,500, were burned to death. Winning Hand, valued at $1,500, and Miss Callahan, valued at $1,500, were injured during the blaze and were destroyed. All were owned by Denemark. Flash O' Light, owned by Tony Jenicke, and Musher and an unnamed filly, owned by Jerry Sullivan, were also burned to death.

Other horses freed by rescuers were rounded up by stable attendants in Cicero, Berwyn, and Stickney. Acting Fire Chief George Knoll of Cicero said he believed the fire was started by a match or cigaret tossed into a pile of feed by a stable attendant.

Explains why

The "Forgotten Man" I have in mind is the man who has to keep up appearances to hold his job and keep up his mortgage payments to hold his home.

Today he is silently struggling to make both ends meet with an income that has been cut in two, but he does not want his family or friends to share his troubles.

My "Forgotten Man" holds his head up and wears a smile, but has got to save on everything else he wears.

That's why we introduced the Regal Budget Shoe for $3.95.

He has always liked nice things and has had money enough to pay for them. Last year he wore the Regal Custom Reproductions with a custom made suit. This year he may wear a ready made suit but he can still wear a Regal Shoe.

We consider it an achievement in fine shoe making to produce this shoe in this Quality at this Price in the Regal factory.

It was made for HIM and others just like HIM, and is ready for HIM, in every city in the U.S.A. where we have a Regal store.

E. J. Bliss
Chairman of the Board

DEPRESSION, IT'S A HORSE, SCORES BY FIVE LENGTHS

Lazy Mary Is Second; Winner Pays $7.82.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Depression won the best race of the day out at Lincoln Fields yesterday. He not only won it but ran away from the six horses which tried to keep step with him.

His victory and the favorite's [Bright Beauty's] disgraceful race provided just one of numerous upsets which came during a program run off over a very difficult drying out track. Depression won by five lengths after sailing into the lead rounding the turn into the stretch.

Coming down the stretch, increasing his lead at every stride, he looked like a stake horse while he pulled away. Maybe Depression is a stake horse, but he was running to be claimed for $1,500 and nobody claimed him.

Comes of Great Line.

Depression was cut out for a very good horse. He is a son of North Star III.-Escarpolette, the latter a noted heavy track performer. Depression's owner is J. W. Parrish, the Kentucky banker. Depression has been a no good fellow all season and that accounts for the very cheap company he was keeping yesterday. It was the first race he had won in a dozen starts this year and he has been beaten time after time by a lot of very bad horses. So the wise racegoers figured that Depression just happened to get into a running mood.

A very smart tip had gone out on him, yet he couldn't muster enough backers to become the favorite. Bright Beauty enjoyed that post of honor and her race was about as bad as any race run by a horse at Lincoln Fields this autumn. She never was a contender, and the usually alert T. P. Martin didn't seem to be trying to get her any place. He let her run a little right at the end, but even then she couldn't get into the money.

Lazy Mary Is Second.

Lazy Mary was second to Depression and Beauty Secret third. In the betting Depression paid $7.82.

It was another day in which the favorite players tore out their hair by the roots. The upsets started in the first race when Prince Sulieman gave the favorite, Our Justice, a sound licking. It kept right on going in the second race when the long shot, Axtel, romped home to start off the daily double. He was at $27.68 when he drove down to the finish line eight lengths in front of Olive Sabath, with Untimely far back in third place.

Smear, carrying the light blue and brown of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, sort of soothed the "figure" players by getting home in front. But when he completed the daily double the folks who had paired up the long shot with the heavily backed Smear collected $196 for each $2 ticket.

The next fellow to foil the experts was Hasty Peter. He came galloping home an easy winner of the fourth race, with Marse Chan second and Miss Sparkling third. The heavily backed Polyphote was nowhere. Neither was the red hot tip, Wily Girl, which had been bet on in the final minutes of the speculation.

Chip and Inferno Lad were other good heavy track performers to upset the favorites in the closing races.

U. S. GRAIN CO. REPORT SHOWS HUGE PROFITS

Taxpayers' Millions Used in Deals.

BY PAUL POTTER.

How millions of dollars of taxpayers' funds have been used to enable a group of farm leaders to set up a gigantic grain commission and warehousing business was disclosed yesterday, when access was obtained to a hitherto carefully guarded financial statement of the farm board controlled Farmers National Grain corporation.

The statement, rendered as of May 31, 1932, by a prominent firm of Chicago accountants, relates in detail the inner workings of the corporation which has been reaping profits from dealings on the Chicago Board of Trade. It was this corporation's president, the Rev. Clarence E. Huff, who initiated the move last spring which resulted in a federal commission's order closing the local exchange for sixty days. An appeal has been taken from the commission's order.

130 Million Dollars in Grain.

Among the items in the statement were those showing that the farm board controlled corporation had dealt in 130 million dollars' worth of grains in the year ending May 31, 1932. It showed that commissions amounting to over a half million dollars were made by the firm in future trading alone.

As a grain commission house and warehousing concern, the federally financed corporation borrowed vast sums at low rates of interest. Yet its interest charges for the year were $402,932. And the total profits operating in these two capacities were 6½ millions in the one year.

Administrative expenses in the corporation exceeded 3 millions, the report disclosed. The profit on its hedging operations amounted to $1,113,698.72. With assets which totalled $25,322,040, the corporation includes an item of $643,070, for "good will—less amortization."

5 Millions in Cash.

It was carrying cash assets of almost 5 millions at the end of May, and its grain holdings were inventoried at nearly 5½ millions more, with 11,313,000 bushels of grain on hand.

A loss of $160,867 was shown in the corporation's dealings in flax. Under an item labelled "sundry" was found an expense of a quarter million dollars more. Cash grain sales had resulted in brokerage and commission income of $292,318, in addition to the profits on hedges and future trading operations.

Placed on a basis of the total volume of grain handled by the corporation, the accountants found its income had been 2.65 cents per bushel, and the expenses a half cent per bushel. The amount of business which it handled for the federal government's grain stabilization corporation was not indicated, although it was reported that this business has been the larger part of its total volume of grain handled.

Huge Profits Revealed.

Experts in the grain trade consulted yesterday expressed the opinion that the governmentally sponsored "co-operative" had shown by this statement that its operations were similar to those conducted in grain marketing for decades, yet on a large scale. The only difference, they pointed out, was that the corporation with a paid in capital of less than $800,000, had been able to show net profits of $1,297,579.44 in one year only by handling the government's wheat in the unsuccessful stabilization efforts.

They also pointed out that these profits could not have been made except for large volumes of trading in the futures pits and in hedging on the market which they had petitioned the federal grain commission to close. One of the objectives of the farm board, it was emphasized, was that set out in the farm marketing act: "to minimize speculation."

The Farmers National Grain corporation audit is one of several which were withheld from the Board of Trade by the corporation, both in the exchange's inquiry into the corporation's standing, and in the hearings of the federal grain commission in Washington recently.

Corn, Selling at $2.65 a Ton, Used as Fuel

BY HOWARD WOOD.

On the basis of yesterday's quotations corn in western Iowa is selling at the rate of about $2.65 a ton. Prices broke about a cent per bushel on liquidation and heavy hedging sales.

Crop observers reported that bidding for new No. 4 corn was at levels that would net the farmer out west of Des Moines about 7 cents per bushel on his 1932 crop—figuring freight to Chicago at 20 cents per bushel.

Corn for September delivery was only 6¼ cents above the all time low of 19⅛ cents, established in September, 1898.

Experts say that this low price introduces a new element into calculations concerning consumption for corn at $2.65 a ton is cheaper than any coal it is possible for the farmer to buy.

Bulletin on Fuel Use.

Tremendous consumption of corn as fuel is indicated, say crop experts in Chicago. Out at Ames, Ia., the state college is getting out a bulletin on the use of corn as fuel.

Corn is netting Illinois farmers a little more per bushel. Yesterday about a half million bushels of corn, mostly from Illinois, changed hands at prices netting the farmer from 12 to 13 cents.

Low prices for corn mean better profits for the hog raiser and the cattle feeder. Only about 15 per cent of the nation's corn leaves the county in which it is raised. Forty per cent of the total crop is fed to hogs, 20 per cent to horses and mules, 15 per cent to cattle on farms, and 4 per cent to poultry. The rest is fed to sheep, burned, or used for seed.

Yesterday's average price for hogs was about $3.85 per hundred pounds. At that level, considering the low price for corn, the hog raiser is all set to make a good profit. Live stock men estimate that hogs can be raised profitably if they can be sold at a price ten times the price of corn. Yesterday hogs were selling about fourteen times the price of corn.

Cattle Raisers Profit.

Cheap corn also is a boon to the farmers who import thin range cattle from the west and feed them for market. Cattle prices yesterday averaged between $6.50 and $8.50 per hundred pounds.

Cheapness of corn is looked upon as a boon to the various schemes for financing cattle feeders in the middle west. In addition to the ordinary loans made to cattle raisers by local banks, various plans are already under way to extend additional credit where it is needed. A syndicate of packers has announced that it will make live stock loans to farmers, and the Regional Agricultural Credit corporation is getting ready to function.

This year's corn crop is a big one. Local experts on Sept. 1 estimated that it would be around 2,900,000,000 bushels, compared with the 1924-1928 average of 2,600,000,000 bushels. The government estimate on Sept. 1 was 2,854,000,000 bushels.

RETAIL SALES FOR CASH INCREASE IN FIRST SIX MONTHS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Cash sales of retail establishments showed a slight increase, while open credit and installment sales decreased slightly in the first six months of the present year.

A commerce department report today showed that cash sales reported had increased from 45.3 for last year's first six months, to 47.5, while open credit sales decreased from 45 to 43.4 per cent and installment sales dropped from 9.7 to 9.1 per cent.

The department said that considering total net sales of all stores reporting by cities it was found that all showed large decreases in sales. Washington, D. C., with a decline of 6.6 had the smallest, and Portland, Ore., with a drop of 33.1 per cent had the greatest decrease.

The survey found conditions in the retail credit field continued relatively stable during the period examined.

Europe Consumes 6% Less Sugar; Produces 30% Less

Sugar statistics of ten European countries for the first eleven months of their crop year show the following results, according to E. W. Dyer & Co.: Consumption is lower by 389,659 long tons, or 6.1 per cent, compared with the same period last year: production is off 2,172,199 tons, or 30.3 per cent; stocks on Aug. 1 were 248,930 tons less than a year ago.

GENERAL MOTORS TO PLACE OFFICE STAFFS ON FIVE DAY SCHEDULE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—The General Motors corporation, largest producing unit in the automobile field, will place its office staffs in New York and Detroit on a five day week, beginning Oct. 1, to cooperate with President Hoover's plan to spread employment, it was learned today.

The unique feature of the move is that there will be no accompanying reduction in the salaries of the 10,000 to 15,000 employés to be affected and it was reported that some departments of the organization will have to expand to handle their work.

General Motors thus will be the first of the great industrial corporations to swing into line with the President's unemployment relief committee, which is headed by Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

The aim of this committee is to spread employment by introduction of the five day week through industry and thus afford a broader base of purchasing power. It is thought in some quarters this will aid the recovery now believed to be under way.

The General Motors plan, however, will not affect the men in the plants and will be confined solely to the office staffs. The plants now are working on a curtailed schedule, this being the slack season in the industry.

FOREIGN LOANS BY R. F. C. LIKELY AS FARMER AID

Planned to Precede Election Day.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—American loans to foreign governments today became a possible result of the administration's efforts to do something substantial for the farmer—particularly the midwestern and northwestern farmer—before election day.

The program of farm help in a hurry has developed into three lines of activity:

1. Loans from the Recontruction Finance corporation to finance the export of agricultural commodities.

2. Talk of a possible moratorium on farm debts.

3. Extension of the leniency granted wheat farmers with respect to their crop production loans to all classes of farmers where need can be proved.

It is under the first category that loans may be made to foreign nations. It was learned at the Reconstruction Finance corporation today that if the recently discussed sale $8,000,000 of Pacific northwest wheat to China is consumated, the trade probably will mean the advance of the money by the corporation, with the Chinese government securing the loan. A lien on Chinese customs security has been discussed.

Visited by Chicago Group.

At the same time it was learned that the President has been appealed to use his offices in obtaining further loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to enable the private grain trade to sell abroad to countries unable to pay spot cash.

Robert P. Boylan, James Norris, Robert MacDougal, and S. C. Harris of the Chicago board of trade visited the President today and made such a request of him. There was also discussion of the litigation, now on appeal, growing out of the board of trade's refusal of membership to the farmer's national grain corporation cooperative. It was reported a settlement of the controversy might be looked for.

The Board of Trade committee was particularly anxious to see Reconstruction Finance corporation loans made to assist the sale of corn to European countries. They believed foreign governments would buy the American grain for feeding purposes provided adequate credit were furnished.

President Wires a Governor.

Only a few hours before Gov. Roosevelt's second farm speech at Sioux City, Ia., White House officials gave out the telegram in which President Hoover yesterday notified Gov. Dan W. Turner of Iowa of today's farm credit meeting in Chicago.

"You will be glad to know that I have secured a preliminary discussion amongst eastern mortgage concerns and governmental agencies of farm mortgages," the President's message said. "As a result, Mr. Henry Robinson, chairman of the executive committee of the federal reserve banking and industrial committees, has arranged for a further meeting of members of those committees for the midwest districts, together with representatives of mortgage agencies in Chicago at the federal reserve bank in Chicago tomorrow. It is to be followed by a more extended meeting on Friday. I am very hopeful that constructive steps will follow from these conferences."

HOLD MEETING HERE

The preliminary conference on providing farm credit held at the Federal Reserve bank here yesterday was called to "do the spade work," according to Mr. Robinson, who presided. Today he said the conferees expect to come to some decision on farm credit. Most of the chairmen and vice chairmen of the district federal reserve banking and industrial committees in the Chicago area attended.

Today's meeting is seen as the first real expression of the demand which has been growing for several months for a moratorium on farm mortgages.

Mr. Robinson said yesterday that he had no idea what would develop at today's meeting, but that he hoped some concrete plan would be worked out which would take the pressure off the farmer and at the same time not work any hardship on the holders of mortgages. He pointed out that holders of mortgages in many instances are also borrowers.

Gardner C. Cowles, successor to Charles G. Dawes as president of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, arrived in Chicago yesterday to attend the meetings. Mr. Cowles was optimistic about business prospects.

China Ready to Buy.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 29.—(AP)—The Journal says word has been received by the Portland grain trade that private interests in China are preparing to purchase 11,000,000 bushels of wheat immediately on the cash basis of the world price.

The transaction, the Journal says, would not be carried out in event the Reconstruction Finance corporation agrees to finance the sale of 25,000,000 bushels of wheat to China, as proposed by northwest grain growers.

Deny Eastern Rolling and Bethlehem Talk Merger

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—H. A. Haslett, president of Eastern Rolling Mill company of Baltimore, today denied that there had been any conversations with Bethlehem Steel concerning acquisition of his company by Bethlehem.

Federal Banks' Reserve Sets Record High

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The twin forces of steady gold gains and the return of hoarded currencies to the banks had resulted today in boosting excess reserves of federal reserve member banks to the unparalleled figure of about $400,000,000.

This is money placed with the federal reserve banks above the legal requirements of member banks. It is idle money and the amount is sufficient to form a base for extending $4,000,000,000 of additional credit.

Could Erase Surplus.

The federal reserve system, bankers pointed out, has the power to reduce this large total, but is not doing so because it is seeking to stimulate the more active use of credit by making it so abundant that the banks will seek outlets where they can put their funds to work. By selling its present heavy holdings of government bonds, the reserve banks could sop up most, or all, of the surplus.

A further gain of $20,000,000 was reported for the week ended yesterday in the nation's monetary gold stocks. The total is now $4,185,000,000. On June 15, when the low point of the summer's gold exodus was reached, the nation's gold supply had dipped down to $3,909,000,000. The increase since then has been $276,000,000.

Hoarding Is Blocked.

In the meantime, currency has continued to come back to banks from mattresses and tin boxes of the hoarders. Because of this improvement, money circulation as reported by the federal reserve system decreased another $37,000,000 last week.

REBEL DEFEATS BREAK COFFEE FUTURE PRICES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—The price of coffee futures broke sharply on the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange today on reports that the rebellion in the state of Sao Paulo, Brazil, and the resulting closing of coffee export ports, was nearing defeat at the hands of Brazilian federal troops.

The December delivery of Santos coffee, which has been the market leader in the war born boom of recent weeks, sold off 200 points, the maximum fluctuation allowed by the exchange in a single day. This delivery closed yesterday at 12.71c a pound and opened today at 10.71c. No trading below the latter price today was allowed by the rules.

Other deliveries slumped 50 to 135 points as word was received that the Brazilian troops had taken eleven Sao Paulo cities in the last forty-eight hours. Private dispatches indicated that the revolution was losing its strength.

CHAIN STORES PUT HIGH RENTS IN SPOTLIGHT

Tax Burden Is Real Key to Problem.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

A recent action by the United Cigar Stores company in seeking to place itself in voluntary bankruptcy and the suggestion by the Louis K. Liggett company, drug chain, that it may have to go into receivership unless it is able to obtain reductions of rentals brings into the spotlight a serious situation affecting both operators of chain stores and owners of real estate.

Many chains along with other businesses assert that they are not able to make money and pay rentals contracted in the palmy days of 1928 and 1929. On the other hand owners of buildings assert that they still have the same fixed charges to meet as they did in 1928 and 1929 and they must pay the same interest rate on their mortgages.

Taxation Real Key.

And stalking in the background is the villain in the situation—high and excessive taxation which does not permit the property owner to lower his rentals without the fear of losing his property.

As a result of this situation, meetings are now being held in many large cities in which property owners are uniting to protect their interests. Then there is to be a meeting of the brokers' division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at the Congress hotel where on Oct. 7 at which some 500 are expected.

Several owners of property who declined to be quoted now were united in saying that if the United Cigar Stores company is allowed to abrogate its leases as a result of its bankruptcy action a most serious threat will be raised against real estate values in this country because other big chains likely will follow suit.

Owner Cites Example.

"If we cannot make a lease without the threat of its being broken through unfair resort to the bankruptcy court, how can we maintain our commitments," one owner of real estate said. "Take my own case. I own a piece of property on the northwest side on which my fixed charges today are the same as they were in 1929, but my taxes have been increased from $1,450 to $3,880 in this period.

"If I were to make a drastic reduction of rentals, I would lose my building. On the other hand I know the owner of the store is entitled to relief and this I am willing to give to the best of my ability."

Another real estate operator asserted that both politicians with their high taxes and union labor are yet to be deflated. Until taxes are reduced, he said, real estate owners will get no relief. However, he held that real estate owners should not be relieved of their taxes to have them passed to other sources of revenue.

Rents Too High, But—

In discussing the chain store situation, a New York brokerage house commented yesterday as follows:

"It is very evident that rentals of three or four years ago cannot in many cases be paid today. But here will be asked—what of the landlord—can he afford to reduce rent? It will then be likewise evident that the average landlord cannot substantially cut rents unless his costs for running property are also cut.

"Those costs which are flexible, such as wages of employés, repairs, heating, have come down, but the major elements of cost of running a property are those which remain fixed or have risen, mainly interest on mortgages and taxes."

CANCEL 151 LEASES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—Referee in Bankruptcy Irwin Kurtz today ordered the disaffirming or canceling of 151 leases held by the United Cigar Stores company. The leases had been made for periods of one to 100 years, the longest having 89 years to run.

The order affected leases in New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Detroit, Kansas City, Denver, Omaha, Mobile and other cities. In 96 of the leases the United company was sole tenant, and in 55 there were subtenants.

Stock Ruling Curbs Actions of Specialists

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—The governing committee of the New York Stock exchange today adopted an amendment to the constitution prohibiting specialists in stock, their partners or firms from participating in pool operations.

This drastic action against specialists, whose work makes known to them buying and selling orders in a long range in a given stock, came on the heels of the speech Tuesday by Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, in which it was indicated disciplinary action would be taken along these lines.

The action against the specialists, which also extends to any broker connected with them, is a direct result of the senatorial investigation at Washington into the operations of the stock market.

Abuses Aimed At.

It is aimed at preventing specialists from abusing their knowledge of the buying and selling orders in a stock which would enable associates in a pool operating to take advantage of this knowledge.

The new ruling will be known as section 11 of chapter 14 of the rules and will read as follows:

"No member acting as a specialist and no partner of such a member and no firm in which such a member is a general or special partner shall, directly or indirectly, be interested in a pool dealing or trading in the stock in which such a member is a specialist, nor shall any such member, partner, or firm, directly or indirectly, acquire or grant, in connection with a pool operation, an option to buy or sell or to receive or to deliver shares of the stock in which a member is a specialist."

Statement by Whitney.

In his speech on Tuesday evening Mr. Whitney said that the exchange has always refused to allow members to put their personal interests above that of their customers, and this has been one of the cardinal principles of the big board. In discussing specialists and their relationship to pool operations, he said:

"There is a common but mistaken belief that specialists use for their own advantage the information which comes to them as a result of their business.

"The rules of the exchange provide that a specialist may not purchase stock for his own account when he has an order to buy for a customer, nor may he take stock for his own account from persons who have intrusted selling orders to him unless the price is justified by the market, and he has openly offered in the market the stock which he intends to take for his own account and thereafter has confirmed the transaction with the customer's broker. The same rule also applies on sales by a specialist."

TWO TELEGRAPH COMPANIES FIND TREND UPWARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—Presidents of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies both announced today that business as reflected in telegraph and cable receipts is on the upgrade.

Western Union's prospects are that the company will cover its fixed charges this year despite the deficit shown for the first seven months, Newcomb Carlton, president, said.

"Western Union's business was awful in July, as was the case quite generally with other corporations, but an improvement set in during August which has been maintained," said he, year ago."

Gen. George S. Gibbs, president of the Postal Telegraph and Cable company, announced that business has shown a consistent although not spectacular upward movement during the last eleven weeks.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—Weakness in commodity prices halked every effort today to extend the advance in the stock market and declines were general. Wheat, with losses averaging a cent a bushel in most options, cotton yielding for $2 or thereabouts a bale, and a break of 200 points in coffee were the chief factors. Predictions of lower carloadings figures when the next weekly report comes out was a brake on the rails.

Dribbling sales bore down on the list all day. Closing prices were generally the lowest of the session. Losses ranged from a fraction to 2 points or so.

Business was as dull as it has been since early July. The ticker came to a complete standstill at frequent intervals and the turnover amounted to only about 1,300,000 shares.

Farm Industries Off.

Groups fared about alike. Farm implement and mail order shares came in for a little special drubbing during the afternoon on the poor showing of farm products. Case slid off more than 3 points, International Harvester gave up 1⅝, and both Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck were under some pressure. The last named issue showed a loss of 1⅝ points on its closing sale.

Railroad equipment shares rose in the early dealings but slipped with the rest of the market later on.

United States Steel, American Can, American Telephone, Union Pacific, Westinghouse, General Motors, United Aircraft, and other recent trading favorites suffered more from neglect than from any particular selling pressure. They dragged along behind minus signs almost from the start and finished in the ruck.

Pool Operators Quit.

The pools lately supposed to be so active in some of them seemed to have quit for the time being. Brokers said that the exchange's new order prohibiting specialists from participating in pool activities might have had something to do with the performance of the favorites. Some of the victims of the order were reported to be taking steps to get rid of their "deals," no means having been found to get around the new restrictions.

Preferred stocks were mixed. Changes in this department ranged from a gain of about 4 points in International Harvester preferred to losses of 6 and 7 points in the preferreds of Shell Union Oil and United Dye.

Work will be resumed on a half time basis on Oct. 10, train crews working two weeks a month.

Recall 1,000 in Indiana.

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—American Sheet and Tin Plate company, a subsidiary of United States Steel corporation, will resume operations Monday at the American works, Elwood, Ind., an announcement here today said. More than 1,000 men who have been idle since last spring will get jobs.

New York, Sept. 29.—Profit taking in late deals held the general bond market in leash today after most sections had scored moderate gains in early trading. There was no appreciable gain in volume. Foreign issues were a feature of consistent strength and accounted for a large portion of the turnover.

The early advance saw high grade utility and railroad bonds continuing their steady improvement, although in restricted volume. Since there are few of this class for sale, a small demand works a quick effect upon prices. Higher prices were paid for Detroit Edison 4½s, Consolidated Gas 5s, Santa Fé general 4s, American Telephone 5s of 1965, New York Edison 5s of 1944, and Niagara Lockport 5s.

Rails Chief Losers.

Speculative rail bonds were the chief losers in the late recession. Nickel Plate 6s had another sinking spell of about 3 points. Ease in this issue, due next Saturday, was attributed to the fact that as of yesterday only 59 per cent of the maturing notes had been deposited under the refunding plan. On the curb exchange the when issued notes of the road also dipped around 3 points.

Continuing the movement which attracted so much attention yesterday, Australian bonds went through their old highs, the range of advances being 1 to 3 points in the case of the Commonwealth, Sydney, New South Wales, and Queensland issues before they ran into profit taking around noon.

Stimulation to German bonds generally was felt to have resulted from the further postponement of interest payments due Sept. 30 to this country.

Near Previous High.

Reich 5½s came within a fraction of their previous high, while new high prices were paid for Saxon Public Works 6½s, German Agricultural Bank 5s, Berlin City Electric 6½s of 1959. Italian bonds also were in strong demand at substantially higher prices, particularly Rome 6½s, Italian Public Utility credit 7s, and Fiat 7s. New high prices were paid also for Canadian 4½s, Bergen 5s, Finland 5½s. Argentines were stronger.

United States government bonds still remained in the narrow groove to which they have accustomed themselves pending definite news concerning October treasury financing.

Monsanto Chemical.

I am writing for information on Monsanto Chemical Works stock.—N. E.

Monsanto Chemical Works is one of the largest manufacturers of fine chemicals in the United States. It is also an important producer of heavy chemicals.

Monsanto Chemical Works, Ltd., its British subsidiary, normally accounts for about 25 per cent of the total business. Its operations have been favored by abandonment of the free trade policy and the suspension of the gold standard.

The company spent about $5,000,000 in improvements and expansion during the three years through 1931.

Selling prices in 1931 were about 10 per cent less than in 1930 and about 20 per cent less than in 1929.

Net profit for the first half of 1932 was $534,000, or $1.25 per share, against net of $671,000, or $1.57 per share, for the first six months of 1931.

Net for 1931 was $1,281,000, or $2.98 per share. This was before loss of $234,000 on foreign exchange. Net for 1930 was $733,000, or $1.71 per share, against net income of $1,691,000 for 1929.

Normal operations in 1930 were interrupted by fire.

On June 30, 1932, current assets were $6,126,000 and current liabilities were $944,000. Cash assets were more than $2,000,000. Working capital was $5,182,000, against $5,358,000 the year before.

Funded debt totals $1,604,000. There are outstanding 429,000 shares of no par capital stock.

Dividends have been paid at the quarterly rate of 31¼ cents per share since the two for one stock split in July, 1929.

The company has been active in the development of new products and future growth will probably be from that source. The demand for its products is stable. An improvement in general conditions should help earnings, although probably not to as great an extent as with companies dealing primarily in heavy chemicals.

Keystone Steel and Wire.

In a letter dated Sept. 21, 1932, Mr. W. O. Fritze, assistant treasurer of Keystone Steel and Wire company, informed us that the company is purchasing its 6 per cent notes, due Jan. 1, 1933, at par and accrued interest. He said: "Any investor having any of these notes can secure full value for them from the company if he will get in touch with us."

Closed Mortgage.

What is a closed mortgage?—A. S.

A closed mortgage is a mortgage under which no additional indebtedness can be incurred.

WHEAT SELLS OFF AFTER BREAK IN WINNIPEG MART

Corn and Oats Touch New Lows for Season.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A break of over 1c in the Winnipeg wheat market which carried all deliveries down to a new low for the season, with the December dropping to 49¾c at the close led to fairly general selling of futures in Chicago. The Chicago market reversed its action of Wednesday, opening slightly higher on buying by houses with eastern connections and then broke 1⅜@1⅝c from the early high, finishing about the bottom with net losses of ⅞c. September was 51⅝c at the last with December, 53¾@53⅞c, and May, 58⅞@59c.

There was buying of wheat futures at various times during the day in the local market by the east which caused minor upturns but it was very noticeable that as soon as the support ceased the price eased quickly.

For sometime past the trade has been regarding the Winipeg October wheat delivery as being pegged at 50c, but the rapidity of the decline with stop loss orders uncovered on the way down indicated little support. The Canadian market closed 1@1⅜c lower, with October at 49⅝c and December at 51⅛c in Canadian funds.

Undertone Heavy at Close.

Buying against bids and short covering checked the break in wheat but the undertone was heavy at the last. There was little in the general run of the news to induce operators to take a stand on the buying side. Liverpool failed to reflect the strength in American markets late Wednesday and closed unchanged to ¼c lower.

A big export business in Canadian cash wheat has brought sales the last two days estimated as high a 2,500,000 bu, but the total has been insufficient to offset the effect of hedging sales in the futures.

Movement of wheat to interior points in the Canadian northwest is expected to continue extremely heavy until around the middle of October, according to an estimate made by R. O. Cromwell, the Lamson Bros. & Co. statistician. The Winnipeg October selling at equal 44⅞c on a gold basis compared with 51⅜c for Chicago September the trade sees little chance of export business in American hard winter at the present time.

Corn and Oats at New Low.

All deliveries of corn and May oats sold at a new low for the season. Stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down, with the September selling off 1⅜c from Wednesday's finish to 25¾c, a price that has not been witnessed since January, 1898, when it was down to 24¾c. However, the inside figure yesterday was 6¼c above the record low of 19¼c established in September, 1898.

Buying against bids checked the break but the finish was about the bottom with net losses of ⅞@1¼c with the May leading. September closed at 25¾c; December, 27½@27¾c, and May, 32½c.

Scattered liquidation developed in oats and also rye. The former was ⅝@⅞c lower at the finish with December at 17⅜@17½c, and May at 20c, or the inside figures for the day. Rye lost ⅝@1½c with September leading. The latter closed at 32¼c with December, 35c, and May, 38¾c.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Announcement that a delegation of Chicago grain men had called on President Hoover yesterday in regard to use of finance reconstruction funds to facilitate exports of grain caused considerable comment in the trade. While the move was regarded as constructive, the general disposition was to wait for further details. Theoretically American corn was about on an export basis as compared with Rotterdam yesterday. November corn in latetr city was quoted at 37⅞c, while Chicago September was over 12c under the foreign market.

Bearish sentiment predominated among wheat traders after the close. The aggressive buying of futures by houses with eastern connections at times is regarded as sufficient to bring about rallies, but the latter continue to run into a good class of selling. Spreading operations with Winnipeg tends to check bullish operations.

According to Winnipeg messages there was buying of December wheat there at 51⅛c by brokers who frequently act for the dominion pool. On Wednesday support was given at 51⅜c. The finish, however, was at the bottom, with all deliveries at a new low for the season.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw gained another 1-32c today as refiners continued to show interest in nearby supplies. Sales reported were 50,500 bags of Philippines for October arrival to an outport refiner at 3.18c. Early gains in futures were not maintained as offerings increased on bulges and the market closed net unchanged to 1 point higher. Trading was more active with total sales of 16,950 tons, about one-third of which were in the December position. Prices follow:

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 2,000; hogs, 15,000; sheep, 12,000.

The bulk of hogs sold on a lower basis again yesterday. The general average cost went down 10c to $3.85, lowest since June 22. Some losses of 15@20c were registered in 140@200 lb. averages as the proportion of light weights in the run grew to the largest of the season.

Yesterday marked the parting of the ways for light and butcher grades which have been selling almost in the same notch this week. Prime 250@280 lb. averages, mostly last fall and winter pigs, were scare and prices in these weights tilted upward, despite the break in all other weights and classes. Gains of as much as 5@10c were cited in some. Butcher grades headed the list for the first time of the season, selling up to $4.30. In 1931 butchers replaced light weights at the top at an earlier date, but in most other years the change came later in the fall and early winter. Bulk of the butcher weights brought $4.10@4.25, while the majority of 170@200 lb. light weights sold at $4.00@4.15.

Lighter Cattle Received.

There was a lighter tonnage of beef in yesterday's cattle receipts, because of the larger share of light steers and yearlings. Numbers were also smaller. This let-up, coupled with the 11 per cent decrease in the week's total, paved the way for another mild recovery. The market was not of the runaway type, but action was fairly good on local account and a good clearance was effected without much eastern competition.

Yesterday's quality was not up to the preceding session. Only occasional sales passed $9.00, with the bulk of beef steers at $6.50@8.50. Armour paid the top of $10.35 for a shipment of 1,259 lb averages. Selling lately emphasizes the wide spread between good and prime cattle. Many steers going at $8.00 and below have been on feed a long time and some fair quality fleshy corn-fed steers are being sold at $7.00 and below.

Lambs at New Low.

The new crop lambs yesterday plunged into the lowest price levels of the season on one of the dreariest markets in weeks. Prices go back to the low point in May when the "tailends' of last year's crop sold at a top of $4.75. Yesterday's peak for hand picked natives to packers rested at $5.60, while top range lambs to packers brought $5.35, the bulk of both classes selling at $5.00@5.25.

Potatoes easier with receipts, 115 cars and 348 cars on track. Live hens and rock springs were ½c lower with spring ducks steady to ½c lower. Geese were 1c lower at 9c. Receipts, 3 cars and 39 trucks.

Fair Rentals

But No "Concession Tax"

That is what we aim to accomplish for Chicago's Great Renting Public.

We could give you six months of concessions if for the other six months you paid double the rent rate. But we do not believe in the "concession tax" idea and for that reason do not offer such concessions.

As a matter of fact, our aim is to point out the unsoundness of the practice with the following thought: WHEN YOU GET A CONCESSION IN RENT YOU PAY FOR IT.

We will continue to expose the "Concession Tax" idea, which in our opinion, places a hardship on the great majority of renters.
